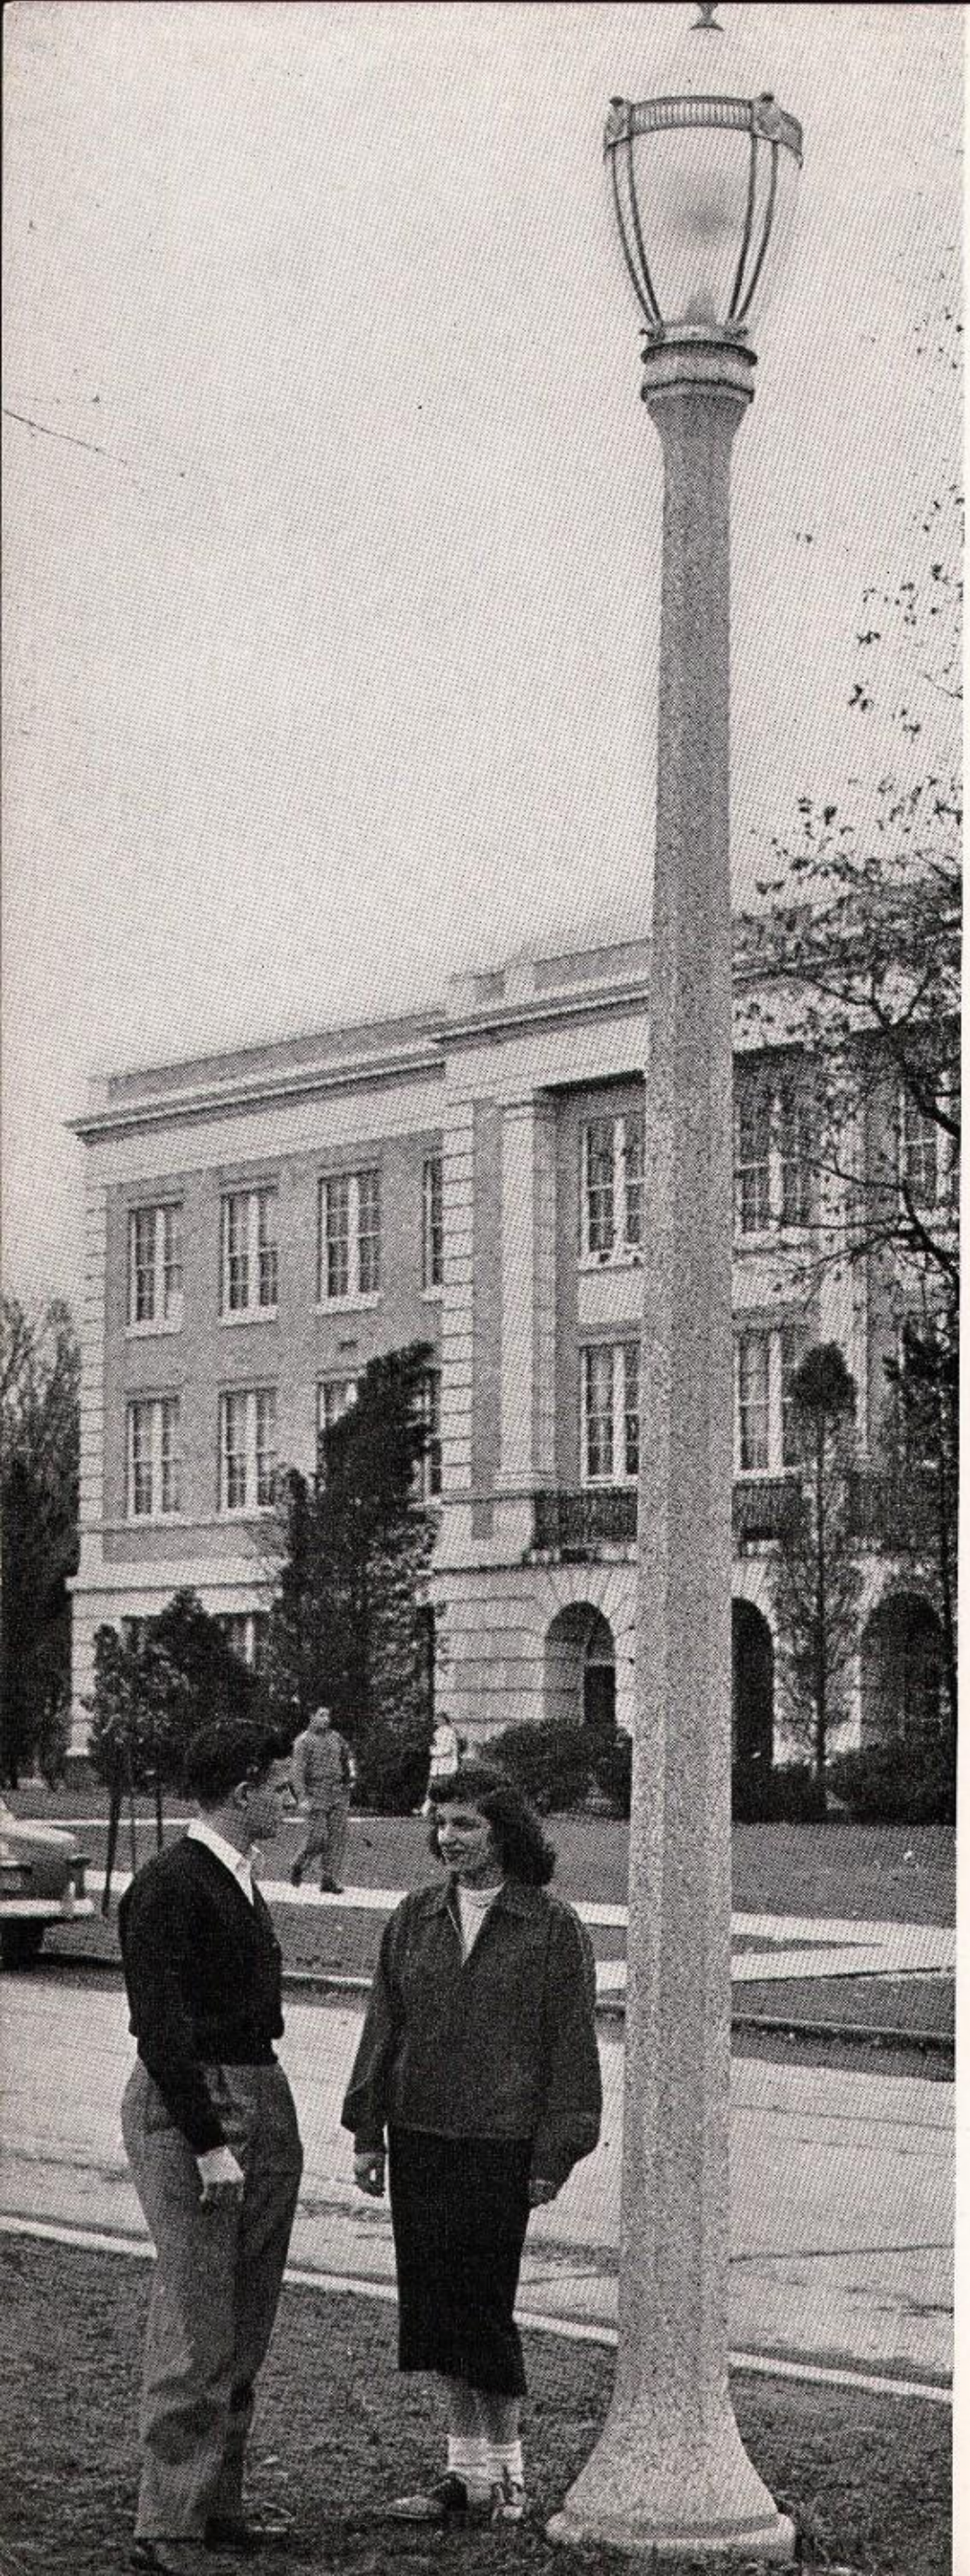
GREEN STATE UNIVERSITY



PREFACE

This year has been an eventful one at Bowling Green. In addition to the usual turmoil of study, and the bustle of activity, the shadow of war was once again cast over the University.

The Korean conflict had a direct effect on the Bowling Green campus. Enlistments which resulted in a sizeable drop in enrollment and the addition of an air force unit made the Bowling Green student aware of the current unsettled world situation.

To relate the events of 1950-51 is the purpose of this thirtieth volume of the Key. This yearbook has deviated in many respects from the previously set pattern. No attempt is made to follow a theme. Rather, the book tells the story of the year as completely, clearly, and logically as possible.

With this objective in mind we started taking pictures and compiling information last spring. The job has not been without difficulties, but we can now look back on our late-hour sessions and many headaches with a feeling of accomplishment.

In the 1951 Key we not only portray the student body, the faculty, and their activities during the year, but also the school itself. We feel proud to record one chapter in the story of the development of Bowling Green from a one-building Normal School for 304 students in 1914 to its present status as a growing university.

We hope the 1951 Key will be a book of memories for every student, a permanent record which will grow in value as the years go by.

ENROLLMENT SHOWED A DROP FROM THE FALL OF 1949

Long Lines and Waiting Were the Order of the Day

Over 1300 freshmen were among the 4200 students enrolled at Bowling Green at the start of the fall semester. The drop from the record-high of 1949 was blamed largely on the threatening war situation. For the first time in four years the number of girls enrolling as frosh nearly equalled the boys entering school. Long lines and waiting, however, were still very much in evidence during the pre-registration period and the first few days of the semester.

Freshmen followed a rather rigid schedule which took care of their registration and orientation, while upperclassmen were left to fend for themselves. Frosh found themselves confronted with scowling upperclassmen who demanded to know where their beanies were and that they sing the alma mater or face the dire consequences.

Week-day Evenings Found the Libe Crowded

Students soon found themselves confronted with piles of homework, and the libe could be found crowded about every week-day evening—although not always for studying.

The social life at Bowling Green was already taking shape with the usual weekend dances and movies, and plans for bigger and more interesting happenings were already formulating.

Continuing in the tradition of previous years the Artists Series began its year's program with a concert by the United States Marine Band which performed before two full houses.

A New National Frat Was Added

In spite of the drop in enrollment things continued at Bowling Green in a big way. The Bee Gee News published a record-sized opening edition of twelve pages, and the Key announced an increase in size.

Among the Greeks, Beta Sigma was installed as Phi Kappa Psi to become the thirteenth national on the Bowling Green campus.

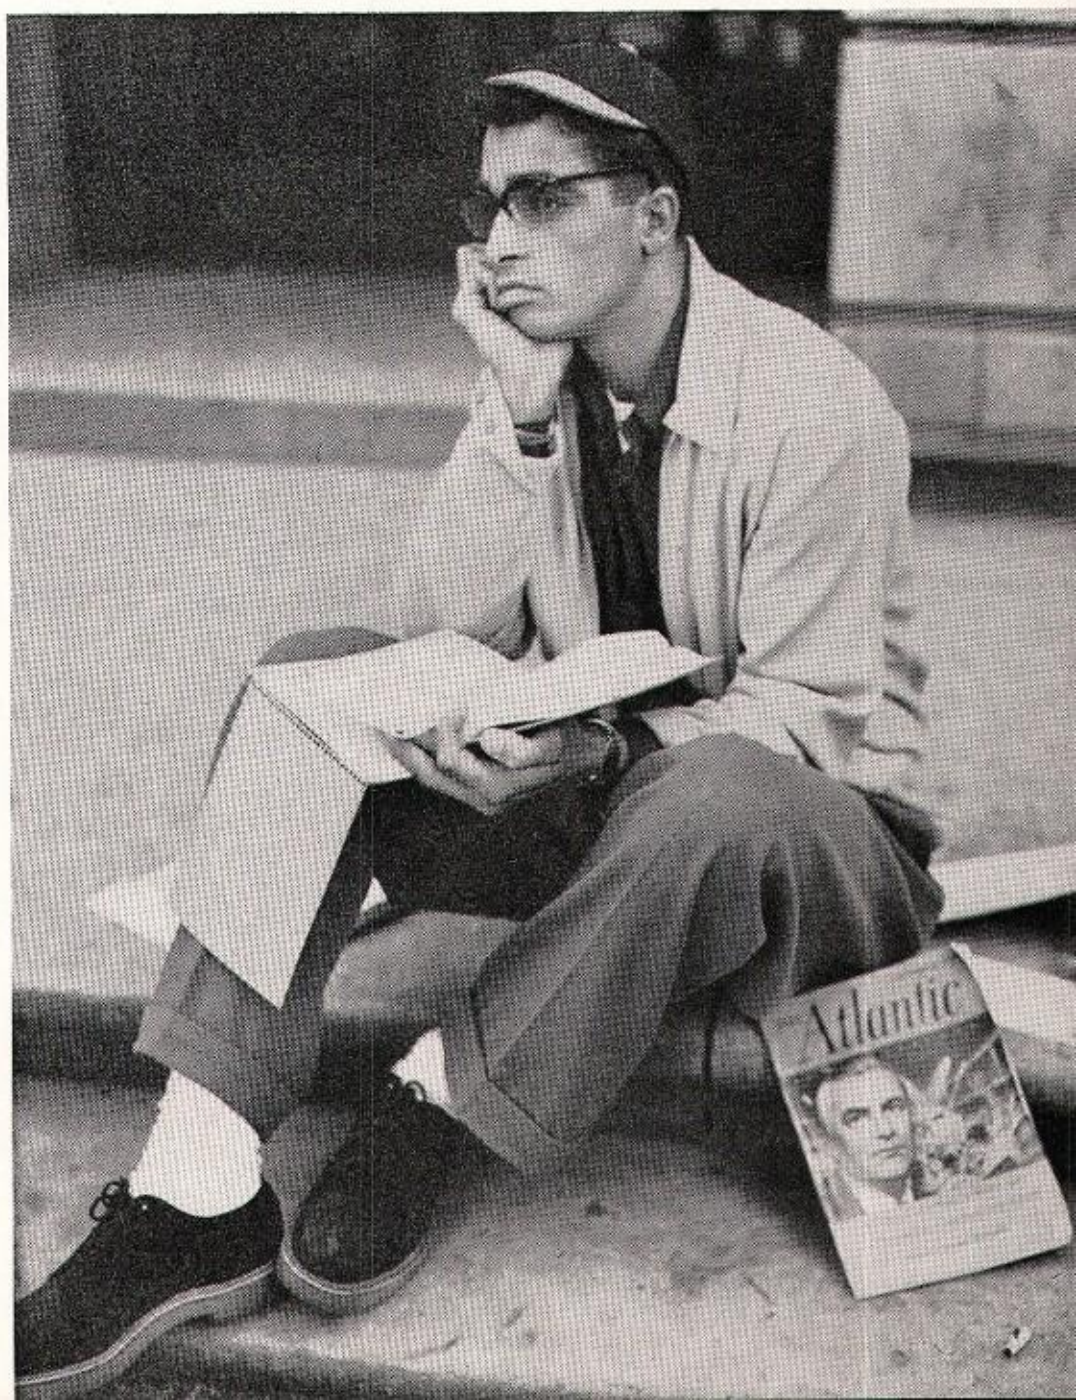
Football Took the Fall Sports Spotlight

September also saw the school's sports program get underway. The Falcon basketball team had just returned from a successful South American tour, playing many teams from that continent.

On the gridiron, Bowling Green opened its football schedule with a scoreless tie with Rider College. The Bowling Green harriers started their successful season shortly after the summer vacation.

The intramural program was also in full swing with touch football, golf, and tennis heading the fall card. Highlighting the intramural football program were many traditional rivalries such as the Chi Bowl, the Mud Bowl, and the Little Brown Jug game.



This frosh seems a little disgruntled by it all.

The Marine Band made its second appearance on the Bowling Green campus, playing to enthusiastic, full houses.

THREE THOUSAND ALUMNI RETURNED FOR HOMECOMING

With the first week of October the activities really began to pile up. The annual Key parade was scheduled for the first week—only to be postponed for the first time in the event's history, when the well-known "Bowling Green rains" came. However, the next Sunday was a sunny one. The Alpha Chi Omega float, "A Sundae Special" was awarded top honors and the colorful parade drew over 2000 spectators.

Falcons Posted First Gridiron Win Over Bradley

In October the Bowling Green football squad won an upset victory over the Bradley eleven before a Dads' Day crowd. Paul Bonfiglio, father of end Frank Bonfiglio, was named "Football Dad of 1950".

Plans were already formulating for the big event of the fall semester-homecoming. Students happily learned they would be able to use cars during the weekend. Plans were also underway for a big all-campus charity drive which consolidated all of the charity drives on campus into one big event.

Homecoming Queen and Key Finalists Were Selected by the Students

Elections of all sorts were on tap during October. The freshmen class elected their representatives and students voted for homecoming queen and the Key finalists—all during one week.

During October Phi Delta local became the fourteenth national on campus as a chapter in Phi Delta Theta.

B.G. Tied B.W. in Homecoming Game

At last the long-awaited homecoming weekend was here. The all-student musical "Love Goes to College", a musical satire on Bowling Green was given this weekend. All fraternities and sororities gave dances or held parties for their many returning alums. Approximately 3000 old grads returned to their alma mater for the weekend activities. Highlight of the week was the homecoming football game with Baldwin Wallace which ended in a thrilling 34-34 tie. Nedra Mason was crowned homecoming queen at half-time ceremonies. Alpha Phi in the women's division and Zeta Beta Tau in the men's took first place honors for homecoming decorations.

Falcons Defeat T.U. on the Gridiron

Bowling Green harriers were keeping up their winning ways during October with Marvin Crosten setting a new varsity record in a dual meet with Ball State.

Bowling Green gridders ended October on a pleasing note by trouncing their arch rivals, Toledo, 39-14, in the Glass Bowl.

Sailboats at the Bowling Green sponsored regatta.

THE ALL-CAMPUS CHARITY DRIVE NETTED OVER $2,600

The Kent State game was annual "migration day" for the Falcons; the Bowling Green eleven bowed to Kent 19-6 in the mud and rain before a good-sized group of Bowling Green supporters.

The annual Christian Living Emphasis Week was held early in November. This program brought many leading churchmen to this campus who spoke to student groups and led informal bull sessions at the various houses.

November also brought pledging with the 16 fraternities handing out 166 bids.

The Combined Charity Drive Netted $2600

The combined charity week also got underway during the second week in November. The weeks program was highlighted by the Ugly Man and Ugly Woman contests—money being cast as votes. The newly initiated powder bowl contest was witnessed by a large crowd in spite of the cold weather. The "Three Men on a Horse," a 3 act farce, was the first major production to be presented by the University Theater this year.

The University Symphony orchestra also presented their first concert in November. The A Cappella choir went to Cleveland for a weekend of concerts, a radio program, and a television show.

Phi Kappa Tau fraternity was officially installed at Bowling Green during this month.

Students Had an Extended Thanksgiving Vacation

The second annual turkey shoot was held just before vacation.

Of major concern to all students were mid-terms which were given prior to Thanksgiving. Students went home at Thanksgiving with a sigh of relief and thankfulness for the first vacation since school began. And what a vacation! The four and one-half day vacation, for some, expanded into a week and a half. One to two feet of snowfall congested and blocked all means of transportation throughout Ohio and Pennsylvania. However, things finally cleared enough for everyone to get back. However, a surprisingly large number didn't return at all—men mostly, who because of the draft scare, enlisted in either the air force or the navy.

Delta Gamma team won over the Alpha Xi gridders, 8-0. At half-time a King Puff and attendants were named and crowned. The week's activities culminated in the skit presentations given Friday and Saturday night. Kohl Hall and Zeta Beta Tau captured top honors in this event. Over $2600 was raised through the drive.

Adolphe Menjou, radio and movie star, lectured to Bowling Green students as another in the Artist Series program.

Falcons Won Last Home Game from Youngstown

Falcon supporters made the supreme sacrifice for the last home game, by losing a little valuable sack time to get up at 5 o'clock for a pep rally. The Bowling Green eleven responded by scoring a decisive 22-7 win over Youngstown College.

A record-breaking November snow kept many students home for an extended Thanksgiving vacation.

With Thanksgiving barely over, students began thinking of the next holiday, Christmas, and many of the campus activities centered around this anxiously awaited festive period.

However, other activities were of interest to the Bowling Green student. Basketball as always took the limelight with an eye on a post season invitation. The Falcon quintet started out the season on a good note trouncing Gustavus Adolphus, 70-47. At the same time a swimming squad which Coach Cooper termed "his best yet" were preparing for their long and difficult schedule.

Falcon Quintet Dropped Their First Game to Dayton

A good Dayton ball club gave our basketeers their first loss 57-45. About this time the Falcon basketball team gained further recognition when the radio program "The Ohio Story" featured the rise of Bowling Green, under coach Harold Anderson, in basketball circles.

Christmas music was the order during December. The traditional Christmas Concert given by the University's three choral groups was again presented before a large enthusiastic audience, as was the annual presentation of Handel's Messiah. The concert band also gave a concert just prior to vacation. And as usual, the whole campus turned out to take part in the all-campus Christmas caroling.

Fraternities, Sororities, Clubs Hold Christmas Parties

In keeping with the Yuletide spirit, many clubs, fraternities, and sororities held Christmas parties and dinners—not only for themselves, but for the orphans at the county home and the cerebral palsy sufferers at Happy Hall.

Other activities also were very much evident. Our debaters were competing frequently in many different tournaments, winning high honors in all in which they competed.

Fraternities continued their monthly addition of nationals which had been going on since the first of the semester, with the installation of the local Sigma Psi Omega as the chapter of the national, Sigma Phi Epsilon. A new national sorority appeared on campus when Sigma Rho Tau was established as the seventy-second chapter of Delta Zeta.

In the intramural sports, activity continued at its usual fast tempo with the emphasis being placed on handball, volleyball, and basketball. A new event, the Indoor Relay, was added at which a sorority supported each of entering fraternities. Sigma Alpha Epsilon won first place honors, supported by Alpha Chi Omega.

The Falcons Kept Winning on the Hardwood in December

Meanwhile the Falcon quintet kept their winning ways at home running up wins against Tampa, Arkansas State, Miami, and Texas Tech.

In the all-campus Christmas decoration contest Alpha Gamma Delta, and Sigma Chi took first place honors.

Class room activities halted the Thursday before Christmas and students quickly left for home to meet old friends and see the family again.

STUDENTS VOTED FOR AN INCREASED FEE

B.G. and T.U. cheerleaders hold the traditional peace-pipe during half-timc ceremonies at the game in the fieldhouse.

Well-rested Bowling Green students returned to their books and activities after a much needed Christmas vacation. The world situation and the draft problems prompted quite a few of the men to enlist, thus cutting deeper into Bowling Green, thinning enrollment.

Basketball was in full swing in January. The Falcons after running up an 8-game winning streak and winning the Ohio Invitational College Tourney at Kent, lost three road games to high ranking LIU, LaSalle and Loyola of Chicago. Meanwhile the Falcon swimming team was living up to pre-season predictions by beating Depaul, 53-22 in its opening encounter.

ODK Tapped Men in an Impressive Mid-Year Ceremony

Omicron Delta Kappa, junior and senior men's honorary tapped seven men in an impressive ceremony in the Main Auditorium. Rev. Kermit L. Long was named "alumnus of the year".

Student government came to the front during January when students were asked to voice their opinion concerning raising the fee for the new student union building. The student representatives acting on the wishes of their electorate voted to increase the fee to ten dollars.

Bowling Green Regained Possession of the Peace Pipe from T.U.

A spirited Falcon quintet won the first Toledo game, 66-59, to regain possession of the Peace Pipe. A screaming, excited crowd of Falcon supporters watched the Bowling Green five, stripped of all their height by personals hold on and finally increase their small lead, to win the ball game—in spite of the loss of Jim Gerber, George Beck, Clarence Yackey, Eli Joyce, and Steve Galetti. Shortly following this much sought-after win, the Bowling Green campus was stunned by the announcement of Coach Anderson's retirement for the rest of the year under orders from his physician.

Other sports activity was also evident; wrestling had just begun and the swimming team added several more wins to their season's record. Intramural activity continued at a brisk pace.

"Little Foxes" Was Presented by the University Theater

Little Foxes, a 3-act psychological drama was the second university theater production of the school year.

The university chapel was also dedicated in January after a several-month delay. Chapel programs and Sunday services were regularly held throughout the rest of the year.

Students Crammed for Finals

Before most B.G. students realized it, finals were upon them. Books that had to be read, reports that had to be written, and a multitude of other assignments faced the harried Bowling Green scholar in those final days of the semester. The 2-hour ordeals forced many students to do in one or two evenings the work that was meant to be spaced out over a semester. For some two hundred students these were the last finals as they finished their undergraduate work and received their diplomas at mid-semester graduation ceremonies.

Immediately following finals, 55 A Cappella choir members started on a 3200-mile tour of the Southern states.

Again the threat of war and the draft slashed Bowling Green's enrollment. A drop of almost 600 occurred between semesters.

Shortly after the start of the semester it was disclosed that an air force unit would be trained in clerical work at Bowling Green. Air Corp men at the rate of 25 a week were moved into North Dorm to begin a 12-week course of study.

Faculty Gave Some of the Top Performances of the Year in "Channel No. 5"

Another first was added to the year's accomplishments when Bowling Green was host for the first time to a Big Ten athletic team. The Falcon swimmers met the University of Michigan's team. Records were smashed as our swimmers fell before the U. of M., 48-32.

Another highlight of February's program was the third annual faculty show, "Channel No. 5". Faculty members showed many diverse talents before enthus-

Spring Sports Were Started

March also saw the start of practice for the spring sports. Golfers, tennis players, trackmen, and baseballers, all began practicing for the spring competition. The indoor intramural program was also drawing close to an end to make way for the outdoor activities which would start in April.

SPRING FEVER MADE STUDY HARD

With April came spring weather, and all the outdoor activities that go with it. Students could be seen every afternoon basking in the sunlight in front of the Nest or under a tree on the campus lawns.

The Kappa Sigs held their annual chariot race in April. This colorful event was held on the football practice fields. Competition was divided into two divisions—one for men and one for women.

Fraternities held their annual Greek week in April with a banquet highlighting the week's program.

The Inter-fraternity Sing Was Held in April

The annual Inter-fraternity sing was also held in this month. Another of the important musical events was the combined Glee Clubs concert. The Treble Clef went on a 10-day tour of the Eastern states during April.

On the more serious side, students once again faced the trials of mid-term week, a few (?) sweating out failing grades that might be sent home to their none-too-happy parents.

OVER 600 WERE GRADUATED IN JUNE

May marked an increasing of the already fast tempo of campus life and activity.

The University Was Host to an Invitational Relay

Spring sports were really in full swing by now. Any afternoon a Bowling Green student could wander out by the athletic fields and almost be sure of seeing a tennis or golf match, a track meet, or a baseball game. Bowling Green was again host to the second annual Bowling Green Invitational Relay.

Intramural sports were in full blast with the softball, track and horseshoes comprising the spring sports program. Every evening large crowds of University students could be seen out by the school diamonds cheering their teams on the victory. Picnics and swimming at Urschel Pond were also becoming the order of the day as the weather became increasingly warmer.

ATO's annual Sadie Hawkins Week brought about a change in our social customs with the girl asking the boy out. Beards, and many attempts at beards, were noticeable among the male members on the Bowling Green campus.

May Day, Honors Day, and Graduation Brought the School Year to a Close

The month of May was ushered out in style with the traditional May Day activities which were highlighted by the crowning of the May Queen and her court.

Many students were honored for scholastic and other achievements at the annual Honors Day program. Again the old bugaboo of finals was approaching and students began makng up for lost time in spite of the balmy days.

Graduation and commencement, of course, was the high-light and culmination of undergraduate activities for 650 seniors. Many faced an uncertain future, but all left confident of making some contribution to the present-day world.

Students aren't the only ones who have to work after class hours. The papers that the student spends hours in compiling in turn must be analyzed by the teacher and graded. Here, a member of the faculty is at work grading papers in the deserted classroom.

Frank J. Prout

PRESIDENT PROUT

The individual largely responsible for the tremendous growth and development of Bowling Green State University is its capable president, Dr. Frank J. Prout.

The University has doubled both its enrollment and building facilities since Dr. Prout was appointed to the presidency in April, 1939. He was then Superintendent of Public Schools in Sandusky, Ohio.

President Prout received a B. Lit. from Ohio Wesleyan University and a Ped. D. from both Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio University.

An enthusiastic member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity, Dr. Prout has assisted in and encouraged the establishment of the numerous chapters of national sororities and fraternities on campus.

Although extremely busy with administrative duties, Dr. Prout still devotes much time and attention to the problems of individual students. He is a familiar figure in the campus residences, the Commons, the Nest and daily visits to Johnston Hospital. An avid sports fan, President Prout rarely failed to see the Falcon athletic teams participate in basketball, baseball, and football.

GOVERNOR LAUSCHE

Frank Lausche, serving his third term as Governor of Ohio, is one of the nation's outstanding political figures. Like his father who edited a Slovene language newspaper in Cleveland, Governor Lausche has been distinguished as champion of the underprivileged.

After his discharge from the Army following World War I, Frank Lausche turned down a chance to play professional baseball to attend law school at night and started what has become a political career.

In 1941, he was elected Mayor of Cleveland, and in 1944 was first elected governor of Ohio by a triumphant majority. Following his defeat for reelection in 1946, he ran for office again in 1948 and was elected. Last January, following another campaign, he began his third term in office.

TRUSTEES

The Board of Trustees is the policy making group for the University. Appointed by the Governor of Ohio and confirmed by the State Senate, members serve for a five-year term.

Frazier Reams, Toledo, this year replaced Minor Kershner, Liberty Center, who retired. Mr. Reams is a Representative in the United States Congress.

E. T. Rodgers, publisher and owner of the "Advertiser Tribune" in Tiffin was president of the Board for 1950-51.

Alva Bachman, local attorney and former mayor of Bowling Green is serving his second term. Other members are Carl Schwyn, a banker in Cygnet, and James C. Donnell II, president of the Ohio Oil Co. in Findlay.

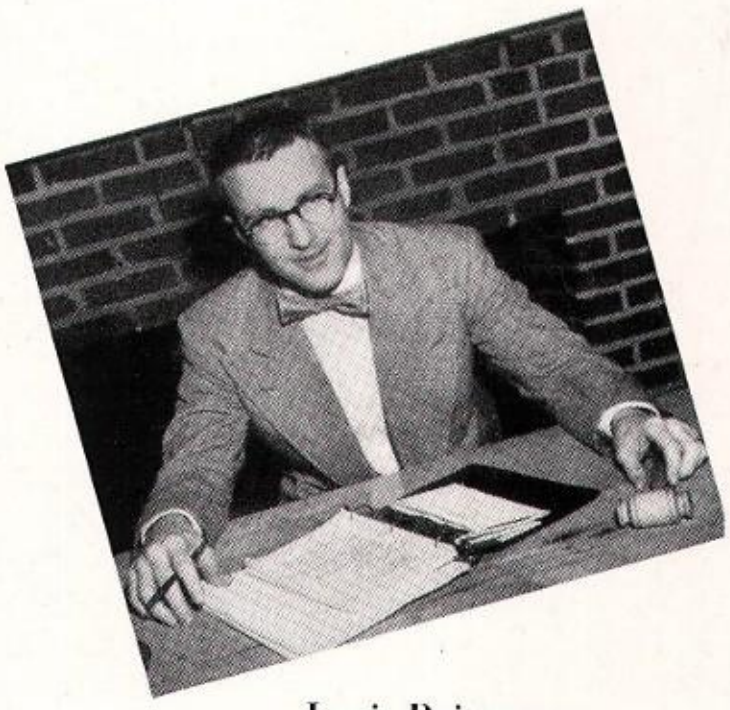
STUDENT SENATE



Louis Daigneau

Student Senate supervises and coordinates campus activities and organizations, and acts as the official representative of the student body in affairs affecting the student's interest. Senate has executive, legislative, and judicial powers, subject to administrative review.

Louis Daigneau served as president until his graduation in February when Marion Hampton took over. Dorothy Burger was corresponding secretary and Vernon Wright, treasurer.

Functional committees appointed by the executive committee of the Senate include: activity fees, athletics, artist series, student publications, student employment, social affairs, and Student Union.

The University-Anniversary Prom, a formal Spring dance featuring a name band, is sponsored annually by Student Senate.

This year for the first time, the Senate conducted the All-Campus Charity Drive which proved highly successful. Other innovations were personal evaluations and key awards for all Senators.

STUDENT COURT

Student Court exercises the judicial powers of Student Senate and is a court of trial, appeals, and judicial review. Five justices are appointed in their junior year by the Student Senate President, and upon confirmation by a two-thirds vote of Student Senate, serve a two-year term.

Charles Kurfess was chief justice for 1950-51 and Dr. Benjamin Pierce, professor of Business Administration, was faculty adviser. Other justices were: Angela Genovese, Niles Fulwyler, Janet Dunson, and George Sharpe. Clerk of Courts was Edward Norwesh. The Student Court held open sessions in the Student Room of the Nest every Wednesday.

Student Court hears and decides all cases involving interpretation of regulations enacted by the Senate, and handles cases involving disputes between campus organizations. It is the court of appeals above any other student judicial board.

Led by President Elinor Elsass, the Association of Women Students continued throughout the year to be a vital part of the life of every coed.

In September AWS presented a revision of the handbook for women entitled "For Female Falcons". A monthly newsletter was published to keep students informed on its activities.

Some of the important events sponsored by AWS are: an informal party to welcome all freshman women, a dinner for women leaders on campus, an all-campus carol sing before the Christmas holidays, the Christmas formal dance, the May Sing, and the Senior Farewell Breakfast.

The Legislative Board plans and carries out all the activities of AWS and makes laws and rules concerning women's government. The Judicial Board supports and enforces these laws.

Dean of Women Mrs. Jesse Currier is adviser to AWS. Other officers of the Executive Board are Pauline Miller, first vice president; Janice Schreiber, second vice president; Jane Winfield, recording secretary; Sue Prinz, corresponding secretary; and Shirley Hollis, treasurer.

EXECUTIVE BOARD: Ellie Elsass, Sue Prinz, Mrs. Jesse J. Currier, Jane Winfield, Polly Miller, Jan Schreiber, Shirley Hollis.

ACTIVITY FEES COMMITTEE

The activity fees committee, headed by Prof. Willard E. Singer, decides what is to be done with the $10 activity charge each student pays per semester. In the spring the six members of the committee determine what percentage of each payment is to be proportioned for art exhibits, journalism activities, speech and dramatic programs, athletics, the Artist Series, music programs, and social committee activities. Special allotments in the past have provided for band uniforms and the movie projector used for campus weekend movies.

The committee is composed of three faculty and three student members. The faculty members are appointed by the University President; the student members, from applications sent to Student Senate. Angie Palermo, Art Van Horn, and Phyllis Blackford represented the senior, junior, and sophomore classes, respectively. Faculty members were Prof. Singer, Dr. Charles A. Barrell, and Dr. Lloyd A. Helms.

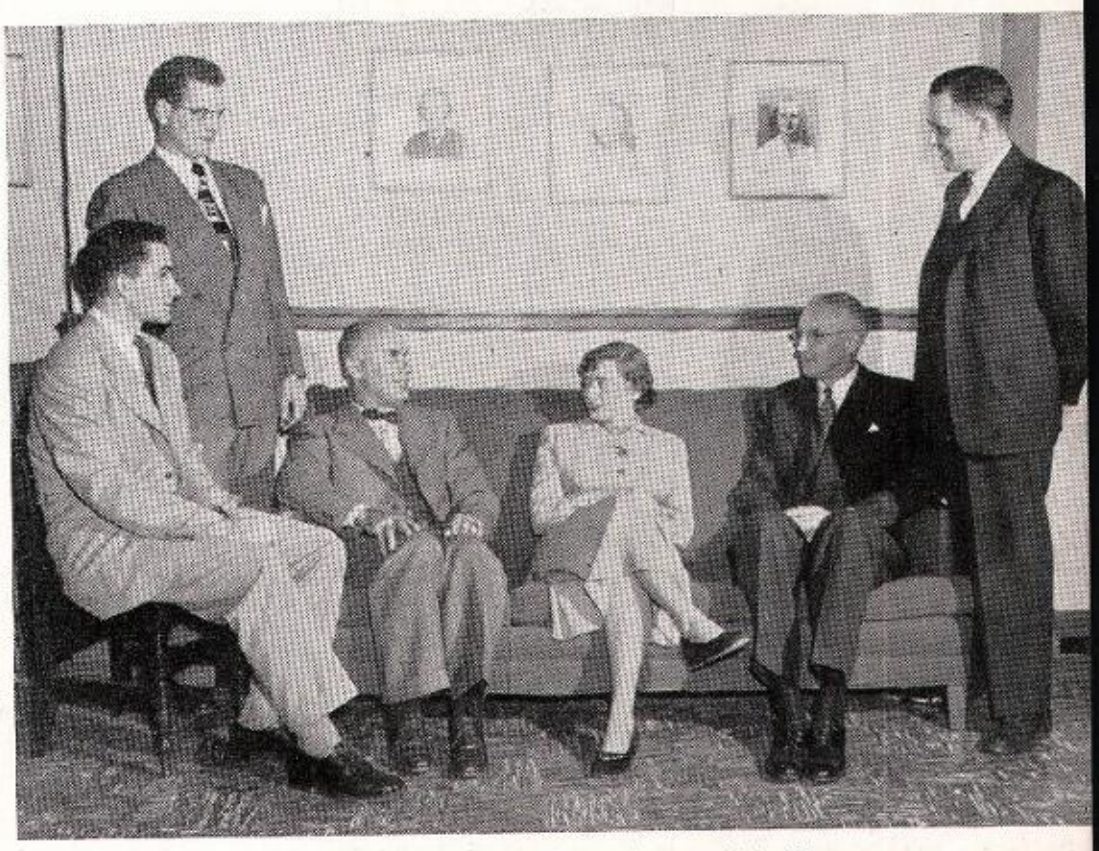
ACTIVITY FEES COMMITTEE: Willard E. Singer, Lloyd A. Helms, Charles A. Barrell.

ARTIST SERIES COMMITTEE

The Artist Series committee brings to the Bowling Green campus famous personalities and groups as frequently as allotted funds permit. A percentage of the student activity fee, supplemented by admission charges paid by the public and the faculty, determines the extent of the Artist Series program.

This year such artists as Morley and Gearhart, the Cleveland Little Symphony, Robert St. John, and Basil Rathbone have been presented to Bowling Green audiences. The committee selects three programs for the summer session and eight programs for the regular session.

Three faculty and three student members compose the committee. The faculty members are appointed by the President of the University and the student members are selected from a list of submitted applications to the Student Senate. Each student member serves for a three-year period. The committee this year was headed by Prof. Wilbur J. Abell.



ARTIST SERIES COMMITTEE: Ray Rennebaum, Bob Conschafter, Wilbur J. Abell, Barbara Nealis, M. C. McEwen, Elden T. Smith.

FRONT ROW: Gilbert W. Cooke, Tom Noland, Daniel J. Crowley, R. G. Harshman, Ned Clark, John W. Bunn. BACK ROW: Kenneth H. McFall, Harold W. Anderson, Dick Cook, Ervin J. Kreischer, Wayne S. Huffman.

ATHLETICS COMMITTEE

Under the direction of Dean Ralph G. Harshman, the athletics committee has been an influential factor in the success of Bowling Green's athletic program. The functions of this committee include the establishment of academic standards for athletes, the approval of the schedule for athletic events, the settlement of questionable cases of eligibility, and the approval of the presentation of athletic awards.

In addition to ex officio member Harold W. Anderson, there are eight faculty and three student members of the committee. John W. Bunn, Dr. Gilbert W. Cooke, Prof. Daniel J. Crowley, Prof. Wayne S. Huffman, Dean Kenneth H. McFall, Ervin J. Kreischer, Prof. Warren E. Steller and Dean R. G. Harshman were the faculty members. Student members, who were selected by Student Senate, were Tom Noland, Dick Cook, and Ned Clark.

ELECTIONS COMMITTEE: Jack Morrow, Fred Jeske, Dotti Burger, Jack Howald, Marilyn McClintock.

ELECTIONS COMMITTEE

Supervising the functioning of election procedure, the elections committee protects the ballot box and counts the ballots, insuring for Bowling Green honest campus elections. The committee itself is a subsidiary of the Student Senate. The Senate not only exercises complete authority over it, but also chooses its members. Students who like this phase of political science must submit an application to the Senate, which chooses the members from these applications.

Members of the elections committee were Fred Jeske, chairman, John Howald, Dorothy Burger, Betty Jane Morris, Marilyn McClintock, and John Morrow. Dr. Charles A. Burrell, as faculty adviser, had chief responsibility over the committee and guided its decisions.

At the initial meeting, members set the dates for all elections and set up regulations governing both voting and campaigning. The committee thus assures the smooth functioning of elections throughout the year.

PUBLICATIONS COMMITTEE

The publications committee, headed by Prof. Jesse J. Currier, has general supervision of all printed material designated as official school publications: the Bee Gee News, the Key, the Freshman Handbook, and the Student Directory. The committee also establishes general policies, appoints editors and business managers, and supervises financing of the publications. If any problems arise, the publications committee settles them during its monthly meeting.

The committee consists of eight members; four faculty advisers and four students. The chairman of the journalism department is automatically chairman of the committee; the other three faculty representatives are appointed by the president of the University. The faculty members were Dean Arch B. Conklin, Prof. Russell N. Baird, and Dr. Paul F. Leedy. The editors of the Bee Gee News and the Key receive their membership automatically while the other student members are chosen by Student Senate from a number of applicants.

STUDENT UNION COMMITTEE

Upon the action of the Student Union Committee will depend the success of the new Student Union. This committee visited other campuses during the year to compare student unions, and has as its duty the revision and extension of present Student Union plans to assure Bowling Green of an adequate and well-planned union.

A constitution was drawn up modelled after the Ohio State Student Union constitution and was placed before President Prout and the Student Senate for approval. This provides for a board of governors composed of three faculty and four student members. Two of the students must be seniors and two juniors. In addition, the president and vice president must be students and the secretary and treasurer faculty members.

Another project of the committee during the year was the consideration of the possibility of redecorating the Falcons Nest.

The committee was composed of seven student members. Chairman Anthony Steere was assisted by Bonnie Nichols, Richard Maholm, Della Lee McCall, Don Miller, Nancy Gruner, Earl Nissen, and Casey Hagerman.

One man and one woman representative from each upper class are chosen from applications submitted to Student Senate.

SITTING: Casey Hageman, Bonnie Nichols, Anthony Steere, Lee McCall, Nancy Gruner, Richard Maholm. STANDING: Don Miller, Earl Nissen.

SOCIAL COMMITTEE

The social committee, headed by Miss Alma Payne, provides students of the University with social activities and provides groups with a means to coordinate their separate activities. The committee schedules the calendar of events, insures a place for each event to be held, provides equipment for the different activities, and pays incidental all-campus expenses. As special services, it has provided two projectors for the week-end movies, a social kitchen, and records for campus dances.

The committee consists of 12 faculty members appointed by President Prout, and 12 student members composed of an equal number of men and women. The student members are selected by the committee from members belonging to the social sub-committee. Two student members are chosen from the senior class, four from the junior class, and six from the sophomore class. Candidates are chosen on the basis of their participation in campus events. The chairman is appointed by President Prout.

For the past year Jean Borsick served as student chairman and Pat Whalen as secretary.

SOCIAL SUB-COMMITTEE

Composed of freshmen students, the social sub-committee serves as a preparatory group for service on the social committee. As a subsidiary of the social committee, it is supervised by Midge Dague and Dick Ziegler. The sub-committee is open to all freshmen who submit their applications as a demonstration of their interest.

The organization provides experience in planning and supervising social events. Its members not only plan parties but engage chaperones and do survey work. On the basis of their service, six of the sub-committee's members are chosen as sophomore representatives to the social committee.

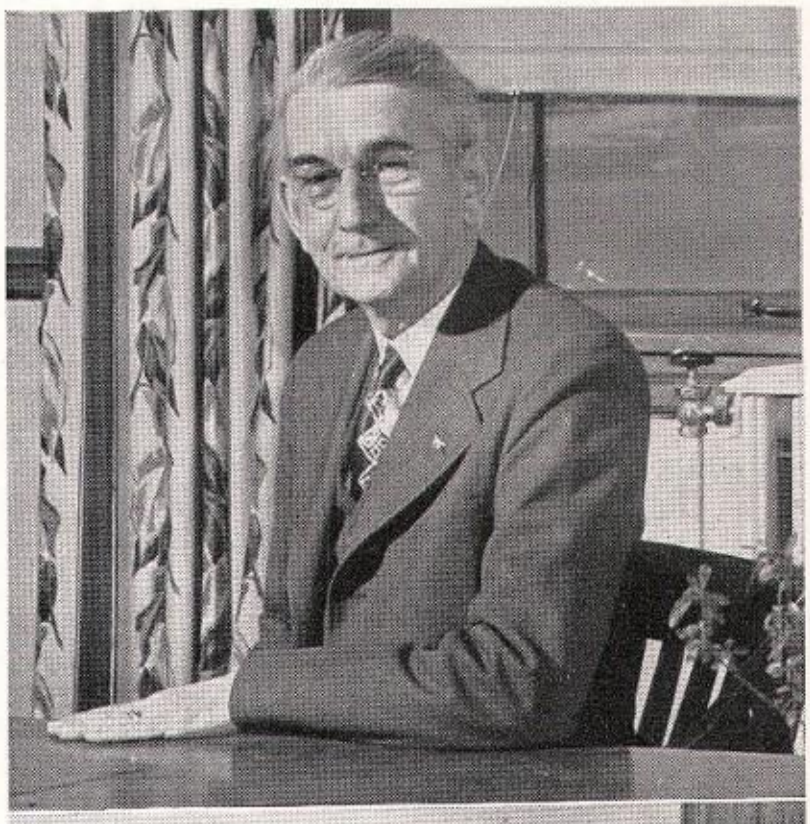
In order to coordinate the activities of the two groups, the president of the sub-committee meets with the social committee.

The acting president of the sub-committee was Dave Dawson.

DEAN CONKLIN

Completing his twelfth year as Dean of Students at Bowling Green, Arch B. Conklin has been confronted with the large post-war increase in student enrollment. Finding housing for all students and caring for individual troubles have been his major problems. In addition, he has served as adviser to Inter-Fraternity Council.

Dean Conklin studied at Wooster College and Columbia University. Prior to his appointment to this University's staff, he was a well-known educator in the public school system and had acted as superintendent of the Bowling Green public schools for 13 years.



DEAN CURRIER

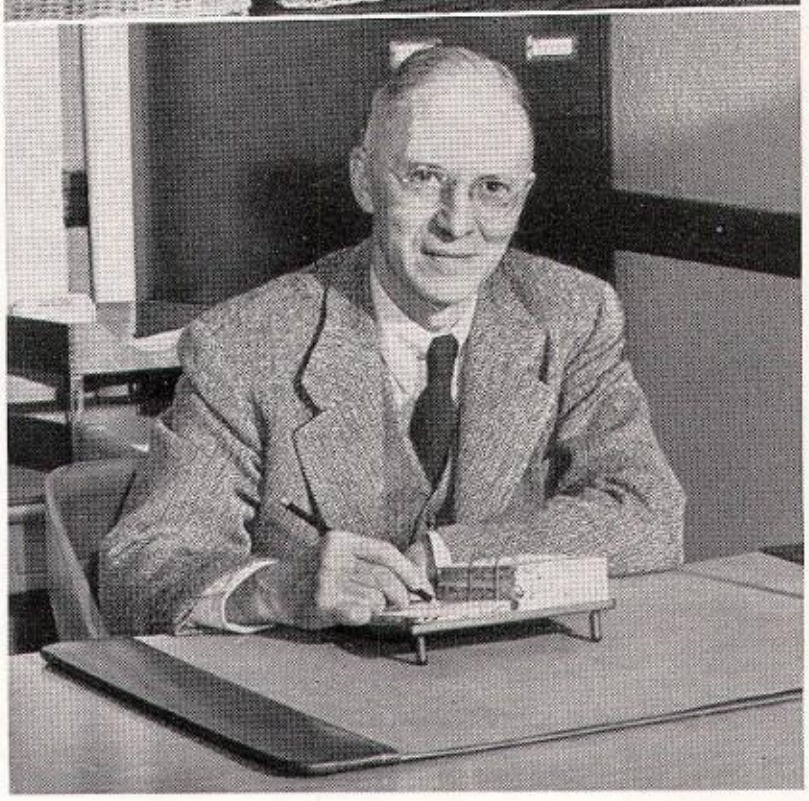
Appointed Acting Dean of Women in 1949, Mrs. Jesse J. Currier was promoted to Dean of Women in Sept., 1950. In this position, it is her responsibility to insure favorable conditions for a happy college life for young women students.

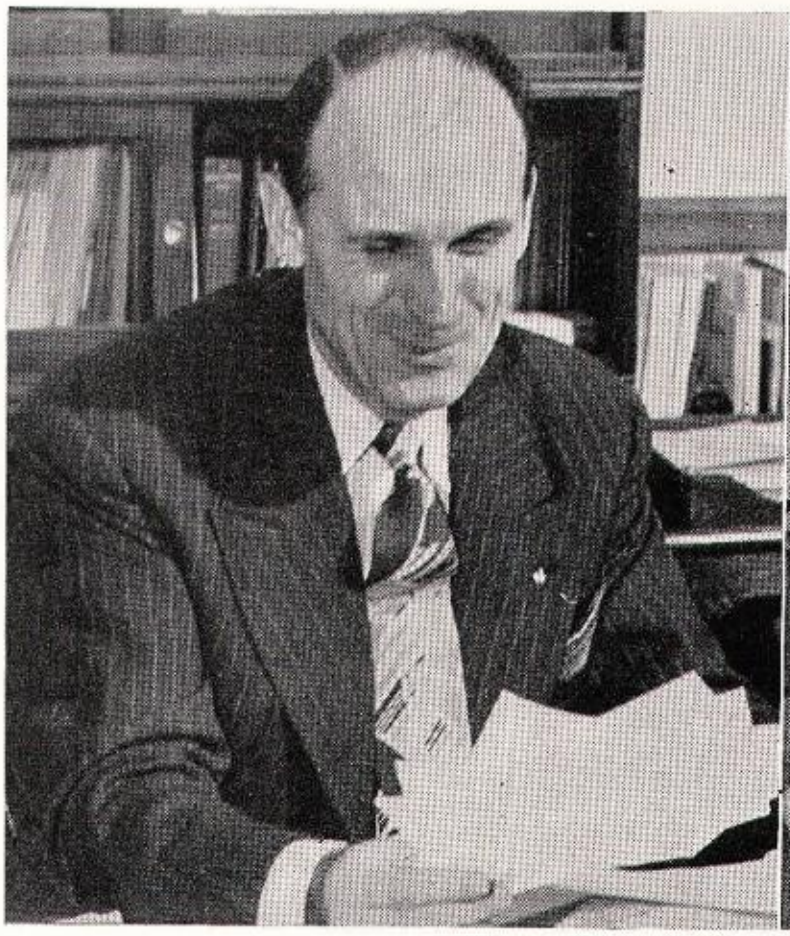
In addition to her work as coordinator of women's affairs, Dean Currier serves as adviser to the Association of Women Students, the Panhellenic Council, and Cap and Gown, senior women's honorary.

DEAN OVERMAN

James Robert Overman, Dean Emeritus of the College of Liberal Arts, continues to serve both students and the University as professor of mathematics.

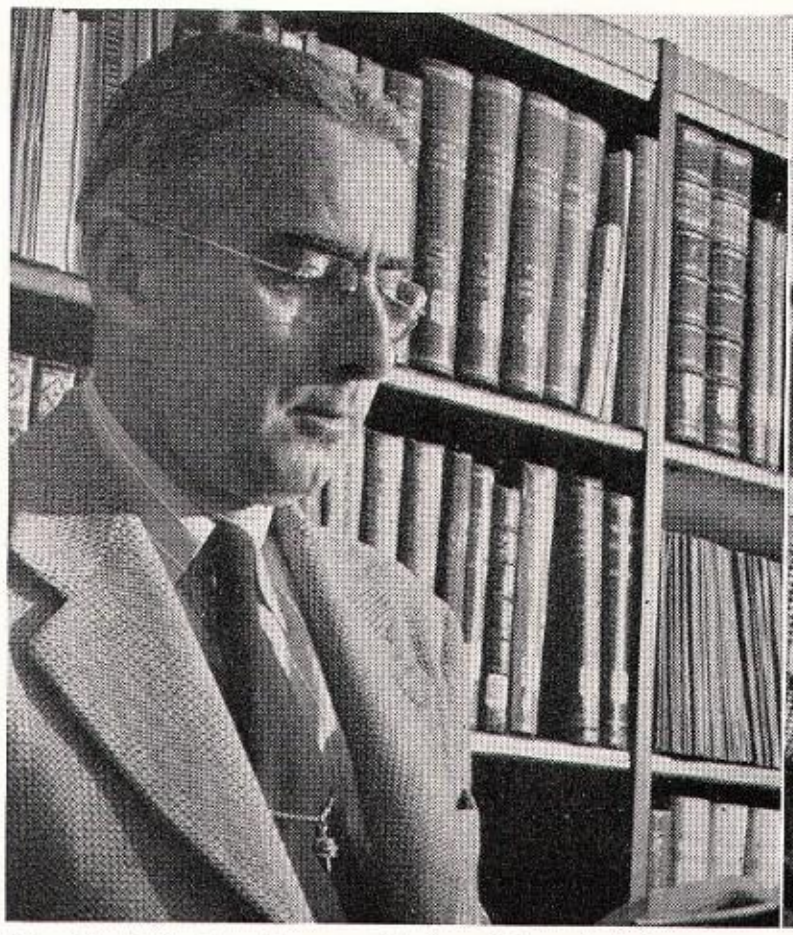
Appointed to the University staff in 1914, Dr. Overman helped organize the College of Liberal Arts and in 1930 became its first dean. He holds an A.B. degree from Indiana University, an A.M. degree from Columbia University, and a Ph.D. from the University of Michigan.





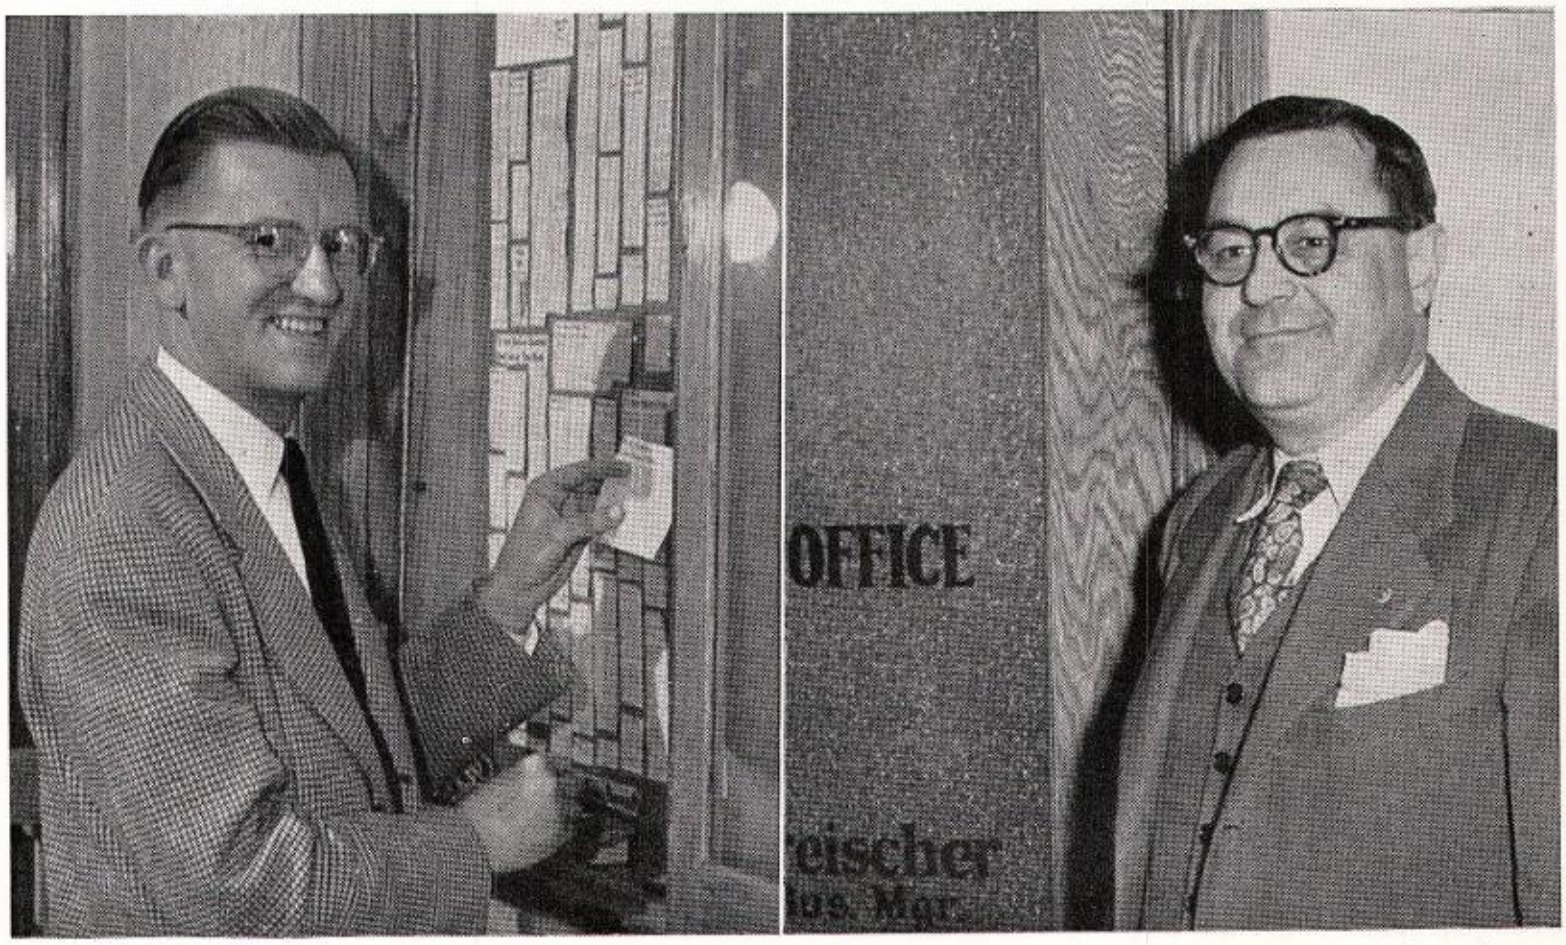
Assisting students in securing employment for post-graduation, and answering the inquiries of prospective students are part of the duties of Ralph H. Geer, Director of the Bureau of Appointments and Veterans' and New Students' Councilor. He received an A.B. degree from Defiance College and an M.A. degree from Ohio State University.

First full-time Athletic Publicity Director, Don A. Cunningham is a 1943 graduate of Bowling Green. He served in the Army Signal Corps from 1943 until 1946, when he was appointed to his present position. Besides his work in handling news releases, keeping statistical information on each sport, and arranging radio and television programs, he acts as ticket manager for the University,



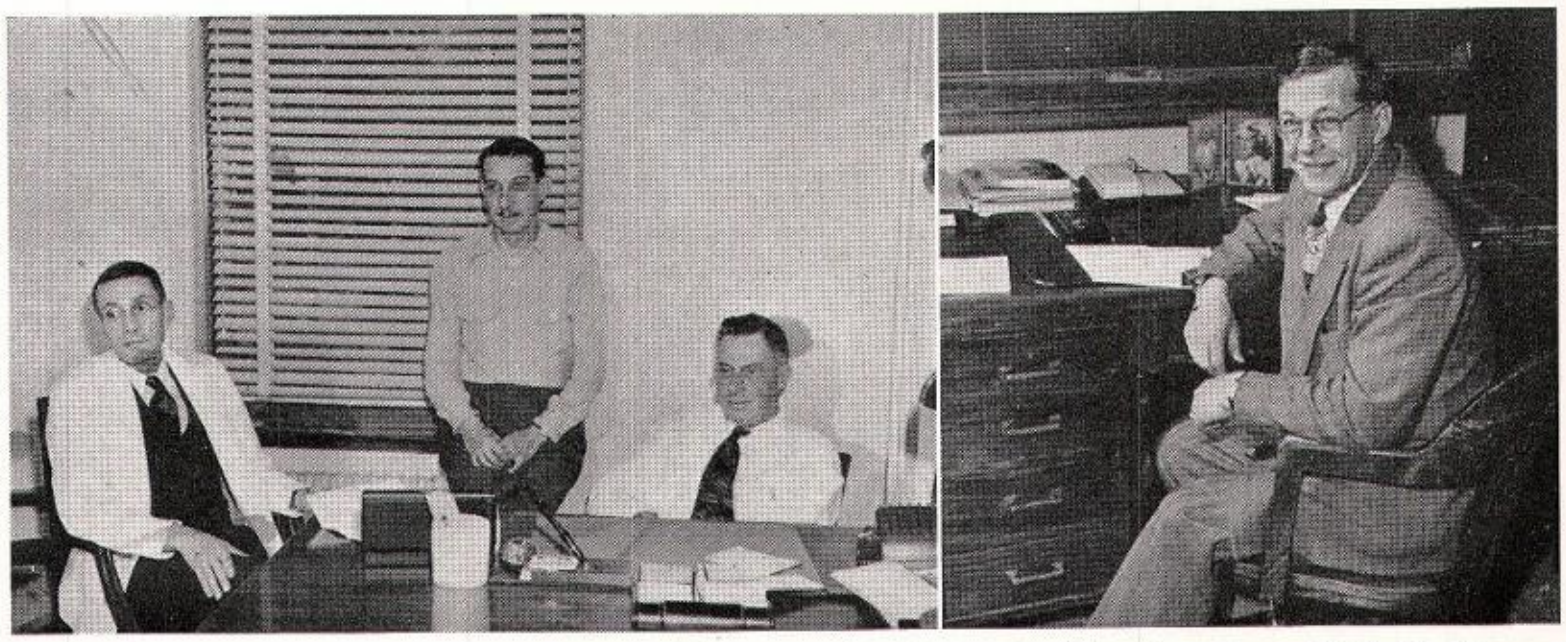
Dr. Paul F. Leedy, combining his administrative duties with committee work and teaching, holds the positions of Librarian, professor of English, and chairman of the department of library science. He came to the University in 1938. Holding A.B., A.B.L.S., A.M., and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Michigan, Dr. Leedy serves on the executive committee, publications committee, and the Graduate Council.

Elected president of the Association of Ohio College Registrars this year, John W. Bunn has served as Bowling Green's Registrar since 1941. He first came to the University in 1939 as an extension instructor and, after a year as Assistant Registrar, was appointed to his present position of Registrar. Mr. Bunn holds a B.A. degree from DePauw University. He taught history at Sandusky high school for six years.



Paul W. Jones, Director of the News Bureau, handles general publicity for the University. Mr. Jones was state editor of The Columbus Citizen and worked on other weekly, semiweekly, and small town daily papers before coming to Bowling Green in 1941. He was graduated with an A.B. degree from Ohio Wesleyan University and served in the Navy during World War II.

Ervin J. Kreischer, who came to Bowling Green over 15 years ago, first held the position of Critic. In 1937 he was appointed to the office of Business Manager of the University. He holds a B.S. in Ed. degree, and, in addition to Bowling Green, has attended International College, Ohio State University, and Toledo University.



The University hospital, caring for the health of all Bowling Green students, operates under the direction of Dr. James W. Halfhill, Jr., University physician, Dr. W. H. Brown, associate physician, and Hubert E. Schwarz, general manager.

As Director of Services since 1945, F. Eugene Beatty is in charge of such various things as visual education, public address system, athletic broadcasts, student identification photographs, conferences, and conventions. He also serves as military property custodian, foreign student adviser, chairman of the automobile committee, and faculty adviser of Sigma Nu fraternity and World Student Association. He is a graduate of Bowling Green with a B.S. in Business Administration and a Master of Arts.

GRADUATE COUNCIL

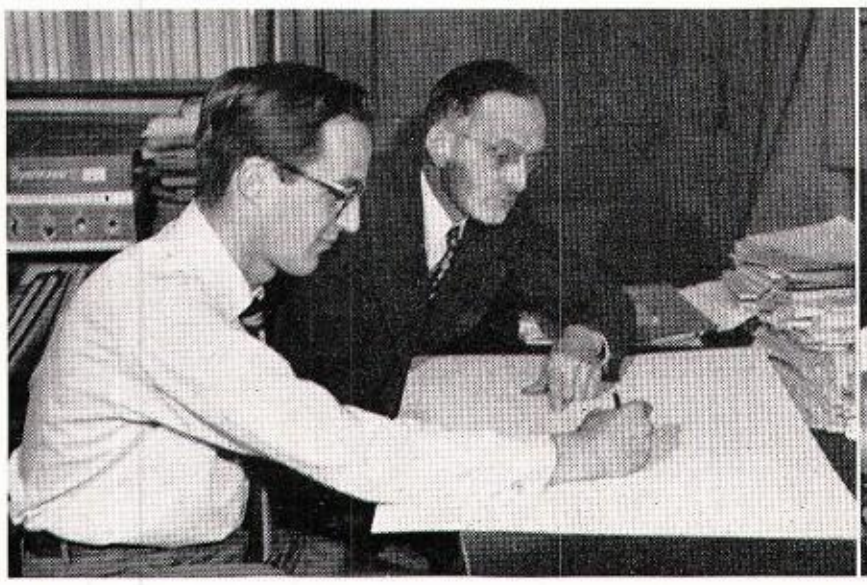
The Graduate Council is the policy-making body for the Graduate School. The Council members, appointed by the University President, consist of one faculty member from each department offering a graduate major, the University librarian, and a representative of the departments offering graduate minors.

Dr. Emerson Shuck, Dean of the Graduate School, serves as chairman of the Council and presents pertinent material for consideration by the members. Dr. Frank C. Ogg has served as secretary since 1946.

The functions of the Council include the judging of thesis topics. A new system recently installed permits graduate students to defend their thesis topics before the Council members.

A program of graduate studies in health and physical education was recommended to the Executive Committee by the Council during the last year. The first M.Ed. degree was approved by the Council in the summer of 1950. This degree is for graduate students aspiring to teach in public schools, and allows substitution of other requirements for the thesis.

GRADUATE COUNCIL: Frank C. Ogg, Gilbert C. Cooke, J. E. Wenrick, Lloyd A. Helms, Emerson C. Shuck, C. Glen Swanson, J. Levan Hill, Paul F. Leedy, Grover C. Platt, Waldo E. Steidtmann.



Joseph Ewers, graduate student in business, consults with Dr. Gilbert C. Cooke.

Dr. W. E. Steidtmann looks over the work of graduate students Russell Krueger and Relda Grunder.

The major function of the Graduate School is to motivate and educate at an advanced level those who are to be independent intellectual leaders in the professions and in research. The ultimate purpose is to develop the resourcefulness and responsibility of such individuals by furthering in them the power to handle effectively and at first hand the materials and affairs of life, and to use critically the reports of others, judging both their value and their limitations.

Graduate work is, therefore, much more than the passing of a number of courses and the fulfillment of certain minimum requirements. The graduate student should learn, as distinguished from being taught; and the chief office of the graduate faculty is to help the student to make the best use of the University's resources in pursuit of a mature and thorough understanding of significant problems.

Professor William F. Schlender helps graduate student Vincent Chow work out a time analysis.

ART

In 1946, when Willard F. Wankelman was brought to direct the University art department, two teachers comprised the faculty and an art major was unknown on campus. This past year a staff of nine completed its second year in the department's modern Fine Arts Building. The facilities of the department had increased in four short years from two small classrooms and one store room above the Men's Gym to the fully equipped classrooms, galleries, studios, and offices of the new building.

Majors and minors in art are provided with a full program of instruction. In addition, elementary education students are offered training in the fundamentals of drawing and craftsmanship. Of special interest to a great many students of the University is a course in art appreciation for the discussion of and training in the cultural contributions of the fine arts.

BIOLOGY

Boasting of approximately 200 majors in its field, the biology department offered instruction to between 1100 and 1200 students during the past year.

The department has had a very conservative growth. By 1930 the facilities for biology instruction included only one classroom and one museum room. In 1936, when Dr. Waldo E. Steidtmann, present chairman of the department, joined the University faculty, all the functions of the department were carried on in two classrooms and laboratories, a museum room, and a storeroom. By 1951 the growth had been accelerated until the department occupied both the third and fourth floors of Moseley Hall.

In conjunction with the Ohio Conservation Department, the biology staff supervises the surveyance of lakes and streams in the area as an aid to the conservation program. The survey attempts to discover prevalent facts on the plant and animal population of the locality.

Another service of the department is cooperating in the sponsorship of the high school Science Day each spring.

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Along with the establishment of the College of Business Administration in 1935, the department of business administration was organized. Dr. Benjamin L. Pierce, who came to Bowling Green in 1939, is chairman of the department.

The department offers a wide variety of courses in general business administration, accounting, business law, finance, insurance, industrial management, marketing, and statistics.

The purpose of the program of the department is to give the student a thorough knowledge of business practices, to acquaint him with the theories, functions, and activities he will encounter in his future occupation.

The business administration department was admitted to full graduate status in 1947 and offered during the year graduate assistantships to those students who showed decided interest and had outstanding ability in this field.

BUSINESS EDUCATION

In 1923 Dr. Edwin G. Knepper became the third chairman of the department of business education. In the ensuing years since his appointment, he has been able to witness step after step in the progress of a department which grew from a two-man staff in 1923 to its present number of ten.

The original purpose of the department was to provide two years of instruction for teacher training. The first student with a business education major was graduated in 1927. In 1939 the department offered for the first time a major in distributive education. Bowling Green was the first University in Ohio to have such a program.

Eight graduates of the department are now employed on the campus, including the University's Business Manager, Assistant Business Manager and Assistant Registrar.

The department of chemistry and physics, when it was founded in 1923, consisted of one instructor, 42 students, and five one-semester courses.

From that early beginning, the department has grown amazingly fast. It was not until 1947 that the chemistry department became a separate branch.

Today the department of chemistry consists of 11 instructors, a full-time store manager and assistant, a machine shop with an experienced technician in charge, and 24 courses offered in the chemistry field. It enrolls approximately 500 students each semester.

The department began the school year in new quarters. The chemistry building was completed during the summer and opened for the first time for instruction for the 1950-51 school year. The new building is completely equipped with lecture rooms and laboratories that occupy over 60,000 square feet of floor space.

Established in 1935, the economics department was an outgrowth of the department of social sciences. Dr. Lloyd A. Helms, present director, became the first chairman of the department in 1939. During the second World War, Dr. Helms was the only faculty member of a department that now consists of a staff of eight.

The purpose of the department is to educate men and women in the principles of economics so that they may apply them in business and later life. Although there were only 20 students majoring in this field during the past year, the most significant service of the department was providing courses for a background in business principles, political science, sociology, home economics, and history.

Some students spend many hours working on publications as a class-room or extra curricular activity. Here a student is at work making the final changes on two of the pages before the paper is "Put to Bed".

EDUCATION

Bowling Green's first college catalog listed the department of education as a distinct unit but noted that there were no instructors in the department. Courses in education were taught by members of other departments and by critic teachers. It was not until 1921 that Prof. Charles F. Reebs was designated as the first instructor.

A growth from one instructor to the present number of 12, added to what would be the supervising teachers of the University school, other schools in Bowling Green, and some Toledo, Maumee, Perrysburg, and Fostoria schools, marks the progress of the department.

In 1929 Dr. Clyde Hissong became the first chairman of the department. Instructors were then finally raised in rank, six of them to full professorship. Upon Dr. Hissong's acceptance of the chairmanship of the State Department of Education, Dr. Walter A. Zaugg became head of the university department.

The establishment of the Educational Clinic, the addition of the off-campus school, and the formation of the "Bloc Plan" or the "Bowling Green Plan of Student Teaching" are all milestones in the department's progress.

ENGINEERING DRAWING

The engineering drawing department of the University completed its fifth consecutive year of operation. Henry Krause, instructor in engineering drawing, served as departmental chairman.

The program of the department was instituted primarily for pre-engineering students who plan to transfer and earn a degree in engineering at another university. There are also courses offered for students majoring in industrial arts and mechanical drawing. A house-planning course is offered to women students majoring in home economics.

The program was set up in 1946 under the supervision of Prof. Charles Stoneking. Mr. Stoneking served in this capacity until the fall semester of 1949 when he was succeeded by Mr. Krause.

In addition to Mr. Krause, Milan H. Cobble and Paul E. Cowgill, instructors in engineering drawing are members of the present staff.

During the school year, students in the department were enabled to increase their knowledge of engineering through trips to large industrial plants in the surrounding area.

ENGLISH

Dr. Rea McCain, the chairman of the English department, was influential in the establishment of the department in 1914 and for a number of years served as its only instructor. Since its early beginnings, however, the department has grown until it attained a total of more than 25 faculty members and part-time instructors during this past year.

The English department has improved and developed its variety of English courses to parallel the development of the University. Numerous courses are offered in both the literature and composition fields of study in addition to the methods courses offered primarily for prospective teachers.

Introductory courses in American and English literature serve as the foundations for more advanced study by English majors and for intellectual motivation of all University students. Advanced courses offer an opportunity for specialization in the student's particular interest. Study in world literature and drama is also offered for more advanced students.

In addition, the department offers courses in composition and expository writing to acquaint students with writing techniques and to inspire them to create original compositions. Each year three faculty members represent the English department on the Eyas staff and supervise this student publication.

The department sponsors Sigma Tau Delta, national English honorary, for those outstanding English majors who desire further experience in literary composition.

The original headquarters of the department was in the Administration Building. Offices were later transferred to the University Library. The department took up residence in the present English Building in 1946 when an increased enrollment brought about a need for an increase in classroom facilities.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

The aims of the department of foreign languages are to foster liberal education and to help interpret the culture and contributions of other peoples. These aims are achieved through the instruction in five distinct fields of the department.

Latin and German were the first subjects offered. In 1917 French and Spanish were added to the curriculum of the department and in 1948 Portuguese was introduced. German instruction was discontinued during the first World War but was reintroduced in 1927.

Since its formation, the department of foreign languages has been under the leadership of four directors. Erwin C. Cline 1915-17, Donnis Martin 1917-18, and Caroline Nielsen 1918-48 preceded the present chairman, Cecil L. Rew.

The department sponsors the Christmas general assembly, division dances and senior parties, three national honoraries, and departmental clubs.

GEOGRAPHY GEOLOGY

The geography and geology department, headed by Dr. Samuel Mayfield, composes one of the primary phases of scientific instruction of the University.

The department was originally organized under the chairmanship of Prof. William C. Holt who continued as its director until the beginning of the second World War.

In the ensuing years the department has increased both its number of courses offered and its staff number to keep pace with the increased enrollment of the University.

GRAPHIC ARTS

Furnishing practical experience in printing for students majoring in Industrial Arts, the graphic arts department, formerly part of the industrial arts department, was made an independent unit of the University in 1945.

Courses offered by the department consist of lithographic printing, actual press operation, and a study of the various phases of photography.

HISTORY

Organized first as a division of the social science department and later combined with political science in 1938 in the department of history and political science, history was granted separate status in 1946.

John Schwarz, professor emeritus of history, joined the Bowling Green faculty in 1923 and served as chairman of the department which offered history courses until 1948, witnessing a great growth in history instruction. Grover C. Platt, associate professor of history, became the chairman of the department upon Prof. Schwarz's retirement.

The function of the department is to familiarize students with man's past development and to improve their understanding of current problems. There are 8 faculty members on the staff.

The department encourages the activities of the history honorary, Phi Alpha Theta. The offices of the department are located on the third floor of the Administration Building.

HOME ECONOMICS

Education for homemaking is the goal for all courses in the home economics department. Specifically, the department trains for student professions of teaching, home demonstration work under the auspices of the state extension service, house service, dietetics, restaurant management, and merchandising of clothing and textiles.

When first organized the department offered a degree course, but the greatest enrollment was found in a two-year diploma course. In 1927 the diploma course was lengthened to three years and later dropped in 1929, leaving only the four-year degree course. Preparation for teaching was the primary aim of the instruction.

The development of the liberal arts program brought a broadening of the curriculum. The first two students majoring in home economics were graduated from this college in 1945.

The department was first located in the Administration Building. In 1931 it moved into rooms on the first floor of the Practical Arts Building. Williams Hall kitchen was taken over in 1945 as a laboratory.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

The history of the industrial arts department began with the founding of the University in 1914. With Leon L. Winslow as its first head, the department was originally located in the Science Building. In 1919 Daniel J. Crowley took over the chairmanship and remained at the head of the department until 1945 when he was succeeded by Roland M. Torgerson. There are now eight faculty members.

Until 1927 work in industrial arts consisted of a two year course, but has now developed until it offers a B.A. degree and a master's degree.

Bowling Green was the original host school to the rotating meeting of industrial arts departments of the state and served as host again last year. The department put out a nationally distributed book two years ago on "Projects in Industrial Arts".

The honorary fraternity Sigma Pi Tau is connected with the department.

JOURNALISM

Separated from the English department in 1941, the journalism department was organized by its present chairman, Jesse J. Currier, associate professor of journalism. The department now consists of six faculty members.

The function of the department is three-fold: to provide professional training in journalism, to offer instruction to prospective teachers and advisers of high school publications, and to encourage students to better understand modern modes of communication. Instruction is offered in writing, editing, advertising, and photography.

LIBRARY SCIENCE

Instruction in library science was initiated with a one-hour course in 1933 and was gradually developed to courses of seven hours in 1942. In 1946, 17 hours were offered, and in 1948, 19 hours. Plans were drawn up during the past year to offer an additional six hours of graduate instruction.

The department was organized to help public schools meet the North Central Association requirements for teacher librarians. A minor may be obtained in both undergraduate and graduate courses.

MATHEMATICS

In 1914 when the mathematics department was created, the only faculty member was Dr. J. Robert Overman. Ten courses were offered including six for teacher training. In 1915 calculus was added to the curriculum.

In 1924 a second instructor was added to the staff of the department which now includes 12 faculty members. Twenty-eight undergraduate and eight graduate courses are now offered. A M.A. degree with a mathematics major is given.

In addition to the courses offered to students in the College of Education, instruction is provided business administration students and students in the sciences and liberal arts, geared to their specific interests.

The department is under the supervision of Dr. Frank C. Ogg, professor of mathematics.

MEN'S PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Men's physical education, under the direction of Prof. Samuel Cooper, is one of the few subjects required of every man who enters the University.

The purpose of the physical education program has undergone severe changes in recent years. At one time physical education appealed to only the big, athletic type. Now according to the aims of the department, the emphasis is placed upon meeting the needs of the individual student. This year the department continued with its program to include all types of activities with the belief that in one of the many fields every man in the University could find a phase in which he was interested.

The program of the department has grown along with the steadily increasing enrollment of the University. During the past year approximately 1200 male students participated in the 24 service and 12 swimming classes.

In addition to the program for all students, Bowling Green also has one of the largest physical education departments in Ohio for teacher training. A minimum of 46 hours is required for each graduate majoring in this department.

Students work in the new chemistry lab. Long hours were spent in the lab by science students learning valuable techniques.

MUSIC

Organized in conjunction with the foundation of the University in 1914, the department of music has increased its staff from two to twenty-one members. Originally housed in the Administration Building, the department was moved into the Practical Arts Building in 1930.

The functions of the department are to provide training for prospective instrumental and vocal music teachers and musical experience for other interested students. Instruction is offered in music appreciation, the history of music, theory, and harmony. Private lessons are given by experienced members of the staff.

The music department is one of the 17 in Ohio approved by the National Association of Schools of Music. The department sponsors a chapter of Phi Sigma Mu, national public school music honorary, and selects students to be eligible for membership in that group. Kappa Kappa Psi, male band fraternity, is another honorary developed by the department.

The department offers practical training in vocal music through participation by students in the Treble Clef, the Men's Glee Club, the A Cappella Choir, and the Mixed Chorus. All vocal groups are under the direction of James Paul Kennedy, professor of music.

Opportunities for training in instrumental music are provided for by the Marching Band, Concert Band, R.O.T.C. Band, and the University Orchestra. Gerald McLaughlin, instructor in music, directs the University Orchestra. Arthur C. Zuelzke and Richard Ecker, assistant professor and instructor in music, respectively, supervise the other instrumental music organizations.

Dr. Merrill C. McEwen became head of the music department in 1941.

PHILOSOPHY

The department of philosophy, since its organization in 1946, has been under the chairmanship of Dr. Tom H. Tuttle. During the past three years, he has been assisted by Dr. W. Maurice Nielsen.

Students may receive a degree in the College of Liberal Arts with a major in philosophy. Courses in introductory philosophy, logic, ethics, and the history of religions are open to all University students.

PHYSICS

Originally a part of a general science department together with geology, biology, and chemistry, physics is now treated as a separate unit.

Under the chairmanship of Prof. W. E. Singer, the physics department has grown from a staff of one to a group of four full-time instructors and one part-time faculty member.

Students majoring in physics in the College of Liberal Arts are instructed in such subjects as electronics, sound and supersonics, optics and stectroscopy, the applications of physics in industry, and electricity and magnetism. Some courses permit field trips to inspect modern laboratories in neighboring areas.

POLITICAL SCIENCE

Under the chairmanship of Dr. Charles A. Barrell, the staff of the department of political science has grown from one to four members since the establishment of the department in 1946. The political science staff, fortunate enough to receive adequate and satisfactory quarters for its offices and classrooms when the department was organized, has maintained its activities in the Practical Arts Building.

Students enrolled in political science courses study governments of the United States and foreign nations, international relations, and many other related phases of political institutions.

PSYCHOLOGY

Since 1947 the psychology department has grown from a staff of four to one of ten instructors. Since that time, the department has added to its curriculum the courses leading to qualifications for obtaining a graduate degree.

Using the theoretical and experimental approaches, the department offers a clinic for psychological testing of school children and University students. Students do the routine testing while Prof. James C. Wright and Prof. Frank C. Arnold supervise the clinic.

In 1947 the department organized a local chapter of Psi Chi. The purposes of this honorary are to advance the science of psychology and to encourage, stimulate, and maintain scholarship of its individual members.

Many introductory courses of the department serve as a foundation for the psychological training of prospective elementary and secondary teachers.

Dr. John E. Wenrick was chairman of the department.

SOCIOLOGY

Formerly under the chairmanship of Dr. Samuel H. Lowrie, the sociology department is now headed by C. Glenn Swanson. The staff of the department has grown considerably since the war, increasing from two to seven staff members.

The curriculum of the department was established to offer, in addition to the general principles of sociology, special instruction in social problems, institutions, control, and theories. Elaborate visual aid equipment was added this past year for use in courses in anthropology.

Students enrolled as pre-professional social workers may gain practical experience through work one day each week in social agencies in Toledo. These sociology majors work with both case and group agencies under well-trained supervisers.

SPEECH

Bowling Green's speech department, under the chairmanship of Dr. Elden T. Smith, consists of four main divisions: dramatics, debate, speech correction, and radio.

In drama, the policy of the department was altered this past year from the presentation of all major productions to the production of four major plays, two studio plays, and one children's play. In the studio productions the director was allowed to use experimental methods as he desired. The plays were produced mainly for an audience particularly interested in drama for its artistic qualities rather than just for its entertainment value.

In debate, teams travelled to various parts of the country to compete in tournaments. Another successful season was enjoyed.

Students enrolled in speech and hearing therapy made practical use of their knowledge in both public and college speech clinics.

Although the campus radio station WRSM had a limited campus audience, interested students created a full program schedule in their new studios in the Administration Building.

Student welders practice their newly acquired skill at the industrial arts metal-work shop.

SUPERVISORS OF ELEMENTARY EDUCATION

Provided for by every accredited college in the country offering elementary education, and considered the most important experience in the educational curriculum, the teaching of children under the supervision of a master instructor is done by prospective elementary teachers at the University School and Ridge Street School.

The elementary education program was established at the same time as the founding of the University. The two-year normal school training qualified the graduate to apply for state certification as an elementary teacher.

All supervising instructors at the University and Ridge Street schools are appointed and paid by the University.

Dr. Charles W. Young served as Director of Elementary Education. His duties included the coordination of the program of elementary education within the department of education. Prof. William S. Wagner was in direct charge of the student teacher program and Dr. George S. Snyder directed both the University School and the city-wide curriculum program.

WOMEN'S

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The Women's Physical Education Department was formed in 1929 with the purpose of training women students to teach health and physical education effectively. In addition it now has the function of offering state required 2-year service courses, which are taken by all women students.

The staff, first composed of three instructors, grew until it numbers ten full-time and one part-time faculty members this year. Serving approximately 160 majors and minors in the field, the department is one of the largest in the mid-west. Over 1100 women enroll each semester in service classes.

The department sponsors various clubs including the Women's Recreation Association, the Swan Club, and clubs for women interested in dancing, fencing, bowling, badminton, tennis, table tennis, golf, gymnastics and tumbling.

The annual high school play day open to girls in community high schools and the bi-annual carnival were additional activities that featured the department's program for the past year.

ASSOCIATION OF CHILDHOOD EDUCATION

The International Association of Childhood Education was founded in 1930 by the merging of two groups of teachers. The Association of Childhood Education, Bowling Green's college affiliate, is an organization for students interested in teaching youngsters.

These students help promote the education of children, the betterment of school conditions, and the improvement of standards of preparation for teaching. In addition, the group cooperates with all organizations concerned with children in the community and collects information concerning children's needs.

As one of its projects, the club sponsored a Halloween party at the Bowling Green Children's Home. Besides its Christmas party, the club sponsored its annual Formal Spring Dessert at which officers for next year were installed.

Officers this year were Nancy Hickenlooper, president; Lowell Everingham, vice president; June Henderson, secretary; and Louis Dispenza, treasurer. The group's advisers were Miss Mildred Winkle and Miss Dorothy Mulholland.

BIOLOGY CLUB

The Biology Club, meeting twice a month, is a vital supplement to all students majoring and minoring in this field. The organization encourages a greater interest in biology by sponsoring extensive field trips for its members.

Prominent guest speakers often lecture at the meetings. Scientific movies are presented and discussions are held on current trends. The club has through its four years of existence brought to its members those topics of special interest to biology students.

The potential biologists are led by club president, Joe Becker. Other officers are Robert Lanzer, vice president; Donald Leedy, treasurer, and Rogene Fischer, secretary.

Advisors are Dr. Everett Myers, associate professor of biology and Miss Mary Louise Everly, instructor in biology.

CHEM JOURNAL

Open to chemistry majors and minors with at least a C average, the Chemical Journal Club, student affiliate of the American Chemical Society, listed high on its schedule of activities this year the student convention of the Chemical Journal chapters of northern Ohio. Held here during a week-end in April, the convention took the form of an American Chemical Society in miniature.

Other of the many activities of the club included taking plant trips, hearing outside speakers on various subjects, seeing movies, and presenting student programs. A picnic was another of the annual events.

On Honors Day the club gave an award to the freshman student who received the highest score on a test given to determine the most promising beginning chemistry student.

During 1950-51 the organization had as its officers: Frank Ogg, president; Dave Hostetler, vice president; Mary Jane MacDougall, secretary; Denoit Schneider, treasurer; and Beverly Grauser, corresponding secretary.

Dr. W. Heinlen Hall, professor of chemistry, served as adviser of the organization.

Dedicated to fostering and encouraging the use of the German language and spreading information about the culture and ways of German-speaking peoples, the Deutscher Verein, or German Club, emphasized during the year a period of growth and reorganization.

Holding meetings twice a month on the first and third Mondays, the club heard various departmental speakers who spoke about the use of German in their respective fields.

Any student taking a German course is eligible for membership in the Deutscher Verein. To be an officer, a member is required to have completed his first year of German.

Robert Ketzenbarger and Henry Colebank served as co-presidents of the organization. Prof. William J. Weiersheuser and Dr. Bertil G. F. Sima were Deutscher Verein advisers.

SPANISH CLUB

Marion Gates, president of the Spanish Club, successfully led the organization through a year of furthering interest in Spanish and acquainting students with the background of Spanish-speaking countries.

The organization, open to any interested student, met once a month. Programs of slides, movies, and talks about America's neighbors to the south and on Spain were presented by members of the faculty, students who had visited these countries, and Latin American students.

One of the main events of the year was the annual Cervantes Day Banquet, honoring the Spanish hero. At a Christmas party, typical Spanish games were played, such as breaking a pinata and filling shoes for Christmas.

In a more serious vein, the group discussed world affairs in relation to Spanish-speaking peoples. The members listened to and discussed Spanish music. Faculty members of the art department talked about Spanish and South American art.

Other officers of the organization were Kathy Donovan, vice president; Yvette Caldwell, secretary; Bill Gobus, treasurer; and Joan Shank, program chairman. Prof. Florence Baird was the faculty adviser.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

The Bowling Green Future Teachers of America, college affiliate, serves as an organization for all students interested in teaching. The club's primary purpose is to arouse interest in the teaching profession.

Since the national organization is composed of both college and high school groups, the college club sends speakers to high schools in the area to present programs and discuss various phases of teaching.

Anyone enrolled in the college of Education is eligible for membership. The club meets twice a month with a program highlighted by academic speakers and social hours.

The advisers of the club were Dr. John E. Gee, and Dr. Florence S. Williamson. Walt Rinaldo served as president. He was assisted by Jean Harwig, vice president; Wanda Souder, secretary; and Joseph Zullo, treasurer.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Home Economics Club presents a U. N. flag to Dr. Prout.

The Home Economics Club has the distinction of being the oldest professional club on the Bowling Green campus. Founded primarily for home economics majors, membership has been extended to all who are taking any home economics courses. It is associated with the National Association of Home Economics, and as such, its members are entitled to receive the national magazine, the "Colhecon".

The club meets monthly with professional speakers in Studio B of the Practical Arts Building or in the home economics practice apartment. It began the year's activities with the showing of slides to freshmen on the vocational possibilities in home economics.

The club's faculty advisers were Virginia Cochran and Alice Schocke, instructors in home economics. Sally Moulton was president and was assisted by Virginia Orthwein, vice president; Louise Freeman, secretary; and Martha Baden, treasurer.

MEN'S PHYSICAL EDUCATION CLUB

An acrobatic and dancing exhibition, a lecture on physical education in England, and a tumbling demonstration by first-class tumblers are typical activities sponsored by the Men's Physical Education Club.

The club, which has been active for more than 15 years, held monthly meetings in the Men's Gym. It worked in conjunction with the Women's Physical Education Club and promoted activities of mutual interest to both groups. The outstanding achievements of the combined organizations were the establishment of a job clinic and the showing of films of the Olympic Games.

Officers in charge of the year's activities were Dave Seiler, president; Howard Teshow, vice president; Thomas Sloan, secretary; and Martin Smith, treasurer. Prof. Warren E. Stellar acted as faculty adviser for the club.

PRE-LAW CLUB

Since in a democracy, justice, expressed through law, evolves, the Pre-Law Club was established with the purpose of acquainting its members more fully with the law. The club members adopted as their motto "Projected Reasoning Establishes Law And Welfare".

The organization sponsors prominent speakers who are heard at open meetings. During the year Frazier Reams, Dean Charles W. Fornoff of Toledo's law school, and other noted judges and lawyers spoke before the club. Dean Edwin Stason of Michigan's law school spoke at the annual May banquet.

Reorganized during the spring of 1950, the Pre-Law Club seeks to enlarge its scope by broadening contacts with other universities. It has as one of its most significant functions the aiding of Pre-Law graduates to meet the requirements for their future profession.

Officers for the year were Russell DeLonjay, president; Nick Mileti, vice president; and Ranston Davis, secretary-treasurer.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS CLUB

Charles Cooper and Guy Elsea help themselves to refreshments while other club members in line wait their turn.

Realization of a better understanding of the subject, preparatory to its teaching, was the primary goal of the Industrial Arts Club.

One of the more practical organizations on campus, the club was originally organized in 1936 but was discontinued during the war. In 1946 it was reactivated and had a membership of over a 100 the past year.

Programs were held once a month and at that time speakers informed the members of various interesting happenings in the field. Also, during the course of the year, the club had a series of field trips, movies, and practical projects. Through the projects a hobby group was formed in 1948 and a great deal of interest in that phase grew. Since the work was practical, the club members took an active interest in the proceedings.

The main purpose of the club 's to serve the students who have either a major or minor in industrial arts.

The membership has steadily increased from the handful of members at the beginning to its present number.

SOCIOLOGY CLUB

The Sociology Club, formerly called the Comte Club, is open to students who are either majors or minors in the field of sociology.

With a purpose of increasing knowledge in the field of sociology, the meetings of the club include movies and lectures by outside speakers. These speakers, chosen from the fields of political science, sociology, and related work, aim to give the student insight into the activities and opportunities in his chosen profession. Following the lectures, informal discussion periods are held to provide the members of the group with an opportunity to ask questions of the speaker.

The officers of the organization were Carol Hohlfelder, president; Ann Hurtuk, vice president; Lois Middagh, secretary; and Dave Hyde, treasurer. Dr. C. Glenn Swanson and Dr. S. H. Lowrie were advisers to the club.

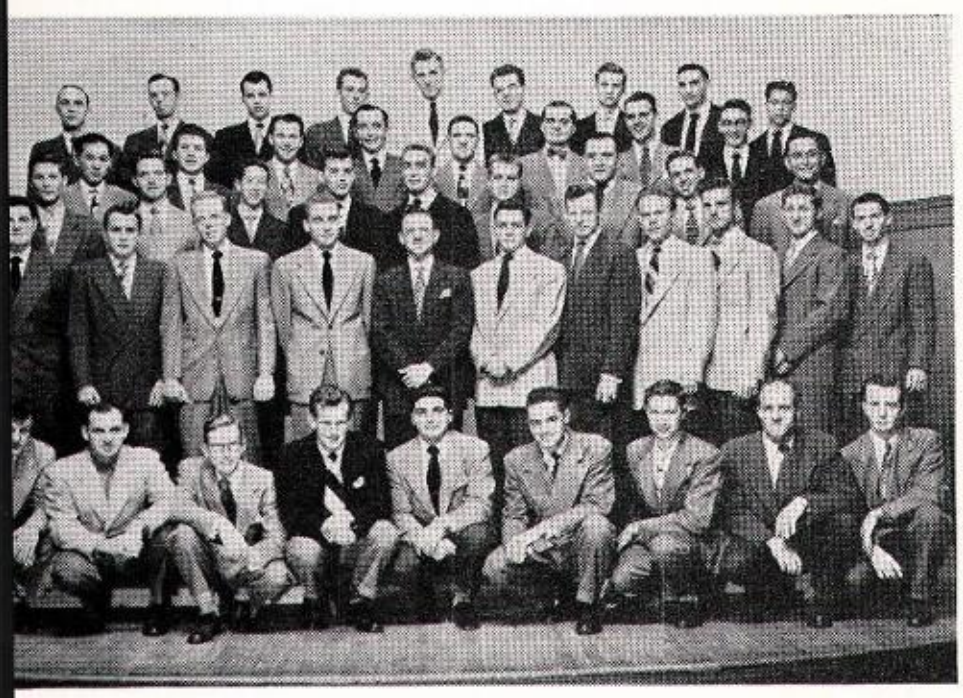
STUDENT BUSINESS ASSOCIATION



FRONT ROW: Ted Stewart, Eugene Waldsmith, Leland S. Barnhart, Lou Haubner, Lee Newman, Dick Wissler, Earl Seith, Ralph Dukes, Robert Moran. SECOND ROW: Leo Blum, Chet Heldman, Reg Barrett, R. G. Smith, W. E. Schlender, Bob Shinn, R. L. Smith, Dan Kolarik, Jim Ridge, George H. Waynar, Harry McArdle. THIRD ROW: Harris Budoff, Jack Galvin, Donald A. Stelzer, William Hardy, Phil Mersereau, Anthony W. Steere, Jack Hawk, Coolidge W. Stryker, Harvey B. Fine. FOURTH ROW: Kin Hamashige, George Serfozo, Peter Varvaris, John J. Glover, William R. Marett, E. J. Demetriades, George S. Kenderes, Claire J. Westhoven. BACK ROW: Lloyd Miller, Gene Fenn, Jack A. Wilson, Neville Armitage, Dick Stensby, Allen Moody, Dick Aitken, Paul Brennan, Charles Lehman.

Formed in 1948, the Student Business Association is an organization of personnel planning to engage in the management of industry and commerce.

The purposes of the organization are to encourage the development of efficient methods in all areas of business and to bring about a better understanding of the mutual interests of government, investors, labor, and the public, and the relating of business subjects to the practical business operations by a program of lectures, discussions, and field trips to various business organizations.

The society is open to all students enrolled in the College of Business Administration who have completed 60 hours of work and have a 2.2 accumulative average or better in all subjects.

William E. Schlender, associate professor of business administration, was the group's adviser.

PRESS CLUB

Club members Currier, Baird, Radebaugh, and Zumbrunn talk with Don Wolfe, state editor of the Blade.

Under the guidance of President Jack Radabaugh, the Press Club continued to work toward the promotion of interest in journalism. The club is open to all students who are interested in the field.

Of the many activities during the year, the creation and presentation of the Painted Pig to the winner of the Bowling Green-Kent State football game was the highlight. This Press Club project, backed by suitable publicity, in its first year, served notice of being one of the finer University traditions.

Other annual events of the organization include the awarding of the Peace Pipe trophy. This award is given jointly by the University of Toledo's journalism honorary and the Press Club to promote the highest basketball relations between the two schools.

Other officers of the club were: Harold Fraley, vice president; Iris Irwin, secretary; and Don Tindall, treasurer. The faculty adviser was Jesse J. Currier, professor in the journalism department.

That old adage about decaying with age is certainly proved false by Quill Type, an organization still going strong after 27 consecutive years. A student organization in the business education department, the local group was a collegiate chapter of the national organization for high school and college members, Future Business Leaders of America.

Quill Type tries to advance chapter installations in other colleges and high schools in this area through use of a film about the FBLA. The club installed new chapters at Pemberville and Defiance during the year.

The Quill Type News, a monthly bulletin published by the club under the editorship of Helene Buza, is sent to all alumni of business education to keep them posted on news of the department and Quill Type.

Members are generally students majoring in business education or business administration. Advisors are elected by the group each semester. Prof. Arlene S. Kirkland served in this capacity during the 1950-51 school year.

Officers were Donna Walker, president; Lyle Gainsley, vice president; June Brasier, treasurer; and Mary Jo Grimsley, secretary.

Refreshments are served after a Quill Type meeting.

WOMEN'S PHYSICAL EDUCATION CLUB

A professional group for majors and minors in health and physical education, the Women's Physical Education Club was organized to promote interest in its field of activity.

The organization's meetings are primarily professional. During the past year, a play night was held jointly by the Women's Physical Education Club and the Men's Physical Education Club. In conjunction with the men's group, outside speakers and movies were obtained to help the members learn more about their field. The two groups also organized a job clinic.

Ada Gustaveson was president; Bessie Albano, vice president; Bobbie Jean Smith, secretary; and Thelma Gehres, treasurer.

Mrs. Amy Torgerson, instructor in health and physical education, acted as adviser.

WRSM

The campus radio station WRSM completed its third successful year and continued its expansion program. The station was moved into a larger and more adequate studio located in the rear of the recreation hall. There, under the direction of Sidney Stone, associate professor of speech, approximately 100 students prepared and announced their own shows in addition to handling all the technical work.

The purpose of the station is to give interested students an opportunity to gain experience in the techniques of radio production. The station covered the fields of drama, sports, news, music, and transcribed programs.

Personnel of WRSM announced all the road games of the Bowling Green basketball team through a special hookup to the campus. Home football and basketball games were also covered by the radio station staff.

The operating staff consisted of Ken Shoemaker, program director; Pat Sikes, continuity director; Lamont Greene, chief engineer; Anne Huston, music librarian; Jim Rudes, sports director; and Howard Ehrenman, Little Theater director.

ROTC

Emphasizing leadership in its students, the department of military science and tactics at Bowling Green continued to instruct cadets in all phases of military training and to give each student an equal opportunity for a well-rounded four-year course to help prepare him for either a military or a civilian career.

The department offers a four-year course in military instruction. The first two years comprise the basic course, the last two years the advanced course. Instruction is presented by the military staff under Prof. William C. Lucas, head of the military science and tactics department.

The objective of the course is to qualify students for positions of leadership commensurate with their education and training. A graduate of the advanced course is commissioned a Second Lieutenant, Field Artillery Reserve. Those graduates of outstanding character may be commissioned in the Regular Army which would offer them a lifetime career.

Other graduates may elect to serve two years of active duty, of which one year is competitive, with successful competitors receiving a permanent commission in the Regular Army; or graduates may elect to hold a commission in the Field Artillery Reserve to be subject to call only in case of national emergency.

All male freshmen who are physically qualified are eligible for enrollment in the basic course. Admission into the advanced course is on an optional, selective basis. Those men chosen are graduates of the basic course who have obtained the approval of the president of the University and the professor of military science and tactics. All students are issued officer-type uniforms and appropriate insignia.

Students enrolled in military science and tactics are organized as a Reserve Officers' Training Corps Battalion of Field Artillery, which is commanded by student officers. Student officers of the past year who had outstanding positions were: Cadet Captain Chester Palen in charge of Battery "A", Cadet Captain Neil Pohlman in charge of Battery "B", Cadet Captain Edward Keck in charge of Battery "C", and Cadet Captain George Serfozo in charge of Battery "D".

Successfully completing its third year at Bowling Green, the corps was unique in that it obtained men on a strictly voluntary basis. During the past year the enrollment was close to 400 students. At the beginning of the year this huge freshman class began the course of training as prescribed by the Department of the Army.

The instruction was divided into four military science classes. Freshmen and sophomores composed the MS I and MS II classes. Juniors and seniors were in the advanced MS III and MS IV groups. The latter group of men assumed important leadership positions in the cadet battalion. At the completion of the junior year the MS III students attended a six-weeks summer camp for extensive gunnery practice.

Various non-commissioned officers were allowed to develop their skill at command by drilling the troops as squads and as batteries. Each man in the four batteries took great pride in vying for top drilling honors of the unit. A battalion parade was held nearly every week.

At the end of each year a graduation parade takes place which is one of the most important events in the ROTC program. All those students who have successfully passed the advanced course receive recognition at this time, and may either join the Regular Army or be classified as a reserve officer.

One of the highlights of the past year was the selection of Distinguished Military Students by the Department of the Army. Newly organized at Bowling Green, the unit successfully met strict Army standards by the choice of five men for commissions in the regular Army. These men were accepted because of their leadership qualifications and their scholastic achievements at the University.

In April, the department sponsors the annual "Military Ball".

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

Service has become not only the goal of Alpha Phi Omega but the accomplished result of its year's work. It is Alpha Phi Omega that was behind the "Keep off the grass" signs, the used bookstore and the attempts to promote school spirit through the use of Freddy Falcon. Add to this the travel bureau, blood typing, campus decorations on Homecoming Week-end, the Ugly Woman contest, and numerous other activities, and it is proved that Bowling Green's only service fraternity has lived up to its name.

The group not only gives an annual freshmen dance for new students, but treats its graduating seniors and pledges to an annual formal dance in December and an annual week-end outing in the spring. Another innovation, handled in conjunction with Cap and Gown, consisted in supplying caps and gowns for graduating seniors.

BOOSTER CLUB

Having as its object the encouragement of school spirit and the development of a high standard of sportsmanship, the Booster Club was founded in 1948.

The members consist of the cheerleaders and two representatives from each dormitory unit affiliated with the University. The club met weekly during the last year to plan programs for the advancement of the appreciation of competitive athletics.

Efficient planning and arrangement by the club members resulted in pep rallies which were held prior to a number of the athletic events. The major activity of the year was the 6 a.m. pep rally that was held around a large bonfire the morning of the Homecoming football game.

Guiding the club members during the year were Jerry Martin, president; Marilyn Peter, vice president; Pat Workman, secretary; and Dale Patterson, treasurer. Warren E. Stellar, professor of health and physical education, served as faculty adviser.

STUDENT EMPLOYMENT BUREAU

Serving as a go-between for students who wanted work, and employers who were seeking someone to fill a position, the Student Employment Bureau handled a large number of jobs during the school year.

In addition to gathering information on jobs for student workers, the organization also kept on file some full-time positions open to wives of students. The bureau also had available lists of places to secure work for the summer months.

Handling an estimated 300 jobs during the year, the Student Employment Bureau offered such work as baby sitting, sales work, housecleaning, and secretarial work.

One of the five student members of the bureau staff was on duty in the office in the Administration Building from 9-12 and 1-4 each school day and on Saturday mornings.

Heading the staff was Jerry Martin, president. Other officers were Delores Peters, vice president; Barbara Zellars, secretary; and Bob Johnson, business manager.

DAILY BULLETIN: Emery Westfall, Jim Miller, Jerry Henderson, David Diedrick.

DAILY BULLETIN

As its name implies, the Daily Bulletin was one campus publication which was issued every school day of the week. In it, students could find information about daily events and activities, and were kept up-to-date on facts about which they otherwise would not hear. The Bulletin published announcements of importance and a schedule of daily events.

Under the editorship of Gerald Henderson, the Daily Bulletin this year set up a streamlined news pickup system that enabled it to get information more accurately and quickly. The Bulletin also set up a regular style for a journalistic presentation.

David Diedrick, distributor, was in charge of seeing that the various dormitories, sorority and fraternity houses, and University departments got their copies of the Bulletin each day. Other staff positions were held by Emery Westfall, assistant editor, and James Miller, typist.

This year was the second for the Daily Bulletin under the auspices of the journalism department; previously the publication was a project of Delta Sigma, journalism honorary.

USHERETTES

The Usherette Club has now completed its third successful year as a service organization at Bowling Green. Founded in 1947, the club was formed with the purpose of providing adequate and efficient ushers for all University activities.

Prior to that year there had been a definite need for such a club since there was no organized group to fulfill ushering needs at such events as plays or various concerts and programs sponsored as a part of the Artist Series.

Membership was increased this year through the efforts of the publicity committee headed by Jo Peirce. The publicity theme was "Girls, here's your chance to walk down the aisle".

Bi-monthly meetings featured such activities as parties and a speaker whose topic was concerned with job opportunities in professional ushering.

First semester officers were Marion Gates, president; Helen Buza, vice president; Carol Hancox, treasurer; and Bev Hathaway, secretary.

Club advisers were Prof. Wilbur Abell, head of the Artist Series committee, and Robert Richey, instructor in speech.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION

Each year the Christian Science Organization, now in its fifth year at Bowling Green, continues to advance the principles and ideals held by its faith.

Meetings of the organization are held each Thursday evening and are conducted in the same manner as the Wednesday evening testimonial services held by all branches of the Christian Science Church.

Each year the organization holds a reception for freshmen students in the fall and offers a lecture in the spring.

Membership in the group depends upon the applicant's knowledge of the doctrine and beliefs of Christian Science.

Officers of the past year were Donna Kettering, president-reader, and Betty Pierson, secretary-treasurer. Alan J. Hammack, instructor in speech, served as faculty adviser.

One of the oldest religious organizations on the Bowling Green campus, the Lutheran Student Association emphasized not only religious activities but also recreational programs.

Sunday evening meetings offering prominent religious and political speakers continued to be the primary function of the group.

An extremely busy organization, the association carried out many other activities among which were Christmas caroling at the Bowling Green Children's Home, picnics during the autumn, and church suppers at the St. Mark's Lutheran Church.

Although primarily a Lutheran organization, students of other faiths were welcomed by LSA. All denominations were represented in the group.

A minimum of one recreation night a month was the aim of the association with the program varying from religious to recreational themes.

The Rev. Richard L. Smith, acted as adviser for the group. Officers were Charles Kurfess, president; Louise Burrell, vice president; Florence Beatty, secretary; and Nancy Tank, treasurer.

NEWMAN CLUB

The Newman Club includes students and faculty members whose purpose it is to promote religious, cultural, and social activities according to the principles of the Catholic Church. It aims to help Catholic students broaden their knowledge and appreciation of Catholicism. In addition to offering religious information to non-Catholic students and faculty members, it trains Catholics for leadership.

A monthly Communion-breakfast, a Day of Recollection, a week-end retreat, the recitation of the daily Rosary on campus, a Newman Club choir, the organization of Mass Servers, and a Lay-Apostle group highlight the club's religious program. These activities are planned by a group of zealous students who are concerned about the religious needs of both Catholic and non-Catholic students.

The club publishes a Weekly Bulletin and the Newman Views. A Catholic library; guest speakers who discuss Catholic philosophy, morals, and doctrines; lecture courses in religion; and round-table discussions make up the cultural program of the organization.

The social program includes open-house parties, holiday parties, hay-rides, banquets, picnics, and spaghetti dinners.

Representing the combined campus activity of eight national denominations and YMCA and YWCA, Student Christian Fellowship, the united Protestant student program, completed its sixth year at Bowling Green.

SCF conducted the second annual Freshman Camp which was attended by 150 freshmen. Members were sent as delegates to more than 15 state conferences and the National Student Assembly of Student Christian Associations.

All-campus events included the sixth annual Christian Living Emphasis Week, sponsored in cooperation with the other religious organizations on campus. Other events were the Christmas Spirit Contest, the Christmas Silver Tea at President Prout's home, the Holy Week sunrise service in March, and church night suppers.

The program also included the regular meetings on Sunday evenings, organized interest groups, morning meditations, vespers, and Friday forum.

Robert Whetstone was president; Frances McCartney, first vice president; Morgan Roberts, second vice president; Marion Gates, secretary; and Allen Lewis, Sunday program chairman.

Members of the staff were Hollis Hayward, director, and Barbara Deitz, associate director. They were assisted by Joan Smith, a Graduate Fellow of the Danforth Foundation.

With the completion of the University Chapel, the campus headquarters of SCF were moved into the chapel offices. Likewise, weekly vesper programs and other services were held in the new chapel.

Social center for Student Christian Fellowship was a "recreation room" equipped and furnished by students in the director's home. Committees, informal gatherings, parties, and meetings of all sorts were held there. A series of Sunday afternoon get-acquainted groups was held throughout the year at the Hayward home, and, altogether, more than a thousand students were guests of the Haywards.

The year was marked by extensive discussion and study concerning long-range plans for the future development of the Fellowship. Three national executives of student Christian movements consulted with local leaders and a number of small committees engaged in drawing up tentative plans for the work of SCF during the next decade.

Two students, Pat Vosper and Robert Whetstone, were visiting student delegates at the constitutional convention of the new National Council of Churches at Cleveland last December.

Rev. George D. Wigfield of Toledo was chairman of SCF's sponsoring board which is responsible for general policy and direction of the work. The board is composed of ten students, eight ministers, and eight adult laymen. University faculty members also took an active part in SCF activities during the year.

Other special events of the group during the year included: four leadership and planning "retreats"; promotion of student summer projects throughout the country; sending speakers to schools, churches and other colleges; arranging speaking engagements for many of Bowling Green's foreign students; providing an all-campus mixer for 1000 freshmen in September; administering the plans for sponsoring a displaced person through the United Charity drive; and conducting a 9-weeks leadership training project for the newly elected and appointed student officers for the following year.

A close-knit union of ten Protestant student movements of national origin, SCF is in the national spotlight among churchmen interested in university work.

Kappa Phi, national Methodist women's club, carried "Our Heritage" as its theme throughout the year. Stress was placed on the building of leadership in the church of tomorrow and not solely on religion as a philosophy.

The group engaged in various service activities including distributing Christmas presents to orphans and taking charge of Junior Church of the First Methodist Church.

Devotional periods are a prominent part of each meeting. Programs this year followed the theme of "Our Heritage" in the fields of education, religion, music, fashion, and art.

Open to any Methodist woman or one whose local preference is that denomination, Kappa Phi's officers were Jeanne O'Dea, president; Beverly Easton, vice president; Doris McCartney, secretary; Dorothy Fisher, corresponding secretary; Lois Zimmerman, treasurer; and Fama Gerhart, program chairman. "In the discipline of Truth, irrespective of its source, and in the spirit of Universal Brotherhood undivided by nation, race, or creed, we unite to strengthen our convictions in the value and need for liberal religion and, through the strength of unity, to give expression to these convictions."

With this as its purpose, the Unitarian Fellowship was founded in Bowling Green in February, 1949. Chartered by the American Unitarian Association, the local chapter draws membership from the city of Bowling Green, its campus, and its environs.

In the 1950-51 season the Fellowship presented various programs on religion, philosophy, international affairs, and personal problems. The group, through its Peace Pipe Lecture Series, brought numerous professors and students from the University of Toledo and joined with other campus groups in observing National Brotherhood Week.

Officers were Coolidge Stryker, president; Raleigh Slawson, vice president; Mary Lou George, recording secretary; David Harris, treasurer; Marian Roberts, corresponding secretary; Prof. Laura Heston and Wirt G. Faust, faculty and town advisers, respectively.

WOMEN'S RECREATION ASSOCIATION

The Women's Recreation Association has as its main purpose the promotion of interest in all athletics for women students of the University. Under the sponsorship of Prof. Dorothy L. Fornia, the club not only promoted sportsmanship, but assisted in the coordination of athletic with social activities.

The freshman women's mixer, the annual Homecoming senior-alumni hockey game and breakfast, the annual spring banquet, and social and recreational meetings for its members featured the year's calendar. In addition the traditional Senior Waken, a ceremony in honor of graduating seniors, was continued.

The WRA was led by President Bonnie Nicholls. She was assisted by Nancy Tank, vice president; Anne Huston, corresponding secretary; Mary Lou Kieffer, recording secretary; and Betty Thomas, treasurer.

ARCHERY CLUB

By winning first place 12 times in the 14 Ohio State College Postal Archery Tournaments it has sponsored, the Bowling Green Archery Club has brought recognition to the women's athletic activities of the University as well as offering opportunities to its members to participate in tournaments to gauge their skill in the sport.

The purpose of the organization is not only that of the improvement of skill in archery, but also, the aiding of its members to make social contacts while enjoying a healthful activity.

Membership in the club is by voluntary participation in its activities. Any woman enrolled in the University may join.

The Badminton Club, which is open to all women interested in furthering their sport skills, provides an opportunity for its members to improve and enjoy badminton. No particular skill requirements are necessary for entrance.

An intra-club tournament, sponsored by the club during the latter part of the year, is one of the most important events of the group. At this tourney various club champions are decided.

The club was led during the past year by Bonnie Nichols, president; Nancy Tank, vice president; and Ann Nelson, secretary-treasurer. Approximately 45 members held regular weekly meetings in the Women's Building.

The group, under the direction of Miss Dorothy Fornia, assistant professor in health and physical education, entered into competition with other colleges and was represented in the Sports Days events.

BOWLING CLUB

Having placed first for the last five years in the National Intercollegiate Bowling Tournament, the Bowling Club continued to fulfill its hard-earned reputation.

Composed of 40 members, the organization has as its purpose the promotion of participation and interest in Bowling. Any woman who can bowl two straight games with a score of 100 or better for each game is eligible for membership.

Some of the activities of the Bowling Club included participation in or the sponsorship of the intra-club tournament, the intra-campus tournament, the Postal tournament, and the intercollegiate tournaments.

The organization was sponsored by Miss Dorothy Fornia, assistant professor of health and physical education. Officers were LaVerne Manke, president; Helen Eier, vice president; and Dwanda Schad, secretary.

ORCHESIS

Orchesis, formerly the Dance Club, was sponsored this last year by Mrs. Margaret G. Miller, instructor in health and physical education. The main purpose of the club was to create and cultivate an interest among women in the field of modern dance.

To gain membership in the organization a candidate must first be a member of the beginning dance club. Second, she must participate in a series of tryouts to become eligible. Finally, she must be voted upon by members of Orchesis.

The club was led by Jeannine Morris, president; Jo Ann Harrah, vice president; Nancy Curtin, secretary; Helen Onsel, treasurer; and Elaine Wigle, publicity chairman.

The outstanding activities of Orchesis during the year included a Christmas program for the Physical Education Club on Dec. 14 and the Spring Concert on April 20 and 21. The club also participated in the Variety Show in January.

CYGNETS

The Cygnets is an organization to prepare women students for competitive tryouts for Swan Club. From approximately 150 candidates, only 50 outstanding women swimmers are allowed to compete for Swan Club membership.

The group learns skills and techniques in synchronized swimming under the instruction of Miss Iris Andrews, assistant professor in health and physical education.

The group's purpose is not to teach beginning swimming, but to prepare its members for participation in water shows in solo, duet, and team preformances.

Membership in the Cygnets is open to all freshmen women. Only members of this club are eligible for entrance into the Swan Club.

OUTING CLUB

Skating parties, hayrides, overnight hikes and picnics are all part of the activities of the Outing Club.

The organization, which aims to foster interest and pleasure in activities of the out-of-doors, teaches its members such skills as cooking over a fireplace.

Membership in the club is open to all University women. Credit toward awards of the W.R.A. is earned through membership.

Under the leadership of its president, Arlene Jackson, the group meets in the Women's Building. Phyllis Jones served as secretary during the past school year.

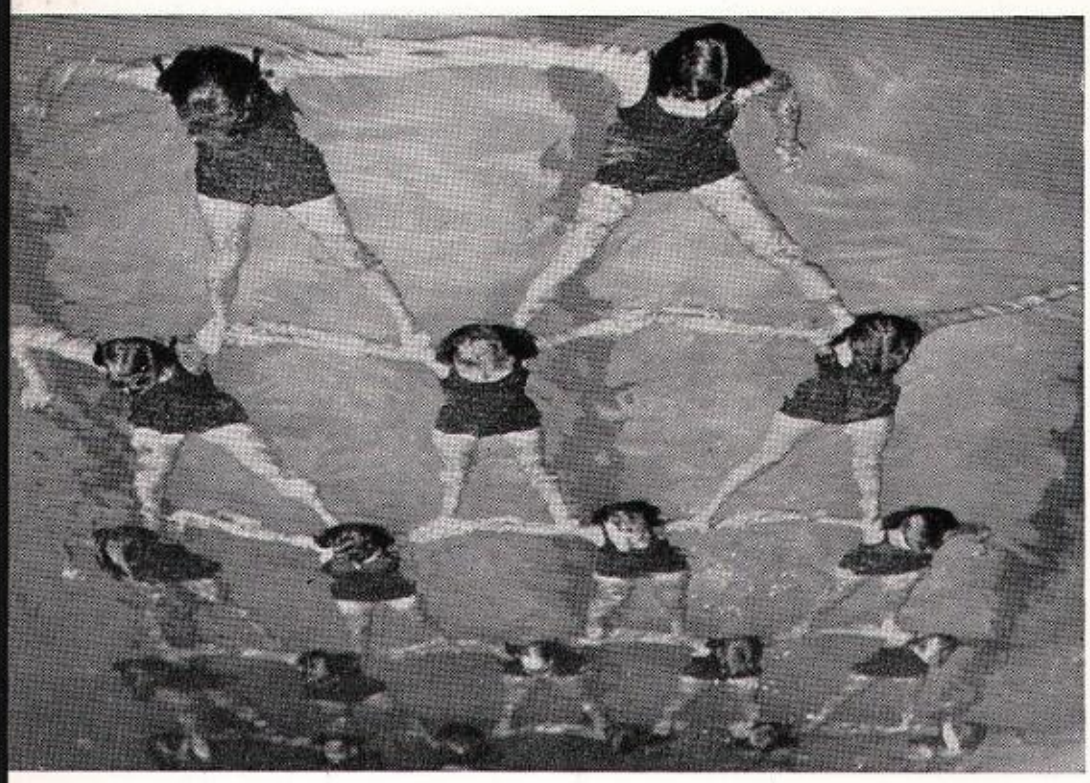
SWAN CLUB

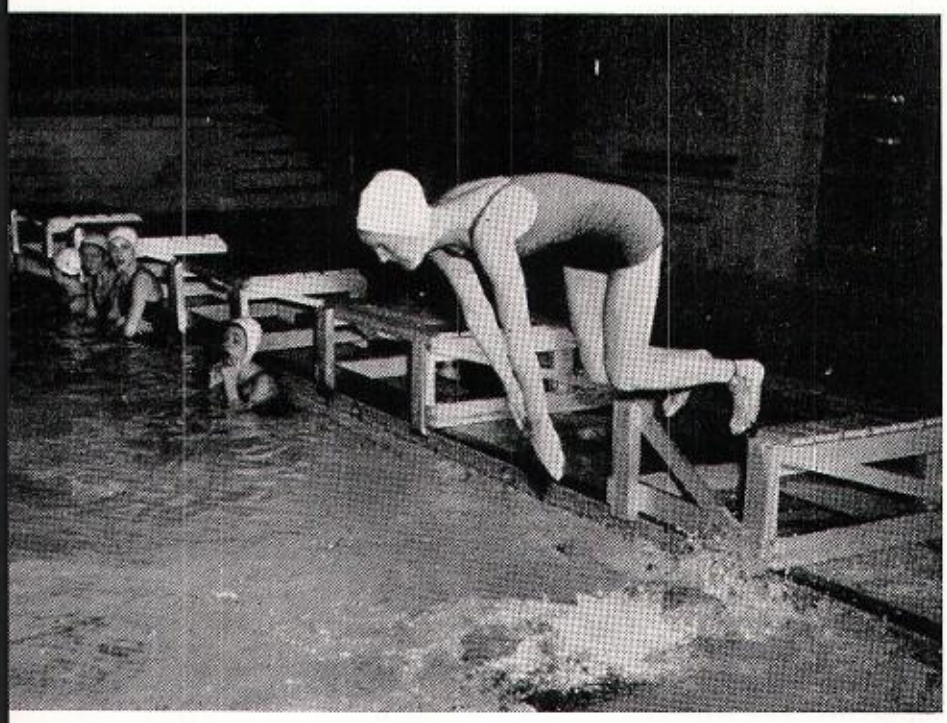
Swan Club members execute a formation.



The purpose of the Swan Club is to create interest and to develop skills and technique in synchronized swimming. All freshmen women interested in joining the Swan Club must first pass the eligibility tests which conclude the Cygnets' program. These tests check the progress of the freshman aspirant.

The activities of the group during the year included demonstrations, exhibitions, intercollegiate meets, and the staging of the annual Water Pageant. The organization was represented at the fourth annual National Swimming Meet in Chicago and at international competition at London, Ontario.

Joyce McCreary served as president of the club. She was assisted by Joan Wickes, vice president and Ada Gustaveson, secretary. Prof. Iris Andrews acted as adviser, Miss Dorothy Luedtke as assistant adviser.



Relay team members practice starts.

SPLASHERS

The women's swimming team, organized in 1949, has a national intercollegiate standing of fourth place. It has attained national recognition since its recent formation.

The group, under the leadership of Miss Dorothy Luedtke, instructor in health and physical education, won four meets in the 1949-50 season.

This year the team participated in meets against the University of Western Ontario, Purdue University, Ohio State University, Michigan State College, Ohio Wesleyan University, and Michigan State Normal College.

The Splashers is open to any woman interested in competitive swimming. Members are taught the fundamentals and advanced techniques of the sport.

The year's captain was Joan Wickes.

TENNIS CLUB

Organized for the purpose of promoting interest in tennis, the Tennis Club gives its members an opportunity to gain valuable experience and training in playing the game and in participating in tournaments.

The group each year sponsors the all-campus tennis tournament. A tennis clinic is also a major activity of the club. However, the selection of members of the organization to enter the Ohio College Women's Singles Tournament is one of the most interesting phases of the group's program.

The president of the club for the past year was Eleanor Reist. Miss Betty Menzi, instructor in health and physical education, served as adviser.

An Editorial

What Thanksgiving Means Today . . .

Thursday, folks from all over this yet war-spared land of ours, rich folks and poor folks, Ohioans and Texans, farmers and bank presidents, steel workers and atomic scientists, will arrange themselves around family tables packed with the makings of a Thanksgiving dinner. Not everyone will have a huge turkey, roasted to a delicious golden brown; but whatever the kind or amount of food spread before them, somehow children and grownups alike will realize that this is a special dinner . . . how they'll have a bit of that . . . fulness.

"Our Puritan . . . ly used . . .

10 generations, seem to feel the common bond between them. Everyone knows it is the day set aside to give thanks for the opportunities and successes that have been theirs. But Thanksgiving, 1950, may find a questioning, uncertain note in the prayers offered.

As the families gather around their tables, some of the more tragic scenes of World War II may be repeated. In some homes there will be extra place at the table; in some homes there . . . be any "Pop" to say the blessing. Men . . . where, as they bow their heads in prayer, . . . wondering just when they will be leav- . . . for some cold, rocky battlefield. In . . . homes, while mother is restraining the . . . from reaching for that tempting drum- . . . men will be asked to "say the bless- . . . who can remember both the "war to . . ." and the "fight to make the world safe . . . racy." What will be in the minds of . . . ericans as they are asked to give . . . thanks?

Will mothers and dads be able to give thanks because their sons are being killed and wounded in some far away land that never even received much attention in history books? Will wives and children be able to give thanks because "Daddy" is somewhere between home and Korea, being prepared to fight in this struggle that isn't an "official war" according to international law? Will the American people be able to give thanks because we are tee . . . ing on the brink of another world conflict . . . which promises not to leave America . . . scathed this time?

Yes, it will be hard, very hard indee . . . thank God for a dead son or husband, . . . will be even more difficult if it is thought . . . in vain. One dreams, one thought, one . . . may make this task easier; possibly . . . his relations with man is progressing to . . . peaceful "one world." Maybe our . . . and grandchildren won't have to kil . . . killed. Could the American industrialist and the Russian farmer live under the same government? This optimism, this hope for peace has been part of man's thinking since the dawn of life. It could come true.

Perhaps, then, Dad or Granddad, or whoever is asked to give that prayer of thanks, can thank God that he lives in America. An America that has made her share of mistakes, but . . . overbalanced them with good deeds. . . . there a man may still have some say . . . and how he does it . . . two points of view, . . . something

Editor of the Bee Gee News for 1950-51, Duane Zumbrunn was responsible for all of the newspaper functions that fell into the editorial category. It was his duty to see that all stories were written, deadlines met, and make-up completed properly. John Radabaugh was managing editor.

Donald Tindall and Hal Fraley were issue editors of the Tuesday and Friday editions, respectively. It was their duty to assure complete news coverage by making assignments to staff reporters. Dave Goodman, photography editor, and his staff supplied pictures for the paper.

The sports editor, Jim Duerk, had as his task the direction of the complete coverage of all sports events. The writing and the assigning of feature stories was the responsibility of feature editors Roger Bonham and Gene Dent.

The society page, composed of news and features of social events, weddings, pinnings, fraternity and sorority activities, fashions, and other items of interest, was managed by the society editors. Iris Irwin served as society editor of the Friday issue and Nancy Noon, of the Tuesday edition.

Betty Kos, business manager of the Bee Gee News, was responsible for the business phases of the paper. Her main duties were to keep an account of the newspaper's financial operation and to pay the bills each month.

Advertising manager, Don Ledvina, was responsible for securing advertisements from local merchants. Donna Anderson, as national advertising manager, obtained the advertising from national agencies and distributed copies of the newspaper to them.

Brad Hitchings, circulation manager, supervised the distribution of the Bee Gee News to students each Tuesday and Friday.

Under the direction of its editor, Duane Zumbrunn, the Bee Gee News began the 1950-51 season with a 12-page edition, the largest issue ever to be printed at this University.

A decided change in this year's publication was the four-page bi-weekly issue which replaced last year's paper of six pages printed once a week. Written and managed by Bowling Green students, the paper was published each Tuesday and Friday of the school year.

The paper provided a medium of expression for the student body. Any student at the University could apply for one of the many positions of the staff.

Almost any hour of the day someone could be found in the journalism "back room", 315 Administration Building, banging away at a typewriter, reading the latest news from the INS machine, arranging advertising layouts, or sitting around the copy-reading table with a group of other students checking stories.

Staff members of the paper had to perform both the editorial and managerial functions. Copy, written by some students, was edited by a copy-reading class. Other students wrote headlines or solicited advertising. An International News Service teletype machine, installed in the spring of 1950, provided experience for the news editing classes.

Laboratory courses in journalism provided students with an opportunity to perform all of the tasks connected with the publication of a newspaper. Upon graduation, therefore, journalism students are familiar with the many phases of newspaper work as a result of their activities on the staff of the Bee Gee News.

THE KEY

Bigger than ever: the '51 Key! Despite the drop in student enrollment and subsequent drop in budget this year's Key has 8 more pages than last year's. This includes copy, advertisements, and photographs.

Almost any hour of the day, Allan Libbe, editor of the Key, could be found poring over the many details connected with editing a yearbook. In the new Key office, located in the old psychology clinic in the Laboratory School basement, the editor attended to supervising the entire Key staff. His assistant editor was Howard Hahn.

Copy editor Jack Myers had the problem of assigning copy, collecting the written material, and correcting errors. Assistant Editor Hahn was also responsible for the myriad pictures in the Key. Helen Mueller was printing editor while John Grossman was in charge of engraving. The duties of office manager and head typist were shared by Margaret Johnson and Nancy Schumaker. Jack Galvin and Bill Lee were in charge of paste-up work.

BACK ROW: Bill Elderbrock, Bob Lyon, Hank Spangenberger, David Burnap, Nick Mileti, Joann Oyster, Kay Reist, Joyce Hoagland, Frances Tucker, Marg Johnson, Shirley Scott, Joan Wickes.

Jack Dukes, business manager, kept the records and balanced the books from month to month. Nedra Mason assisted him as advertising manager. Circulation manager was Mrs. Jean Harwig, whose real job began after everyone else's was nearly completed.

To the average student, the amount of work put into such a publication is not apparent. But behind the sleek pages are hidden a maze of worries: deadlines that were not met, pictures that did not turn out, pages that just disappeared, to mention but a few.

Working under the supervision of the editor, the section heads spent long hours completing the material in their departments. The section editors were Iris Irwin, faculty and administration; Barbara Schneider, activities; and Janet Dunson, class editor. Honoraries were taken care of by Nancy Noon while Dick Sommers covered sports. Pat Boller handled the sorority section and David Reichert, fraternities. Don Eaton designed the cover.

Pat Davison sorted thousands of student names and the pages on which they appeared, putting them in the index in a correct order.

Russell Baird, assistant professor of journalism, served as faculty editorial adviser and John Mires, instructor in journalism, was the financial adviser.

ALUMNI MAGAZINE

Carrying out its policy of keeping in contact with the alumni and of promoting their activity and interest in the University, the Alumni Magazine continued to serve those who have been graduated from Bowling Green.

Approximately 1600 of the 10,000 alumni receive each issue, although the Homecoming issue usually is sent to many more. The magazine is published five times a year.

Through the magazine former Bowling Green students can follow the activities of their old classmates in such features as alumni class notes and news of former outstanding graduates. Information on campus growth, academic progress, sports, Greek organizations, and the faculty are some of the other articles of interest to the alumni.

The publication is under the direction of the Bureau of Alumni Relations and is paid for by alumni dues. Robert Jaynes, catalog and alumni director, was the editor and one-man-staff for the magazine this year.

EYAS

Celebrating its fifth birthday, Eyas, which means "baby falcon", continued to grow as a medium for student literary expression. Eight hundred copies, a record number, were sold during the first semester. The spring issue, a special commemoration dedicated to Dr. Rea McCain, necessitated the printing of 1000 copies. Dr. McCain helped form the magazine and has been a faculty adviser to its staff ever since.

Printing original poetry, short stories, essays, sketches, and short plays, the publication is entirely non-profit. A new system of selling the books, with subscriptions sold prior to the regular sale of the magazine, was initiated this year.

Editor of the magazine was Carl Huston. His staff consisted of Jan Dunson, B. J. Morris, Dan Anderson, Howard Ehrenman, Roger Bonham, and Gene Dent. Marlene Swanzel served as art editor, designing the cover and supervising work on illustrations.

Business manager Al Iandola was assisted with sales and publicity by Anne Huston and Dan Kolarik. Faculty advisers in addition to Dr. McCain were Miss Grayce M. Scholt, and Fred McCleod, instructors in the English department.

FRESHMAN HANDBOOK

The much used "bible" of all Bowling Green freshmen and transfer students is the Freshman Handbook. It provides the incoming student with an inkling into the many aspects of Bowling Green's social and academic life.

From hints on studying to tips on what to wear to different affairs, information important to freshmen was covered in this handy book. Suggestions of things to bring to college, as well as what to leave behind, are offered by the experienced upperclassmen. Athletic events and social traditions are explained along with the hazing rules.

The staff of this year's Freshman Handbook was the largest in the 37-year history of the publication. Editor David Reichert headed a staff of 46.

Prof. J. J. Currier was adviser of the handbook.

STUDENT DIRECTORY

After endless hours of deciphering students' handwriting, editor Jerry Henderson and his staff completed the 1950-51 Student Directory at an earlier time than any previous issue. This was made possible in part by the use of IBM cards which were filled out by the students when they had their Activity Card pictures taken.

Another new feature of the directory this year was a complete list of all members of the fraternities and sororities. The book also contained University phone numbers, lists of school officials, a faculty directory, a house directors section, and a listing of graduate students and assistants. The "vital statistics" were given about 98 per cent of the students.

Assisting editor Jerry Henderson were Emery Westfall, assistant editor; Marilyn Batdorf, faculty editor; and Jim Miller, fraternity and sorority editor. Sales were supervised by Harriett Haubner and Betty Coen. Jean Hauri, Sue Prinz, Harriett Haubner, and Mrs. Russell Baird were the typists.

A CAPPELLA

Under the direction of Dr. James P. Kennedy, the Bowling Green A Cappella Choir completed its fifth year of musical activities.

The 130 mixed voices made outstanding appearances at cities such as Toledo, Cleveland, and Lima. A ten-day tour through the southern states brought enthusiastic recognition to the group and the University.

On Dec. 10 the choir initiated the National Broadcasting System's Christmas season with the presentation of a nationwide broadcast from Cleveland's WTAM. Letters of praise were received from all over the United States for this concert. This helped make the dream of becoming familiar with Ohioans a reality.

University students went home for Christmas vacation remembering the beautiful rendition of Handel's "Messiah" staged by the A Cappella choir in coordination with other University vocal groups.

The officers of the organization were: Guy Smith, president, Joan Dake, secretary; Jack Ross, business manager; Doug McEwen, student director; and Sally Squire, librarian.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB

Singing because they liked to sing, approximately 60 male voices constituted the Men's Glee Club for the 1950-51 year. Most of the members were not music majors.

Under the direction of Dr. James P. Kennedy, the organization made a number of trips during the year to cities in Ohio, including Dayton, Cincinnati, and Toledo. A tour through the northeastern states climaxed the year's activities.

The Men's Glee Club combined with the Treble Clef and the A Cappella Choir to present the Christmas concert.

The "men" get together for a litte singing.

TREBLE CLEF

With a purpose of singing for their own and their listener's enjoyment, approximately 160 women participated in the Bowling Green Treble Clef the past year.

Bunny Mercer served as president of the organization. She was assisted by Helen Mueller as vice president; Pat Thompson and Bonnie Smith as secretaries; Mary Ann Hodge as business manager; Helen Wise as librarian; Ruth Bowen and Dorothy Foster as stage manager; and Janice Fuller as student conductor.

Between 50 and 60 of the Treble Clef members participated in a tour which scheduled concerts in such states as New York, New Jersey, West Virginia, and Virginia. The Treble Clef also participated in the Christmas Concert and the annual presentation of "The Messiah".

Dr. James P. Kennedy was director of the group.

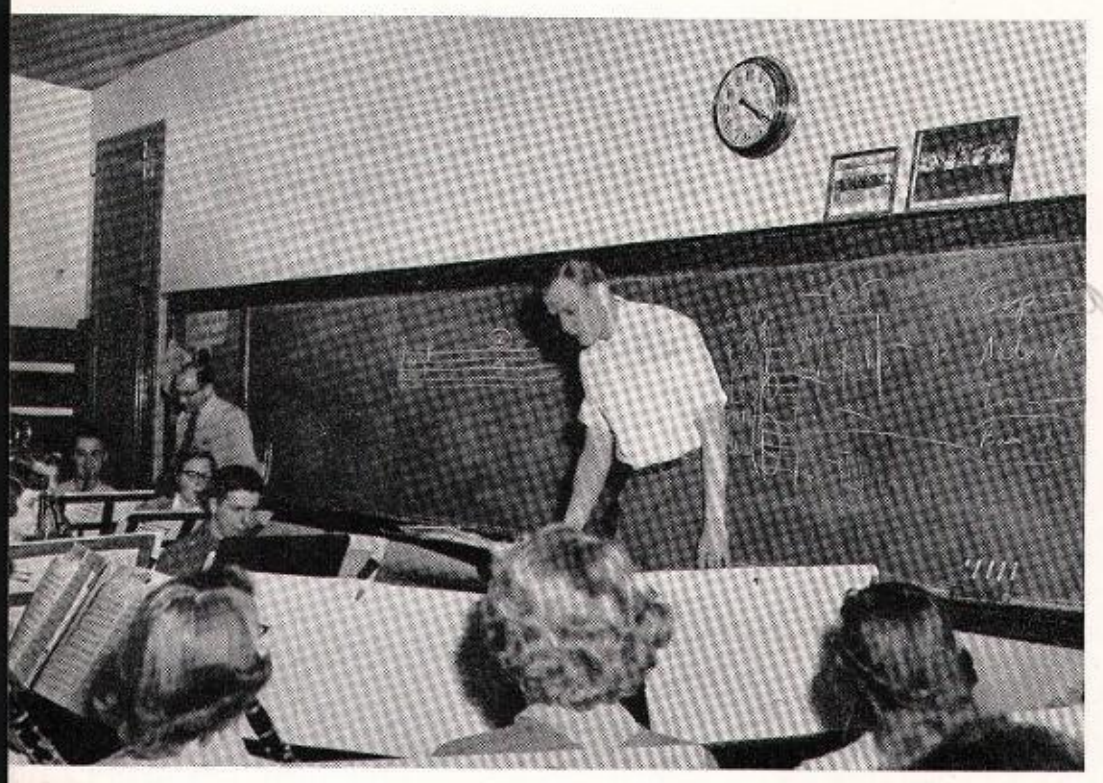
CONCERT BAND

Practice sessions were often hard work.



The presentation of the annual Christmas Concert on Dec. 19 and the traditional spring concert in March highlighted the activities of the Concert Band. The band, under the direction of Arthur C. Zuelzke, assistant professor of music, and Richard Ecker, instructor in the music department, was composed of approximately 60 members.

Composed of students showing sufficient musical ability, the group met each week day except Friday to practice. Credits toward graduation was one of the rewards for belonging to the hardworking group.

For the purpose of obtaining funds for a spring tour, the band presented several concerts in neighboring communities. Three twilight concerts were given in May to round out the year's activities. Outstanding members of the band were permitted to direct various selections at this time.

Officers of the Concert Band for the year were Clare Champion, president; Gwen MacKell, secretary-treasurer; and Arlene Tonn, scribe.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

The prize-winning "Essay on an Original Air" by Wayne Bohrnstedt was given its premier performance at the first concert presented by the University Symphony Orchestra, Nov. 30. Mr. Bohrnstedt was at one time an assistant professor of music at Bowling Green. Judging from the roar of applause that followed the composition, the audience was impressed and the Symphony Orchestra was on its way towards its past successful season.

Under the direction of Gerald McLaughlin, instructor in the music department, the orchestra also presented Schubert's "Fifth Symphony", "Finlandia", "Tales from the Vienna Woods", and the accompaniment to Handel's "Messiah" among its selections during the year.

Douglas McEwen served as president of the organization. Mildred Herman was vice president; Margaret Wepler, secretary; Mary Hartup, treasurer; Charles Gorsuch and Howard Bond, business managers; and Arthur Cotruvo, librarian.

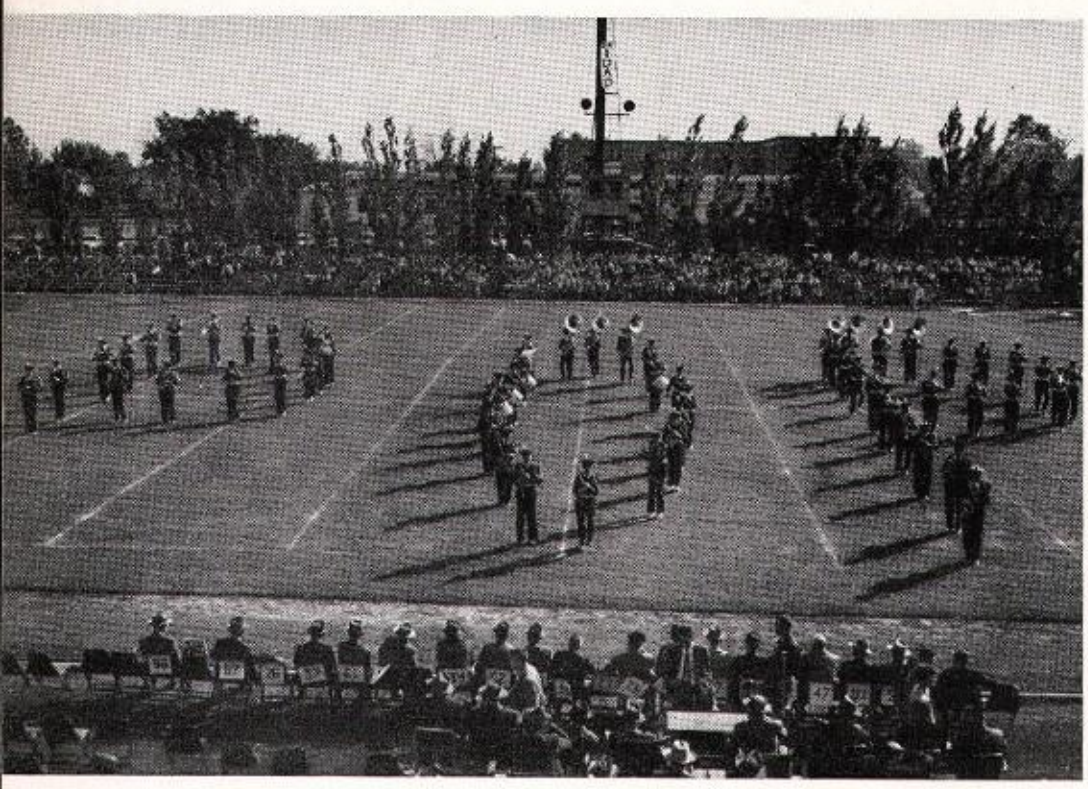
MARCHING BAND

The Marching Band forms "POP" in honor of the Dads present at the Dad's Day football game.



No matter what the weather, the 74 male members of the Marching Band tramped the stadium field, practicing their many drills. Diligent was the best word to describe the rows of tired members.

Composed mainly of freshman students, the band was responsible for the shows at halftime at the Bowling Green football games. Both coordinated drill and marching formations were presented. The members of the band also made trips to Bowling Green games at other cities, including the long trip to Richmond, Kentucky for the Eastern Kentucky game.

The director of the band was Arthur C. Zuelzke, assistant professor of music, and the assistant director was Richard Ecker, instructor in the music department.

CINEMA CLUB

Cinema Club, one of the newest campus organizations, was organized during the fall of 1949 for the purpose of studying motion picture history and learning to appreciate films. Forty students and faculty members were charter members.

For ten Monday evenings each semester, members view outstanding Hollywood productions and foreign films released between 1893 and 1941. Since the club is non-academic, study notes are mimeographed and distributed to members.

In an atmosphere of a small movie theater, meetings are held in the lecture room of the Chemistry Building.

Cinema Club chairman was James Limbacher, assistant director of the University News Bureau. The club has no officers.

Among the famous films shown during the first year were The Birth of a Nation, Greed, The Big Parade, All Quiet on the Western Front, It Happened One Night, The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari, and Cavalcade.

If future Cinema Club series prove successful, it may become an academic course in the University curriculum.

FARM BUREAU YOUTH CLUB

With the aid of the Rural Youth Department of the Ohio Farm Bureau, the Farm Bureau Youth Club was organized in the spring of 1950 for students who were genuinely interested in farm organization and desired to increase their knowledge of rural life.

The club held two meetings each month. The meetings consisted of discussion of pamphlets received from the Ohio Farm Bureau office at Columbus and current and rural interest topics. A recreation period, consisting mainly of folk and square dancing, followed each meeting.

To direct them during their first complete year, the club chose the following officers: Mary Ellis, president; Sara Aylsworth, secretary; and Helen Wise, treasurer. Charles Kurfess was chosen as the representative to the State Farm Bureau Youth Committee. Richard J. Box, an instructor in the economics department, served as faculty adviser of the club.

EMERSON PARLIAMENTARY SOCIETY

Emerson Literary Society, the oldest organization on campus, changed its name to Emerson Parliamentary Society in order that the chief activity of the group, the practice of parliamentary procedure, would be more obvious to students. A training ground for students interested in discussions, debate, and forums, the organization invited guest speakers to many of its bi-monthly meetings.

Discussion topics were either subjects with which the students were confronted on the campus or topics current in national or international affairs.

Roberts' Rules of Order were not the only interests of the club, however, since its social activities included a taffy pull and a spring picnic.

Dale McOmber, instructor in the political science department, acted as adviser of the group. Officers were Bill Baker, president; Bob Keener, vice president; Marilyn Batdorf, secretary; Troy Jenson, treasurer; and Bonford Talbert, corresponding secretary.

PHRATRA PHILIPPA

Phratra Philippa was organized to promote interest in and improve the skills of horsemanship. It also aims to acquaint the public with the activities of the club members in the field of horsemanship.

In addition to the semi-monthly meetings, schooling shows, and frequent contests, the club also has a fall and spring horse show. A traditional dinner for members is also sponsored by the organization.

"Phratra's Pals", a fraternal horsemanship magazine, is another activity sponsored by the club.

The faculty adviser was Dr. Rea McCain, professor of English. The president for the past year was Pat Davison.

PROMENADERS

"Swing your partner and dosey do" are frequent calls heard at the get-to-gethers of the promenaders. Re-activated in 1948 as the Square Dance Club, the Promenaders put special emphasis upon the teaching of square dancing and various types of folk dancing.

With growing interest in square dancing on the Bowling Green campus, the club expanded rapidly. With 73 members during the past year, the polka, schottische, and waltz were taught, in addition to square dances, by experienced instructors.

The organization participated in the Ohio State Festival in the spring and sponsored several all-campus square dances. Picnics and hayrides were held for club members.

This year's officers were Tom Durbin, president; Roy Garland, vice president; Eldeen Dickerman, secretary; and Sara Aylsworth, treasurer.

The faculty adviser was Mrs. Amy Torgerson, instructor in health and physical education.

RIFLE AND PISTOL CLUB

Two Rifle and Pistol members examine targets.

The purpose of the Rifle and Pistol Club is to furnish another recreational facility on campus that not only provides enjoyment for its members but also gives them a foundation in the skill of the sport.

Reactivated in the fall of '47, the club was chartered by the National Rifle Association. Anyone interested in firearms is allowed membership in the club. The firing team was made up of those members with the highest scores received while practice shooting.

Composed of 30 members this past year, the group participated in inter-collegiate matches and sponsored the Turkey Shoot in November. The team participated in the state finals in Columbus in the spring.

The club was sponsored by Gerald Acker, assistant professor of biology, and was led by President Don Hilliker.

SAILING CLUB

The Sailing Club, which first gained national recognition by winning the midwest championship at the University of Michigan, was again active this year in meets against other members of the Midwest Collegiate Association.

The club, which was organized two years ago, sponsored the first Bowling Green Invitational Meet last year.

At present, the group owns one boat and is planning to purchase an additional craft each year.

A special course is set up for beginners in the art of handling sailing craft. Membership in the organization is open to all who are interested.

Meetings were held regularly during the year to keep members informed about the latest sailing news of interest.

William Critzer was the year's commodore.

SQUARE AND COMPASS

Founded with the purpose of providing and promoting masonic ideals among students, faculty, and other University personnel, the Square and Compass Club was organized in Oct., 1947, under the auspices of the local Wood County Masonic Lodge.

Membership in the club is limited to Master Masons, members of deMolay, youth groups subsidiary to the Masons, and interested students who must be recommended by two Master masons.

The meetings of the organization are held in Studio "B" of the Practical Arts building, the first and third Thursday of each month. To aid in increasing the knowledge of masonry, several prominent speakers, including Judge Ray Ladd and country recorder Clyde Loomis, spoke before the group. Films on masonic homes and other related fields were also presented.

Officers of the group for the year were: Arthur Heiser, president; Walter Nachtigall, vice president; and Elliot Deaton, secretary-treasurer. Wilbur J. Abell, associate professor of business administration, served as adviser to the club.

MEN'S INDEPENDENT SOCIETY

Primarily organized to create fellowship among independent male students on campus, the Men's Independent Society is open to all men who desire to become affiliated. No racial or religious restrictions are placed on the qualifications for membership. A "C" average is required and in place of a pledge period, the organization has an acquaintance period.

The big event of the year for MIS was the joint sponsorship of the Homecoming dance with WIS. In January of each year, the organization commemorates its establishment with a Founder's Day banquet honoring the men who formed the organization.

MIS was organized as the Delta Epsilon club in the fall of '48. Beginning with three members, the group expanded until it claimed over 60 students in 1949-50. The club was organized formally as Men's Independent Society when it was recognized by Student Senate early in 1949.

WOMEN'S INDEPENDENT SOCIETY

As co-sponsors of the Homecoming dance, the Women's Independent Society was responsible for one of the main events of the school year. In conjunction with the Men's Independent Society, the "USS Alumni" was given in both the Men's Gym and the Women's Building to handle the over-capacity crowds which attended the affair.

The Women's Independent Society is a chapter of the National Independent Student Association. Membership in the group is open to all independent women who desire to become affiliated. The primary purpose of the organization is to foster group spirit.

The WIS awards two rotating trophies each year. One presentation goes to the winner of the jacks tournament in which representatives from every organization on campus take part. The other is awarded to the women's group accumulating the most points from participation in athletic events.

WORLD STUDENT ASSOCIATION

World Student Organization members dressed in native garb.

With a total of 52 members representing 25 different countries, the World Student Association completed its third year on the Bowling Green campus.

Attempting to give its members an insight into the cultures of the various countries represented, the association also tries to acquaint them with the culture of the United States.

Business meetings were held twice a month and were highlighted by programs presented by talent from within the organization. These programs frequently consisted of members performing songs and dances native to their country. Supplementing these programs were several parties.

Officers of the club were Edgar Palarea, president, from Guatemala; Van Demetriades, vice president, from Greece; Adele Leong, secretary, from the Hawaiian Islands; Bessie Lee, treasurer, from China; and Phyllis Wigle, reporter, from Canada.

Faculty advisers this past year were F. Eugene Beatty, director of services, and Waldo E. Steidtmann, professor of Biology.

The Off-Campus Club is the only organization that provides every student living off campus with the opportunity to meet his fellow "Commuters". As its all-campus dance, the club presents the annual Dutch Treat each spring. At the beginning of the year it sponsors a hayride. With monthly parties and disc dances throughout the year, the members are provided with numerous opportunities to get together.

In addition, off-campus students are given the opportunity to voice their opinions on campus policies through their student senator. Sue MacNealy served in that capacity this year. The club meets every other Wednesday for business purposes.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Huffman and Miss Mary Ditman served as advisers to the Off-Campus Club for the past year. Its officers were DeLoyd Hagerty, president; Shirley Hunt, vice president; Sue MacNealy, secretary-treasurer.

Any student living off campus is eligible for membership.

TWELFTH NIGHT

William Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night", was the final production of the University Theatre in the 1949-50 season. Directed by Dr. Elden T. Smith, chairman of the speech department, the production ran May 18-21. Helen Tsarones was student director.

The cast included: Jean MacGlathery as Viola; Alan Nichols, Orsino; Bob Taylor, Sabastian; Don Dickson, sea captain; Herbert Clarke, Sir Toby Belch; Fred Thayer, Valentine; Ray Liedlich, Curio; Bill Evans, Sir Andrew Augecheck; Don Miller, Malvolio; and Jack Mullen, Fabien.

Wally Prinz played Feste; John Stuart, the priest; Gary Wilson, and Abe Bassett were the first and second officers; Dick Doll and Bob LaPlant, first and second lords; Dick Stensby and Norman Brenne, first and second sailors.

June McGuigan and Phyllis Roberts took the parts of Olivia and Maria respectively. Ladies-in-waiting were Anne Cloutier, Emily Bazley, and Betty Jane Morris.

OUTWARD BOUND

"Outward Bound", a 3-act fantasy by Sutton Vane, was a major production of the University Theater in the 1949-50 season. Directed by speech instructor, Lee Miesle, the play opened March 17, 1950. The cast included: Patricia Boller, Kenneth Shoemaker, Isabel Mann, Alan Nordwall, Stanleigh Fisk, Arthur Moore, Herbert Clarke, and Helen Tsarones.

The play concerns a composite group of universally-symbolic people aboard an English liner bound for eternity. There is an alcoholic, a self-righteous businessman, a charwoman, a social snob, a minister, and a pair of lovers, who are attended by a mild-mannered steward.

These people are thrown together on a strange and mystic journey into the unknown. They are traveling to a place of reckoning where their cases will be reviewed and judged by a Holy Examiner who will decide where they are to spend eternity.

BARTERED BRIDE

A comic opera, "The Bartered Bride", running March 8-11, 1950, was presented by the combined efforts of the music and speech departments. Written by Bedrich Semetana, Czechoslovakia's foremost 19th century composer, the opera draws its humor from the customs of an 18th century Bohemian family and the antique Bohemian practice of marriage brokerage.

Robert O. Jaynes, tenor, took the romantic lead as Jenik with Jacqueline Smith, soprano, as Marie. A total of 74 persons comprised the singing and dancing cast. Other principal parts were taken by Douglas McEwen, baritone; Donald McGookey, tenor; and Barbara Evans, Arliethia Konwin, Diane Totter, James Jarvis, Earl Arthur, Guy Smith, and Walter Prinz.

Dramatic direction was conducted by Robert Richey, instructor in speech, and music was directed by Dr. J. Paul Kennedy, professor of music. Direction of dancing sequences was handled by Joan Brodie, instructor of health and physical education. Staging was planned by John Hepler, instructor of speech.

Pat Plumb displays . . . appeal in "Love Goes to College".

LOVE GOES TO COLLEGE

"Love Goes to College", this year's prize-winning student musical, was written by Edith Ludwig, a senior music major. Co-starring Diana Totter and Edward Chonko, the production was given to responsive audiences the week of Homecoming.

The theme of the comedy was humorous, romantic situations in which a bewildered, studious freshman finds herself. Complications arise when a smooth sophomore who is the coed's heart interest and a trio of Cupids, the coed's roommates intervene.

Featured characters were: Joyce Atkinson, Sue Coffman, Guy Smith, and Victor Young. Supporting cast included: Patricia Boller, Dave Broughton, Bob Lobravico, Don Miller, Mary Jane Palermo, Wally Prinz, Dwight Rangler, Bob Taylor and a singing and dancing chorus of 32.

Modern sets were designed by Gordon Beck and Abe Bassett. Jeannine Morris was choreographer.

THREE MEN ON A HORSE

"Three Men On a Horse" playing Nov. 15-17, 1950, was the first major production of the season by the University Theater. The farce was written by John Cecil Holm and George Abbott. It was directed by Robert D. Richey, instructor in speech. His assistant was Natalie Woodin.

The plot centers around a meek, greeting card poet, played by Judson Ellertson, who has the unusual power to pick winning horses merely for his own amusement. But the talented hero is henpecked by his wife, played by June McGuigan, and picked on by his rich, egotistical brother-in-law, portrayed by Kenneth Shoemaker.

The gamblers who turn his valuable talent to their use were played by Dick Hoffman, Stanleigh Fisk, and James Rudes. Patricia Sikes took the part of the ex-show girl, and Robert Taylor was bartender and Robert Stahl, delivery boy. Tina Taylor was reporter, Susan Bond, hotel maid, Howard Ehrenman, the boss, and other parts were taken by Bill Evans, William Hummon, and David Freedheim. Stanley Morris, stage director, was assisted by Warren Takushi.

LITTLE FOXES

"The Little Foxes", a psychological drama by the outstanding playwright, Lillian Hellman, was presented January 17-21, 1951, by the University Theater Players. Speech instructor, Lee Meisle, was director. Abe Bassett assisted him.

The play, which was a smash hit on Broadway and in the movies, starred Patricia Sikes as the ruthless Regina. The plot centers around the cunning Hubbard family of the Southern reconstruction period and their greed for power and money. The drama is unique in combining brilliant characterizations, melodrama and comedy. John Hepler, technical director of the speech department, designed the authentic set in the styles of a Southern living room of the 1900 period.

The cast included Marilyn Silver as Addie; Charles Fasnaugh, Cal; Larry Selka, Ben; Jack Mullin, Oscar; James Rudes, Leo; Carl Balson, Marshall; Ada Cogan, Alexandra; Patricia Boller, Birdie; and Al Nichols, Horace.

VARSITY DEBATE

With a record year of 210 debates in 22 tourneys in 1950, the Varsity Debate team had an even greater year in 1951. The 1950 season was topped by Bowling Green's first participation in the National West Point Invitational Tournament where Pat Swineford and Louis Fernandez attained the quarter-finals.

Other successful tournaments in 1950 included the State Championship Tourney, championship in the women's division at the Province Tournament of Pi Kappa Delta, the novice state championship, the province championship in oratory, and the oratory championship of the Great Lakes region.

Coached by M. Harold Mikle, assistant professor of speech, and Ray Yeager, instructor in the speech department, the Varsity Debaters participated in many important debates again this year including the Otterbein Tourney in December and the Purdue Debate and the Great Lakes Tournament in January.

During the second semester, the squad entered the Buckeye Debate Tourney at Kent State, the Delta Sigma Rho Tournament at Depauw, and the Men's State Tournament at Capitol in February, and the N.O.D.C. Varsity Debate at John Carroll, the Pi Kappa Delta National at Oklahoma A. & M., and the Men's Individual Events at Denison in March.

WORKSHOP PLAYERS

The Workshop Players is open to freshman students who are interested in dramatic arts and who desire to have an opportunity to gain valuable experience in their field. The aim of the group is to prepare its members for future work on the stage.

The group sponsored and produced many one act plays during the year. Regular meetings featured mixers, lectures, movies, and skits. In addition, members of the organization were encouraged to take trips to Toledo to attend professional productions. Opportunities were offered to give the students experience and training in the techniques of publicity, playwriting, backstage work, and box office and sales practices.

Robert D. Richey, instructor in the speech department, served as adviser to a group of over 200 students. Carl Balson was president and Diane Seagren, vice president. Joyce Copp served as secretary and Dwight Rangeler was program chairman.

Workshop Player member Dwight Rangeler hangs the organization's award for best performances.

CAP AND GOWN

Cap and Gown is a local honorary for the ten senior women who achieve distinction because of scholarship, leadership, character, personality, and service to the campus. Membership in the seven-year-old organization is one of the highest honors bestowed on women students at Bowling Green.

Each spring new members are selected. The outgoing members bestow their mortar board on the heads of the newly elected women on Honors Day. The tradition is that the new members are permitted to wear the cap all that day.

This year, along with Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity, the members raised scholarship funds by taking charge of the rental of caps and gowns.

President for the year was Janet Dunson. Other officers were Pauline Miller, vice president; Betty Jane Morris, secretary; and Elizabeth Curtiss, treasurer. Dean of Women, Mrs. Jesse Currier, was adviser to the society.

MEMBERS OF HONORARIES ARE ENTITLED TO WEAR THE KEYS DISPLAYED ON THE OPPOSITE PAGE. MEMBERSHIP IS RESTRICTED TO THOSE WHO MAINTAIN HIGH SCHOLASTIC AVERAGES IN THEIR FIELD OR WHO HAVE DEMONSTRATED THE QUALITIES OF LEADERSHIP.

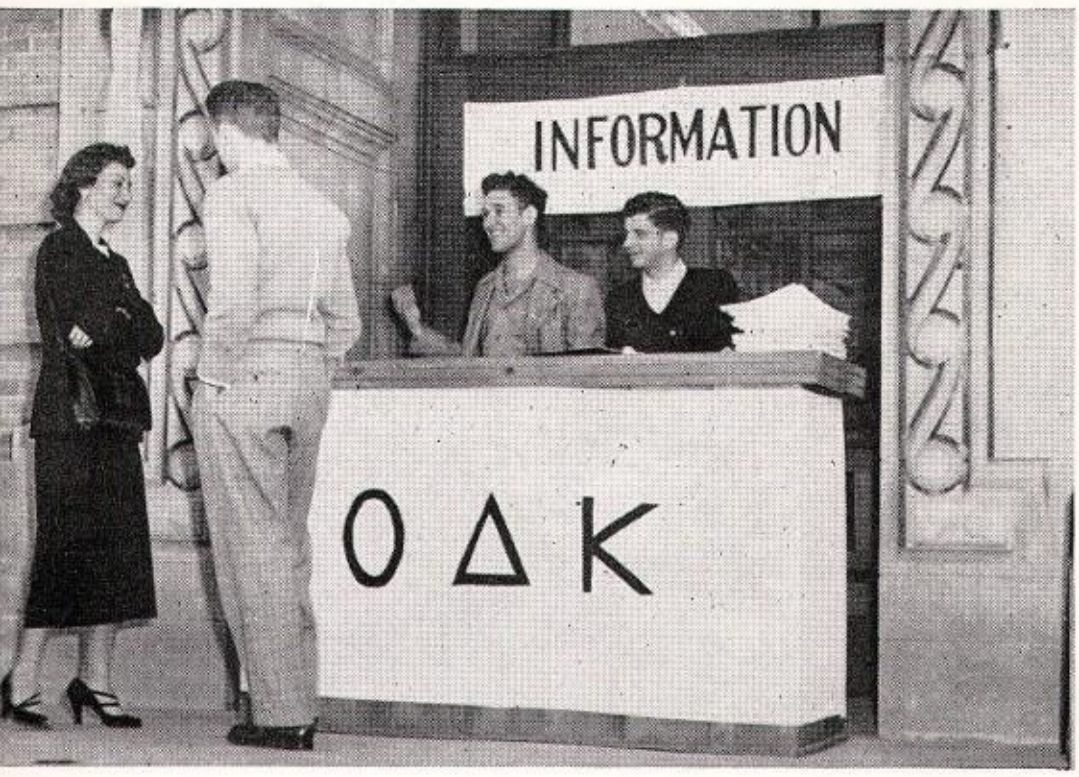
OMICRON DELTA KAPPA

ODK operated an information booth over the homecoming weekend.



Recognition of extra-curricular leadership and encouragement of campus citizenship are the aims of Omicron Delta Kappa Society at Bowling Green.

The Beta Tau Circle was established at the University in the spring of 1949. Only the junior and senior men in the upper 35 per cent of their classes are eligible for consideration.

Proficiency in at least two of the five major phases of campus life is expected of the members. Other than scholarship the phases are: athletics, social and religious affairs, publications, speech, music and dramatic arts.

ODK annually assists in the Honors Day program. It also conducts information service for visitors at Homecoming and welcomes major athletic teams.

Richard Doll served as president of the group, assisted by John Wilson as vice president. Dr. Emerson C. Shuck, faculty adviser, acted as secretary, and Guy Smith was treasurer.

Students tapped at the Mid-Year assembly were Howard Ehrenman, Richard Hoffman, Douglas McEwen, William Pampel, Kenneth Shoemaker, Fred Waugh, and Robert Whetstone. Rev. Kermit C. Long was named "alumnus of the year".

ALPHA EPSILON DELTA

Constructive projects to serve the campus and its members characterized the activities of Alpha Epsilon Delta, national pre-medical honorary fraternity. Typical of its activities was the free blood-typing of students and faculty.

To be eligible for membership a student must be a second semester sophomore enrolled as a pre-medical student with a biology major, and chemistry minor and have an average of 2.5.

Objects of the fraternity are: to encourage excellence in pre-medical scholarship, to stimulate an appreciation of the importance of pre-medical education in the study of medicine, and to bind together similarly interested students.

Officers of the fraternity during 1950-51 were: Frank Avalon, president; Bob Lanzer, vice president; Rogene Fisher, secretary; and Jack Morimitsu, treasurer.

Dr. Frank Meserve, associate professor of biology, was adviser to the group.

BETA PI THETA

Cultivating mesdemoiselles and messieurs on the Bowling Green campus, Beta Pi Theta holds the furthering of French culture and civilization as its primary concern.

The French honorary, one of the oldest groups on campus, entertains all French majors and minors at an annual spring party.

To qualify as a member one must have a "B" academic average. New members are required to read an original French essay before their initiation.

The group of fifteen had as its officers: President Marilyn Mercer (first semester) and Sam Thompson (second semester); Vice president Henry Onak; Secretary Marjory Graham; Treasurer Ronald Amari; and Sentinels Ralph Wolfe and Bob Ketzenbarger.

Dr. Cecil Rew served as faculty adviser.

BOOK AND MOTOR

Scholastic achievement and extra-curricular activities are stressed in choosing new members of Book and Motor, scholastic honorary at Bowling Green. Prospective members must also have completed at least 56 credit hours and have an accumulative point average of 3.4 or better.

Book and Motor, founded at Bowling Green 37 years ago, is one of the oldest and strongest organizations on campus.

Each January when new members are initiated, they receive the Book and Motor key which symbolizes the fundamental principles of education: the open book representing knowledge, and the motor, symbolizing industry. The combination represents progress in concrete application of knowledge to living.

Officers during 1950-51 were: Bill Pampel, president: Jack Myers, vice president; Pauline Miller, secretary; and Dr. W. A. Zaugg, treasurer.

DELTA PHI DELTA

Among the recent activities of Delta Phi Delta, national art honorary, was the presentation of an art exhibit collected from ten colleges in this area including Bowling Green. This exhibit was circulated throughout the region and completed its tour at an art show in Columbus.

Other activities included creating objects for merchandising and preparing an art scrapbook which competes in a national Delta Phi Delta contest, held every two years.

Members of this group are the highest ranking juniors and seniors who make art their major. They must have at least a 3.0 average in all art courses taken and a 2.0 all-college average.

Delta Phi Delta officers for the first semester of the 1950-51 year included: Mrs. Lillian Felty, president; Don Eaton, vice president; Miriam Mersereau, secretary; and Virginia Ogg, treasurer.

Mrs. Philip Wigg and William Wankleman were honorary members while Karl Richards acted as sponsor and faculty adviser.

DELTA SIGMA

The aim of Delta Sigma, honorary journalism fraternity, is to reward efforts to further campus journalism. Toward this end, the group presents a trophy on Honors Day to the underclassman who has contributed most to campus journalism during the year.

Another trophy is awarded each Spring when the Northwestern Ohio District Journalism Association holds its annual convention on campus.

New members are initiated into the honorary in the Fall and Spring. The group was founded in 1947.

This year Delta Sigma and Sigma Phi, women's journalism honorary, sponsored a dinner for Robert St. John when he visited Bowling Green as an Artist Series speaker.

Requirements for admission into the honorary are a 3.0 average in journalism for three consecutive semesters, and a 2.3 cumulative average.

Delta Sigma's officers were Jerry Henderson, president; Donald Tindall, vice president; and Allan Libbe, secretary-treasurer. Faculty advisers were John K. Mires and Russel N. Baird of the journalism department faculty.

"To promote skill in industrial arts, and to foster research in the field" is the aim of Epsilon Pi Tau, honorary fraternity of industrial arts education.

Marking its third year on the Bowling Green campus, Alpha Gamma chapter of the inter-national organization sponsored field trips for all students enrolled in industrial arts courses.

Another activity of the fraternity is to attend lectures given by speakers in the field of industrial arts and industrial arts education.

The group of 50 more than doubled last year's membership. Requirements for membership are: an average of "B" in all industrial arts courses, and a minimum average of 2.7 in all other courses.

Officers for 1950-51 were: William Weigl, president; Sidney Davis, vice president; Gerald Apple, secretary; and Paul Alexander, treasurer.

Dr. Roland M. Torgerson, associate professor of industrial arts, served as adviser.

As the national honorary for both geography and geology, Gamma Theta Upsilon partakes in a variety of activities.

A number of lecturers in the field of geography and geology spoke before the group this year. They included Dr. H. F. Kriege, silicate engineer, who spoke about the limestone aggregate industry, and D. E. Coleman, who spoke about meteorology.

Prof. John R. Coash gave an illustrated lecture on a field trip of the South and West, from Kentucky to Colorado. Slides taken on the trip were shown.

The group of twenty has two closed events annually: a Christmas party, and a spring picnic.

Purpose of the honorary is two-fold: to further geographic and geologic interests, and to give members a better understanding of world affairs. To become a member a student must have completed twelve hours in geography or geology, and maintained a minimum average of "B".

Officers for 1950-51 were: Wayne Connor, president; Donald McGookey, vice president; and Carolyn Huffman, secretary-treasurer.

KAPPA ALPHA MU

A campus photo contest was held this spring under the sponsorship of Kappa Alpha Mu, in accord with the purpose of the national honorary group, "to extend special recognition to those persons displaying outstanding talent for and interest in the field of photo journalism".

A young organization, Kappa Alpha Mu was founded in 1945 at the University of Missouri, and now has 22 chapters.

Phi chapter, the first in Ohio, was established at Bowling Green July 1, 1949.

Officers of the group for 1950-51 were Jack Dukes, president; Harold Young, vice president; Elizabeth Kos, secretary; and Janet Dunson, treasurer. Donald C. Peterson, journalism instructor, was faculty adviser.

KAPPA DELTA PI

Kappa Delta Pi officers and advisers enjoy refreshments after a meeting.

Delta Phi chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, national honor society in the field of education, marked the end of its twelfth year on campus.

Lectures by prominent persons in education and reports by members about their off-campus teaching experiences were among the group's top activities throughout the year.

Aims of Kappa Delta Pi are to encourage high professional, intellectual, and personal standards, and to recognize outstanding contributions to the educational field.

Requirements of KDPi are: The rank of junior in the College of Education; a "B" average by the junior year; a place in the upper quarter of the class; and demonstration of desirable personal habits and attributes of leadership.

KAPPA LAMBDA

Organized in 1950, Kappa Lambda is a women's honorary in physical education, which serves as the sponsor for professional activities in the department.

This year, the local honorary had as its officers: president, Betsy Curtiss; vice president, Verna Harding; secretary, Barbara Hobensack; treasurer, Doris Wurster; and publicity chairman, Sybil Bragg.

The advisers were Miss Gertrude Eppler and Miss Iris Andrews.

To attain membership in Kappa Lambda, a student must have attended Bowling Green for at least two years, completed 25 hours of health and physical education, and obtained a junior classification.

Members are required to have at least a 3.0 average in health and physical education classes, and a 2.7 or better average in all other academic classes.

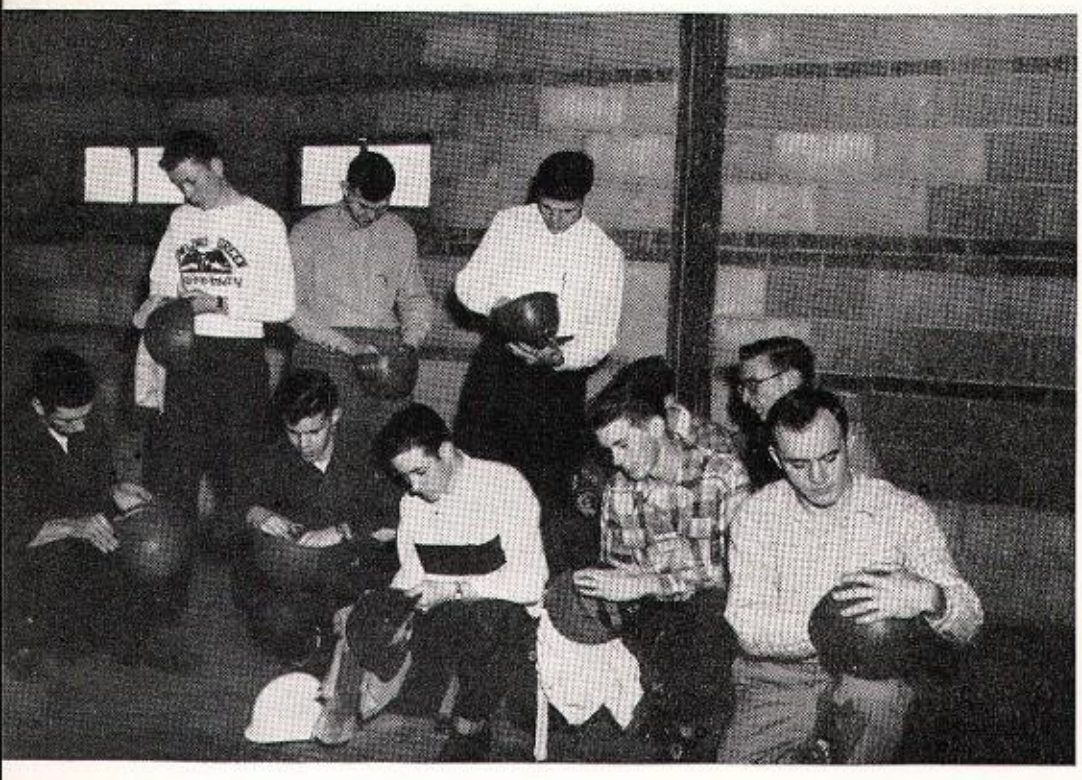
PERSHING RIFLES

PK's getting ready for inspection.



Pershing Rifles, national honorary society of military students, is in charge of flag raising ceremonies at all the varsity football games played in the Bowling Green stadium.

The group also performs two extra drills a week, in addition to regular ROTC drills. It sponsored a closed dance and an all-campus dance during the first semester, and chose Lois Stebbins to reign as company sponsor.

The Bowling Green group is Company I of the First Regiment of the national society of Pershing Rifles, and was founded on campus April 22, 1949. Officers of the group, led by Captain John Sayre, attended a Pershing Rifles National Assembly at the University of Indiana in October.

Other officers of Co. I were lieutenants Donald Schanke, Rolland Koenitzer, Richard Broka, and James Flaherty. Col. William C. Lucas and master sergeants Howell Taylor and John E. Denn served as advisers.

Candidates for membership are required to carry a B average in all ROTC courses, and to possess aptitude and interest in military services.

PI OMEGA PI

With a workshop on problems of the first year of teaching scheduled as its main project, the Alpha Psi chapter of Pi Omega Pi, national business education honorary, planned and carried out an active and helpful program throughout the year. There was a speaker or panel at each of the monthly meetings. The group put out its annual publication in the spring which was sent to all alumni of business education. Elinor Elsass was the representative to the national convention in Cleveland.

The group was formed in 1941 at Bowling Green. The requirements for membership are: membership in Quill Type, a 2.75 average in education and business courses, and a cumulative average of 2.5 in all other courses.

Officers of the honorary were: Donna Walker, president; Elinor Elsass, vice president; Marilyn Rayle, secretary-treasurer. Dr. Olive Parmenter served as adviser to the group.

PI SIGMA ALPHA

Pi Sigma Alpha, national political science honorary, was founded on campus in the Spring of 1947 to recognize achievement by political science students.

During the year, the group sponsored programs on political subjects and held two banquets for the initiation of new members.

To become a member of the honorary, a student must have a 3.0 average in political science, and must have taken a minimum of 10 hours in that field, including at least one course at a junior or senior level.

Charles Kurfess served as president of the group. Other officers were William Cameron, vice president; and Robert Lederman, secretary-treasurer. Dr. Charles A. Barrell, chairman of the political science department, was adviser.

VARSITY CLUB

Biggest event on the Varsity Club calendar is the annual Variety Show. Held early in November, an all-Varsity Club cast presented the farcical comedy for a two-night run.

Club members played hosts at an all campus spring dance, which previously had been a closed affair. As a service, Varsity Club operated an athletic goods store for convenience and lower cost to students.

At half-time of the Homecoming game Dr. Frank J. Prout, university president, was presented with a Varsity Club Bowling Green blanket, and was made an honorary member of the organization.
Requirements for membership is the winning of a varsity letter in any sport.

Officers for the year were: Harry Shearer, president; Anthony Marko, vice president; Dell Ewing, secretary; and Charles Woodfill, treasurer. David Matthews, assistant professor of physical education, was adviser to the group of 50.

THETA ALPHA PHI

To stimulate an interest in the theatre is the purpose of Theta Alpha Phi, dramatics honorary which recognizes outstanding students of the dramatic arts. Since its organization on the Bowling Green campus in 1945, this group has taken great steps to achieve this goal.

Their many activities include the sponsorship of three one-act plays each year, support of the Huron Playhouse in Huron, Ohio, and the sponsorship of teas for various guest artists, famous in the field of dramatics. An outstanding event of the past year was the Theta Alpha Phi national convention held this spring on the Bowling Green campus.

To be eligible for initiation into this group, a student must have a scholastic average of 2.2 or above, must have completed two semesters of university work, must have acted as crew head for a three-act play, and minor requirements.

Officers were: Helen Tsarones, president; Judson Ellertson, vice president; Dick Doll, treasurer; Betty Jane Morris, secretary; and Kenneth Shoemaker, program chairman.

Mrs. Lois Wright and Richard Harring were honorary members. Dr. Elden T. Smith acted as sponsor, Lee Meisle was faculty adviser, and John Heppler and Sidney Stone were faculty members.

SICSIC

SICSIC, men's anonymous honor society was formed in 1946 by six students, a faculty adviser and Dr. Prout, as a means to stimulate school spirit.

At Honors Day each year the two senior members are revealed and presented trophy, and simultaneously two men who have completed their freshman year are tapped to fill the gap. A membership of six is always kept.

The organization stressed the use of visual aids in promoting service through the use of signs and posters distributed over the campus. "SICSIC sez" signs were always very much in evidence at all the football and basketball games.

In order to keep their anonymity, members had to work during the early morning hours preparing and distributing their signs.

Sic Sic men relax after an all-night session of poster and sign making.

Sports

FOOTBALL

Coach Robert Whittaker

With but 18 lettermen reporting to Coach Robert Whittaker for the 1950 gridiron season, high hopes were placed on sophomores and juniors.

The final record of three wins, four losses, and two ties should be considered better than it sounds. The losses to Miami, Eastern Kentucky and Kent State are losses that no school could be ashamed of.

Miami opened their season at Bowling Green and pasted one of the worst defeats ever suffered by a Whittaker-coached team, but Miami went on to win national recognition by defeating Arizona Tempe in the Salad Bowl New Year's Day.

Eastern Kentucky annually fields one of the better college teams for a smaller college. Bowling Green played on even terms with Eastern after the half-time intermission, but the lead built up in the first half was too much to overcome.

Migration Day to Kent State will long be remembered by Bowling Green students that made the trip on one of the days that football should not be played. Rain, sleet, snow, mud, and a good Kent State team ground out a 19-6 victory. The rain and slippery footing slowed the passing game to almost a complete standstill.

The fourth loss was to the Chippewas of Central Michigan. A pass defense that was not in the Bowling Green backfield spelled disaster. The Chips completed 14 of 24 aerials while the best the Bee Gee's could do was hit on 3 of 14.

Victory in 1950 will always be remembered by the thorough pasting given to Toledo University's Rockets at Toledo's Homecoming. Before 5,000 spectators, Bowling Green broke loose with a savage running attack and a better pass defense to crush Toledo under an avalanche of 39 points. The victory came as a surprise to many loyal Bowling Green followers, but from the first quarter on, the outcome was not in doubt.

At Bowling Green's annual Homecoming, a powerful Baldwin-Wallace team invaded the home field to try to dampen the spirit of 6,043 Bowling Green fans. The game was a free scoring, no defense type of game with little Richie Pont ripping gaping holes in the Baldwin-Wallace line, and the Ed Haddox to Norb Hecker pass combination for B-W clicking. Bowling Green led by two touchdowns at one time, but once again the weak pass defense of Bowling Green kept the outcome questionable until the game was over.

The final score of 34-34 gives some indication of the type of game that was played by both schools. B-W's Yellow Jackets were heavily favored prior to game time, and the tie to many was considered a moral victory even though the game ended in a tie.

In their last home appearance of the 1950 season, the gridders met a big heavy Youngstown team that was favored to beat Bee Gee. Once again the running of Richie Pont and a stronger pass defense meant victory. Ray Florian was outstanding on pass defense all afternoon. After a safety scored by the Falcons, the Penguins seemed to give up. The fast Bowling Green backs ran at random and the game ended with Bowling Green on the long end of a 22-7 score.

As the season progressed, the play seemed to improve. Better ball handling, better pass defense, and experience gained showed in the latter part of the season.

With added help from the strong freshman squad of this year, Bowling Green can look forward to a good season again next year.

Falcons Opened Season with Scoreless Tie Against Rider

The first game of the season for the 1950 gridders was with Rider College of Trenton, N. J. The game was played at Lansford, Pa. on a field of mud and rocks.

Statistics gave the edge to the Broncos in the final analysis, but the score board read 0-0 when the game ended. Neither team showed any offensive steam, even though both teams threatened often.

Rider threatened to break the deadlock in the third period as they drove to the Bowling Green 2-yard line. The Bowling Green defense then tightened and held for two downs. Doug Mooney then caught Allan Costill for an 8-yard loss.

John Stianche then missed his second field goal attempt of the day.

Bowling Green netted 194 yards by rushing to 157 for Rider. Rider completed 7 of 12 passes while Rex Simonds could complete but 2 of 8 tosses.

Rider tallied 16 first downs to Bowling Green's 12.

Powerful Redskins Scalp B. G., . . 54-6

Coach Robert Whittaker's Falcons met a powerful Miami Redskin team in the home opener of the 1950 season.

The final score of 54-6 with Bowling Green on the short end was the worst defeat of any Bowling Green team coached by Whittaker. The rugged Redskins under coach Woody Hayes tutelage of the T-formation finished the season with but one loss in the record books.

Bowling Green scored first on a 19-yard Simonds to Mooney pass, but after that the game was all Miami.

Experience, depth, weight, and speed gave the Redskins an advantage that the fired-up Falcon's could not overcome.

Miami rolled to 19 first downs to the Falcon's three, and picked up a total of 679 yards on the ground and in the air, while Bowling Green could amass but 57 on the ground and 15 through the air.

Overrated Bradley Toppled for First Win

An overrated Bradley Braves invaded Bowling Green Dad's Day to furnish the opposition for a winless Bowling Green eleven.

The Braves brought an undefeated and unscored-upon record with them. They left with a 20-14 loss pasted on their chins from a vastly improved Bee Gee team.

The heavy Bradley line proved to be too big and slow to cope with the small fast backs of the Whittakermen.

Bowling Green took the opening kick off and marched 93 yards to score the first points against the Braves in the 1950 season.

The Braves bounded back with a TD to tie the score at half time. The Falcons scored twice more to take a 20-7 lead, but with one minute remaining the Braves scored to make the count 20-14.

The Braves tried an onsides kick and took over on the 50, but on the first play Bowling Green intercepted a pass to end the threat and the game. The first win was safely in the records.

Central Michigan Scores 12-0 Aerial win over B. G.

Central Michigan's Chippewas took advantage of a weak Bowling Green pass defense to score a 12-0 win over Bowling Green at Mt. Pleasant to give Bowling Green its second loss against one win and a tie.

The Chips tossed a total of 22 passes and completed 15 of them. Bowling Green threw 21 via the air route, but completed only three.

Central Michigan's Gary Baillargeon took the opening kickoff on his own one and raced 99 yards to a touchdown on the first play of the game.

As far as Bowling Green was concerned, the game could have ended right then. The rest of the game was a punting duel, except in the second quarter when a 22 yard aerial gave the Chips a 12-0 lead.

Neither team could score the second half, and the Falcons came home with their second loss of the 1950 season.

Falcons Tie B. W. in High Scoring Contest

The largest crowd of the season was on hand for the twenty-ninth annual homecoming game as the underdog Falcons faced a big, speedy Baldwin-Wallace team.

As 6,043 fans watched, both teams put on a dazzling display of offensive power. The final score read 34-34.

At one time, it looked like a victory was in the making for the Falcons, but end Norb Hecker of B-W made the difference. He caught one pass for a TD, set up three other scores, and kicked four extra points.

The fourth quarter started with Bowling Green leading 28-13, but this deficit was quickly erased by the Yellow-Jackets. The Bee Gee pass defense was gone.

The tie ran the season record to one win, two losses, and two ties.

Bowling Green Beats Traditional Rival T. U., 39-14

Many followers of the Bowling Green gridders considered the season a success after they smashed Toledo's Rockets to the tune of 39-14 at the Glass Bowl.

The Falcons dimmed TU's homecoming by holding their offensive yardage to 237 yards for the afternoon, while Bowling Green netted a total of 411 yards.

Bowling Green's best pass defense of the year stopped the Rockets cold. There was little doubt about the outcome after the Falcons jumped off to a three touchdown lead in the first half.

The win gave the Falcons a record of two wins, two losses, and two ties in six games.

Kent Drops Falcons 19-6 in Rain, Snow

Kent State's mudders slopped to a 19-6 win over the Falcons in a day that was not fit for ducks.

Cold, rain, snow, and mud played havoc with both teams. Bowling Green scored first on a 34-yard pass from Simonds to Fred Durig, but the Golden Flashes scored three times while holding Bowling Green at mid-field the rest of the game.

The victory was the first Kent State victory over Bowling Green since 1942. The game was marred by a total of nine fumbles. Bowling Green lost the ball three times on five fumbles, while the Golden Flashes lost possession twice on four miscues.

Ollie Glass injured his knee early in the third quarter and his absence was immediately felt. Dick Pont was the leading ground gainer as he netted 105 yards in 23 tries.

B. G. Beats Youngstown 22-7, in Final Home Game

Youngstown's Penguins made the final home game of the season a successful one as they bowed to the Falcons 22-7.

Bowling Green scored first and grabbed a short-lived 6-0 lead. Youngstown struck back and took a 7-6 lead in the second quarter. Then tackle Gordon Ackerman tackled Dick Hannis behind his own goal line to give the Falcon's an 8-7 margin.

After that the game was over for the Penguins. The Whittakermen scored two more insurance TD's in the third quarter. The win gave Bowling Green an even record at home for the season.

Ray Florian was outstanding on defense in his last home game of his collegiate career. The game was the last time that 14 seniors would take the field at Bowling Green.

Falcons Lose Final Tilt to Eastern Kentucky, 34-7

In the final game of the 1950 season, the Falcon gridders traveled to Richmond, Ky. to meet Eastern Kentucky's Maroons. The game did not leave pleasant memories for the 14 Falcon seniors as the Maroons rolled to a 34-7 win.

The first half saw the Maroons grab a lead that was too much for the Falcons to overcome. The four touchdown barrage of Eastern insured the victory.

The second half the Falcons played on even terms, scoring one TD to match the output of the Maroons. The absence of injured Ollie Glass was felt in the line. Richie Pont was injured early in the game which probably prevented him from breaking the yardage record set by Jack Woodland last year.

The loss pushed the Falcons below the .500 mark for the season. The final record showed three wins, four losses, and two ties.

Frosh Break Even in Four Games

Coach Bruce Bellard's freshman football squad gave every indication of aiding the varsity next year with help in defensemen and passers.

The frosh broke even in four away games, defeating Heidelberg and Kent State, and losing to Toledo and powerful Ohio University.

As the season progressed the Falcon yearlings showed a better defense, and an offensive passing attack that could mean many victories in later years.

In the last game of the season at Kent, by far the best game of the season, the defense was strong, but the passing of Dick Thomas spelled victory.

Thomas threw three touchdown passes, with Jim Ladd, 6'-5" end, on the scoring end twice, and Dick Foltz, halfback, crossing the goal line for the third score.

If the draft does not interfere with the future, Bowling Green will probably hear much of the Dick Thomas to Jim Ladd scoring combination.

After the schedule was completed, Coach Bellard called for another week of practice to get a clearer picture of just what he would send up to head coach Whittaker next year.

Coach Harold Anderson

HAROLD ANDERSON

January 13th marked the close of the 1950-51 basketball season for Coach Harold "Andy" Anderson. Bowling Green students and basketball lovers from all points of the U. S. were stunned with the announcement of Andy's forced retirement.

Beginning his coaching career at B.G. in 1942, Andy's teams racked up 199 wins against only 53 setbacks. In this span he took five teams to the National Invitational Tournament in Madison Square Garden.

George Muellich, Anderson's assistant since 1942 became acting coach. Don Cunningham took over as assistant director of athletics.

Andy's last game and last victory was over Toledo's Rockets. The win helped make Andy's retirement a little happier. After the game Andy said if he never coached another game he would always remember the win over the Rockets.

When the Key went to press no definite decision had been made by the doctors to shed light on the future of Andy at Bowling Green. All of Bowling Green's students and basketball followers from all over the country hope to see Andy next year leading the Falcons to higher fame and national recognition.

FALCONS FINISH SEASON WITH 15-12 RECORD

Bowling Green's 27-game basketball schedule was marked by the winning of the championship at the State University Tournament held at Kent State, and the "Peace Pipe" victory over rival Toledo University.

The bright spots on the basketball ledger were marred by the illness and forced retirement for the remainder of season of Coach and Athletic Director Harold Anderson.

Entering their most uncertain season in years the Falcons did better than many of the followers expected, but at the same time did not do as well as some of the die-hards expected. Before the season started Bowling Green was not considered among the season's best by many of the pre-season polls. Most of the sports writers and pre-season guessers said that the 1950-51 season for Bowling Green was a rebuilding year. The many juniors and sophomores in the first ten men gave plenty of weight to their arguments.

The loss of All-American Charlie Share was too much for Bowling Green to overcome according to the national pollsters.

In the opening game of the season against Gustavus-Adolphus, Coach Anderson started two seniors, two juniors, and one sophomore. For the lack of height, the Falcons claimed to have one of the sharpest shooting teams in the history of the cage game at Bowling Green.

With sophomore Jim Gerber, brother of one-time All-American Bob Gerber, at center, George Beck and Eli Joyce at forwards, Bob "Peanuts" Long and Jerry Kempter at guards, the 1950-51 season got under way at Bowling Green.

Gustavus-Adolphus from St. Peter, Minn., invaded the Men's Gym to test the Bee Gees, with three victories under their belt. Bowling Green won, as was expected, but with much more of an easy time than many could believe. Jim Gerber's all-around performance in his first varsity game led many to believe that he was headed for the same All-American honors won by his brother under Coach Anderson at Toledo University.

In his first taste of varsity ball, the slender center from Akron poured 29 points through the elusive nets. His work under the backboards gave every indication that he was not going to let many taller opponents get the majority of the rebounds.

In their second start of the young season, the high-flying Falcons invaded the new field house at Dayton University. The Dayton Flyers figured to have one of the best teams in the history of the school this year. After being upset in their opener, they were ready for the Falcons.

Hitting but 22 per cent of their shots from the floor, the locals were soundly whipped to the tune of 57-45. George Beck and Eli Joyce could gather but three points each in the game, which figured heavily in the defeat. Beck, after taking ninth spot in the nation during the 1949-50 sesaon was still off-form.

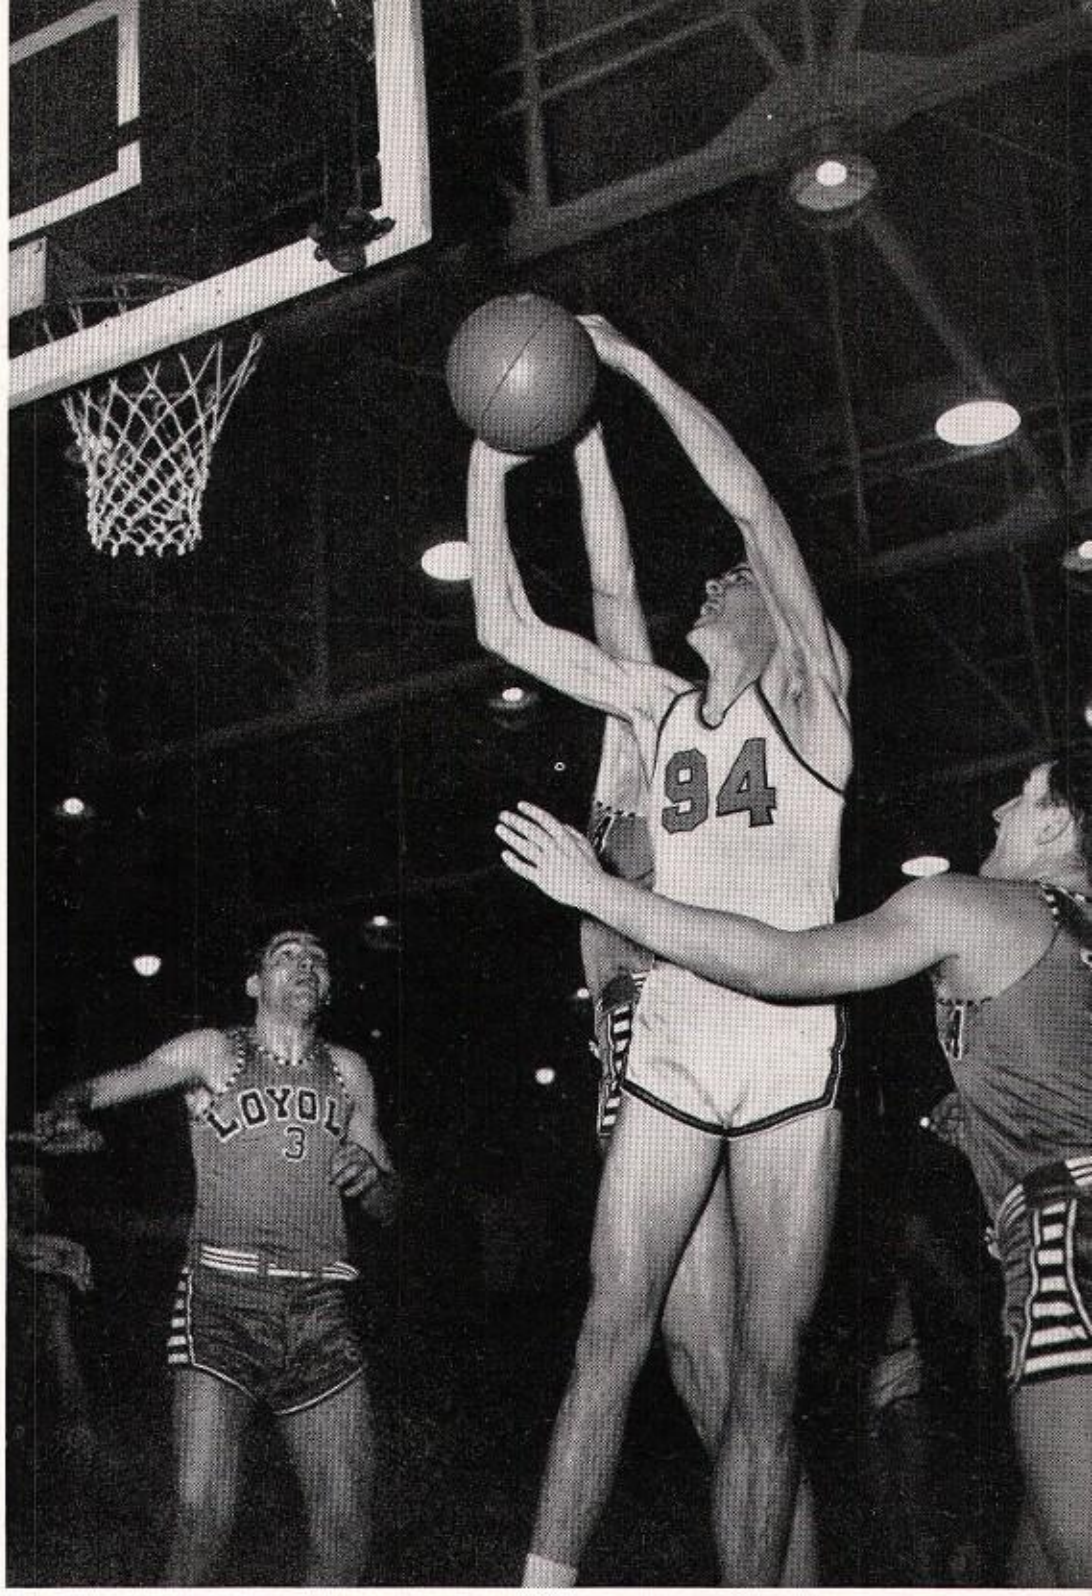
Gerber netted a total of 20 points, ten in each half, to run his total to 49 points for two games. Wally Server saw action in the game for the first time since his knee injury in the opener against the Gusties.

Tampa University invaded the local gym to furnish the oppositon for Bowling Green in their third game of the season. The Falcons squeezed out a close 75-70 victory, but not before Tampa had thrown a scare at the B.G. fans. Slim Jim Gerber again took scoring honors for Bowling Green as he flipped 27 points through the hoops.

Arkansas State invaded Bowling Green with a small, slow moving team that seemed to be outclassed from the beginning minutes of the game. The slow deliberate style of ball shown by the Westerners could not cope with Bowling Green's fast break. Gerber scored 27 points to run his total to 105 points for the four games. The rout gave every indication that Bowling Green was ready to get into the tough part of their grueling schedule.

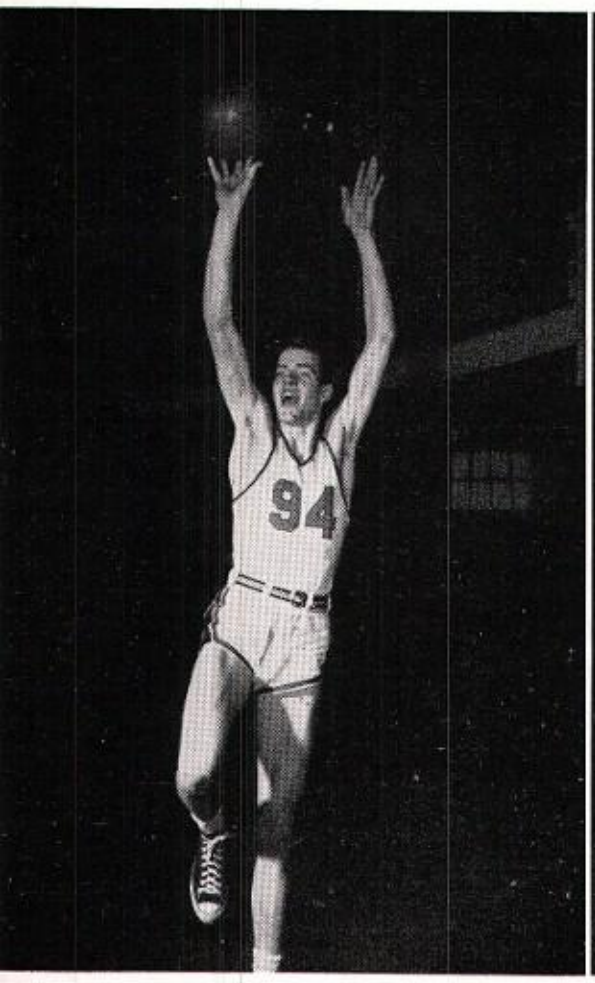
Miami University moved into Bowling Green to try and stop the new home floor winning streak but fell before a rampaging Bee Gee five to the tune of 73-50. Miami used a two platoon system in trying to stop the Falcons, one team composed of sophomores, and the other of seniors. Neither team could seem to slow the locals.

The four game home stand was completed when the Red Raiders of Texas Tech came North to meet the Falcons. With Paul Nolen, center of Texas Tech, hitting for 32 points, the Texans made a game of it but finally fell before Bowling Green to the tune of 79-60. Jim Gerber meshed 17 points to take top scoring honors for Bowling Green.



Gerber goes high to score against Loyola.

Jim Gerber



Clarence Yackey

Tallest man on the squad, Jim Gerber was the only sophomore to make the varsity this year. Jim is considered to be one of the most outstanding prospects ever to come to Bowling Green.

A product of Akron, he is matching his brother's record of 1939-42. As a player under Anderson at Toledo, Bob gained All-American honors.

The most improved man on the team is the way to sum up the past season for Clarence Yackey, 6-5 junior from Strasburg, Ohio.

Yackey gained considerable experience from the South American trip. He saw little action in the 1949-50 season as an understudy to All-American Charlie Share, but the trip south gave experience that made Yack a leading scorer last season.

Bowling Green Copped Top Honors In

In the first Ohio Invitational Tourney held at Kent State, Bowling Green won the top honors, but not before being pushed to the limit. Meeting Ohio University in their first game, the Falcons managed to eke out a 74-69 win. Gerber led the Bee Gee scoring with 20 points. The game was not won until the final few minutes.

In their second game of the Tourney, the locals took first place and the championship by downing a vastly improved Miami University team, 64-57. Bowling Green was figured to have an easy time with the Redskins, after defeating the southern Ohio team by 23 points just a few days earlier. The Redskins used a floating zone defense to keep within striking distance of the Falcons the whole game. After the Ohio Tourney games, the Falcons moved into the Cleveland Arena to meet the always strong Crusaders from Holy Cross.

After the game the Falcons returned to the home floor to meet Colby University before starting on a long, tough road trip. Colby proved to be no match for Bowling Green as they fell, 79-53. The game was not close after the first half and Andy used most of his reserves the rest of the game.

New Year's night the Falcon's moved into Chicago to meet Loyola. The game was slowed by the referees' whistles, and the Falcons dropped a 69-63 decision. Jim Gerber scored 27 points to lead Bowling Green's attack. The loss snapped the local's winning streak at eight straight, and ran the season's record to ten wins and two losses.

With many students at the game, the Falcons finally managed to win a close one from the team from Boston. In one of the most exciting games ever played at the Arena, the locals came from behind to eke out a one point victory, 69-68. Bowling Green grabbed a one point lead with three full minutes remaining in the game, and froze the ball until the finish of the game. Coach Anderson was carried from the floor on the shoulders of the players after the hard fought victory.

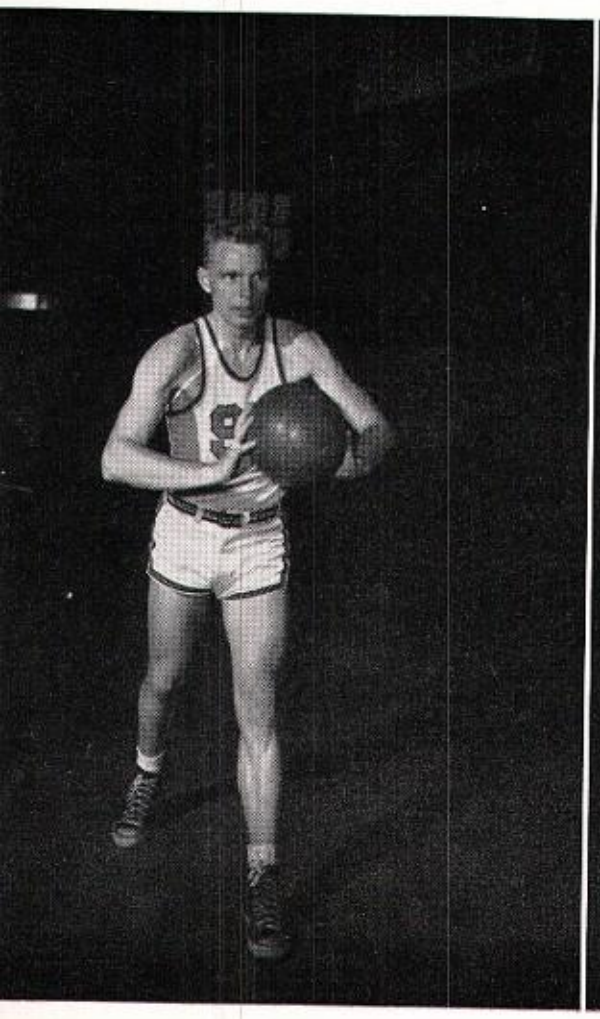
George Beck



Eli Joyce

Forward George Beck had a field goal shooting average of .453 in 29 games during the 1949-50 season for ninth place in NCAA statistics.

After the grueling South American trip he started out the 1950 season slowly, but upped his points per game later in the season. Very much improved in defensive work, Bee Gee opponents are finding it hard to stop his long set-shots.

Akron South gave another potential All-American to the basketball world in Beck. He was an all-city choice in the Rubber City in 1947.

Of the two seniors on the squad, Eli Joyce is another outstanding star of Akron. Eli will wind up his collegiate career in March.

This is the third year on the varsity for Joyce. A constant threat on his deadly pivot shot, he often moved into the pivot position with Gerber on the outside to throw the opposition off pace.

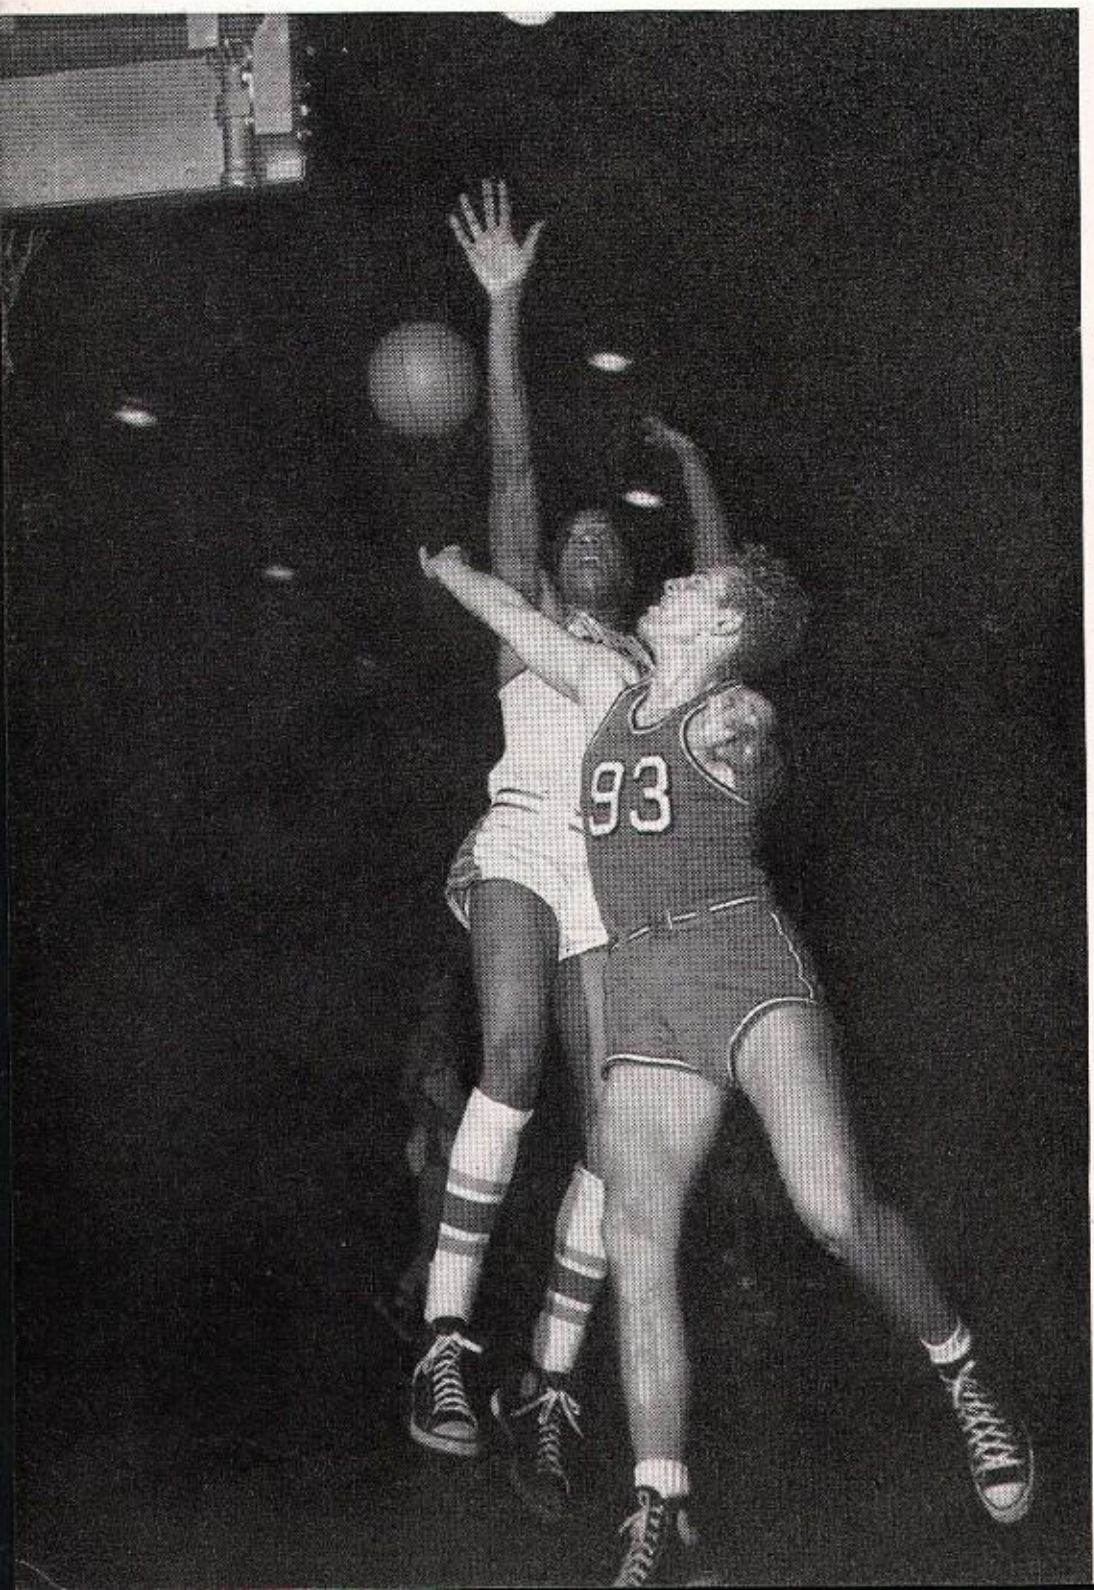
Galetti goes up for an under-the-bucket shot.



Harold Anderson was Forced to Retir

Bowling Green moved into the East to meet the same two teams that practically knocked them out of any post season consideration during the 1949-50 season. Always strong Long Island University was met at Madison Square Garden, and the game ended just a little too soon for the Falcons. Trailing by 18 points at one time, Bee Gee put on a last half drive that had Long Island hanging out at the end of the game. Bowling Green lost the game at the free throw line, when they sank but 15 of 28 free throws, while the Blackbirds connected on 21 of 26 charity shots.

B.G. moved into Philadelphia to meet LaSalle University. The long road trip finally caught up with Bowling Green, and they suffered their third straight defeat, and the worst defeat of an Anderson coached team at Bowling Green. LaSalle grabbed a 45-18 lead in the first half and were never seriously pushed by Bowling Green after that. Gerber was held to only six points for the entire game, after having four personals called on him in the first 10 minutes of the game.

After 13 games, Gerber led the Bowling Green scoring with a total of 246 points in 13 games, for a 18.9 per game average. Eli Joyce was next in scoring with 128 points in 13 games for a 9.8 average.

After dropping three straight, the Falcons returned to B.G. to begin preparation for the "big" game on the schedule. Toledo's Rockets were rolling along with one of their most successful seasons in recent years. On the basis of their excellent record, the Rockets were heavily favored to conquer the Falcons and retain possession of the Peace Pipe.

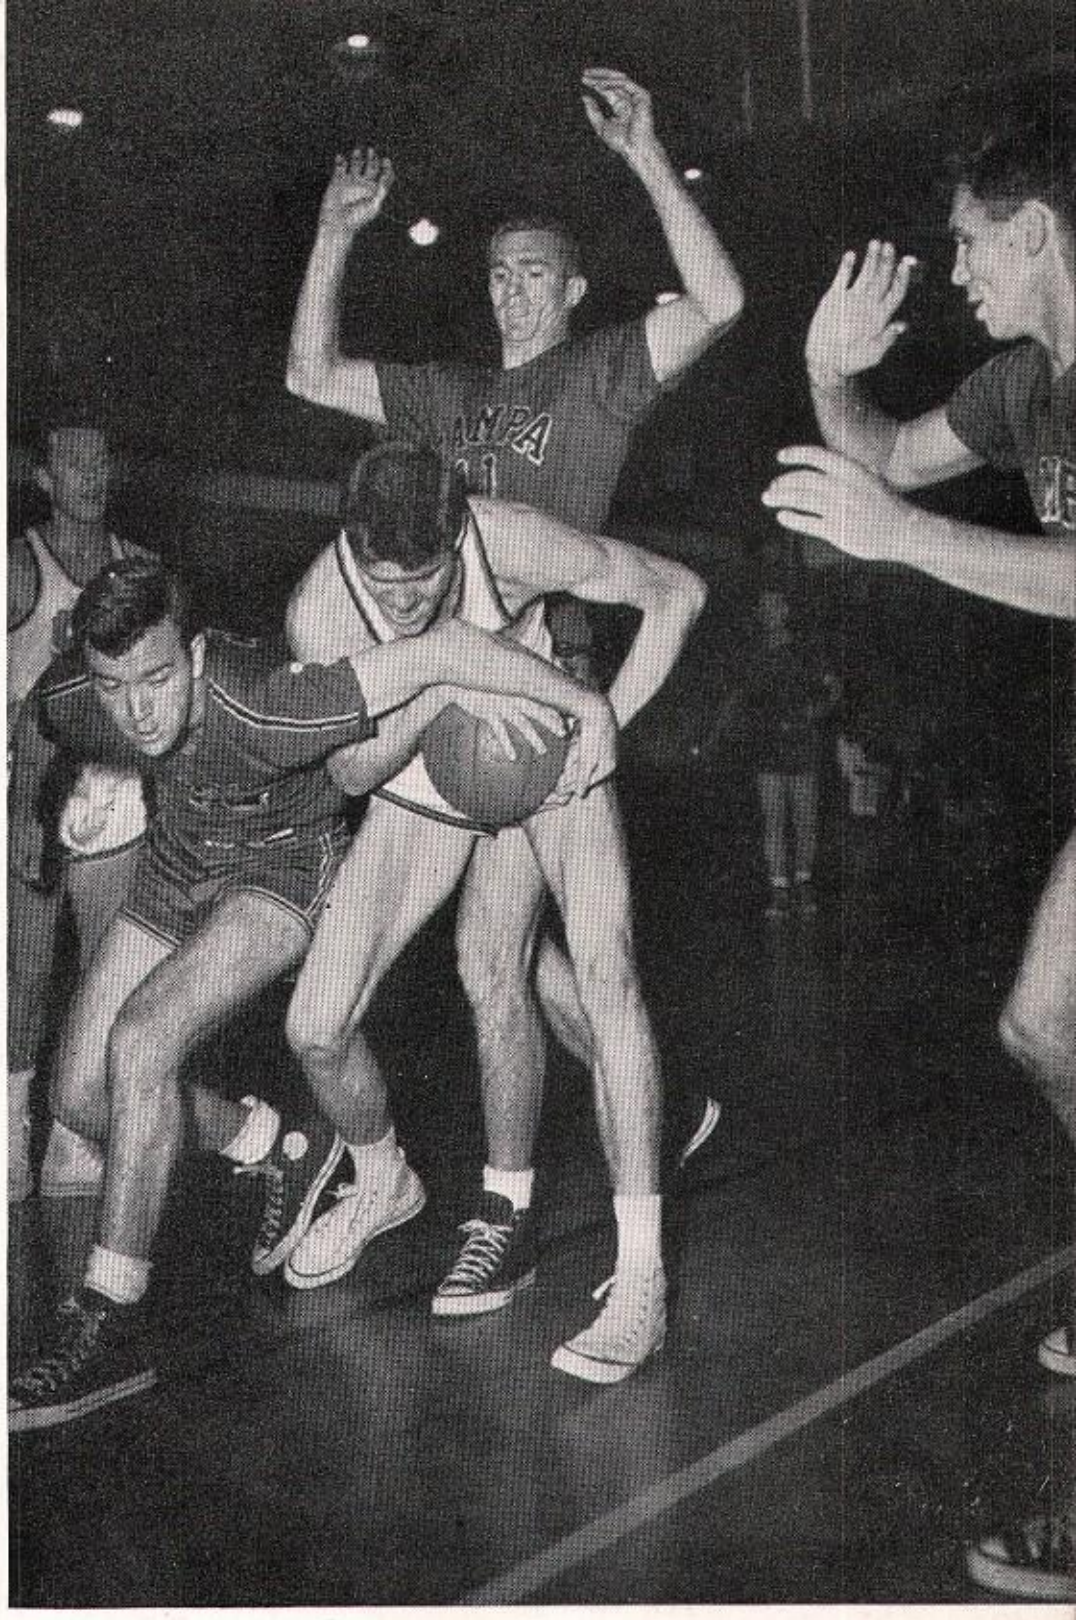
Bowling Green forgot the three losses on the road, and drilled hard all week for the Thursday night battle with Toledo. Before a packed house at Toledo, the arch rivals forgot about national ratings, and played for victory in the "biggest of them all".

Bowling Green played by far one of their best games of the season and emerged with a hard fought victory over the fizzling Rockets, to the tune of 66-59. The game was nip and tuck from the first minute of play until the final buzzer. The game ended with B.G. in possession of the ball after a three minute "freeze".

fter the TU Game Because of Ill Health

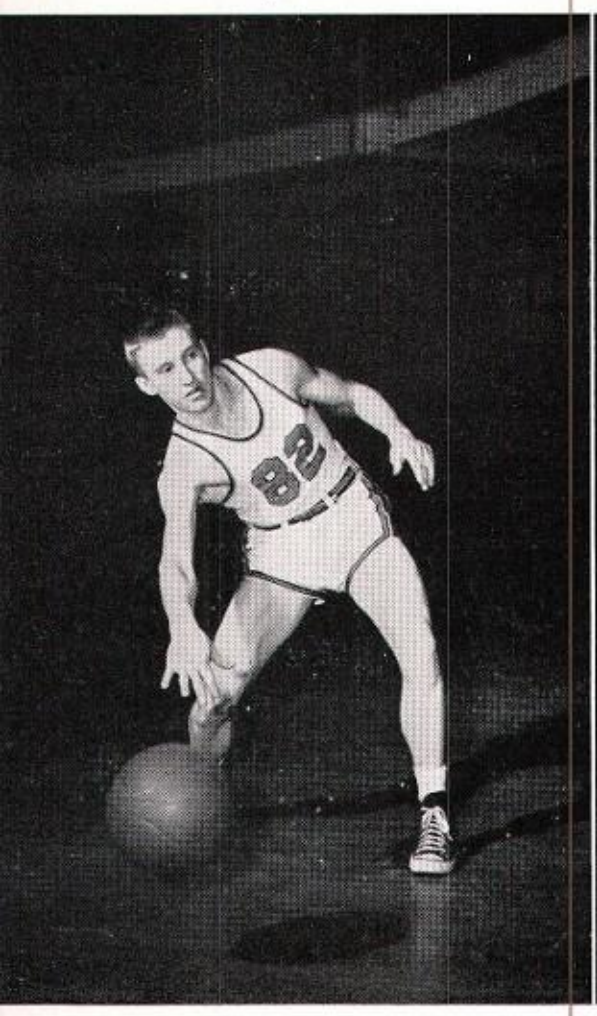
Jerry Kempter was high point man for the Falcons, dropping a total of 14 points through the nets. Kempter sank a 35-foot set-shot to give B.G. a 61-57 commanding lead with 2½ minutes remaining. Jack Feeman, Toledo sophomore, vying for national recognition could gather but 12 points in the contest.

Basketball spirits at Bowling Green hit a new low the Saturday following the Toledo victory when it was announced that Coach Harold Anderson was forced to quit as basketball coach and Athletic Director for one year by doctor's orders. His BG teams amassed 199 wins and dropped only 53. He took five teams to the National Invitational Tourney while coaching here.

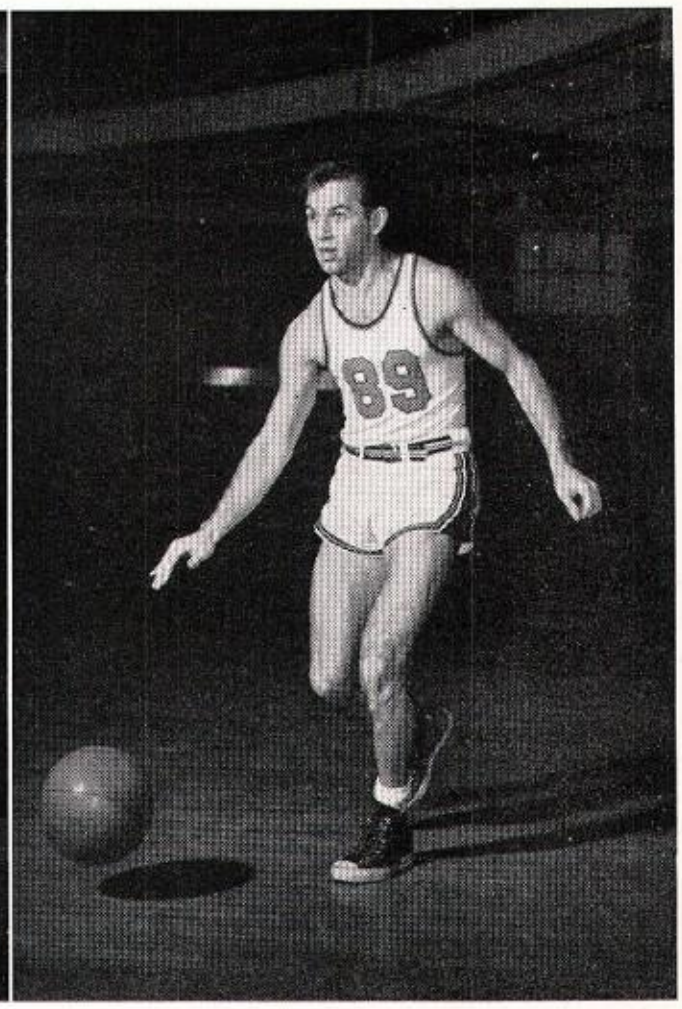


Gerber and a Tampa ball player fight for the ball under the basket.

Wally Server



Bob Long



Outstanding speed and an excellent dribbler marks Wally Server, sophomore guard that stands a mere 5-10. A favorite of the crowd with his fast starts and ability to steal the ball from opponents, Wally will be counted on heavily to take up the slack when Long graduates.

Slowed by an ankle injury early in the season, he showed more speed as the season progressd. He can hit well from the outside with his one-handed push shots.

The second senior on the squad, Bob "Peanuts" Long was slowed in the early part of the season with an ankle injury. He recovered quickly and kept his position as the floor leader and overseer of the fast breaking attack.

"Nuts" is recognized as one of the fastest men in collegiate basketball today. His scoring from the outside and his drive-in shots are constant scoring threats that often put him in the double figures.

Joyce goes high in the air after the ball against Arkansas State.

The February Road Trip Proved Disastrous To The Falcon Five

George Muellich, Andy's assistant, became acting coach. Don Cunningham, sports publicity manager, was named assistant director of athletics.

Playing their first game under acting Coach George Muellich, the Falcons avenged an early season defeat to Loyola of Chicago, by taking a 78-63 win. Gerber dropped 25 points through the nets, scoring 21 of them in the first half. At one time in the game the Falcons held a 30 point lead.

Win number twelve came at the expense of the Marquette Hilltopper's at the Men's Gym. The locals squeezed out a narrow 72-66 win in the close contest. The game could have gone either way until the final few minutes, when the Bowling Green fast break finally wore down the visitors. The visitors overcame a nine point deficit in the third quarter and took a short lived five point lead, but the resurging Falcons bounded back for their 12th win in 16 starts.

After holding a commanding 11-point lead at one time against Western Kentucky, the Falcons were edged by the Diddlemen, 69-68. The loss was the fifth for the season and the first since Muellich took over as head coach. Bowling Green held a 42-31 margin at half-time, but the long set-shots of Diddle and Turner turned victory into defeat for B.G.

After mid-year examinations, the Falcons moved to Kent State and took a 84-65 victory. The win seemed to indicate that the Falcons had finally hit their offensive stride and could still be in contention for the NIT if the high powered machine kept rolling.

Moving into Cleveland to meet Baldwin-Wallace, a team beaten by Kent State's Flashes, the Falcons showed a complete reversal of form and dropped a very poorly played game to the Yellow Jackets, 76-59. Many considered the loss to B-W a continuation of the jinx the Jackets hold over B.G. on the hardwoods.

On the third stop of the road trip, Lawrence Tech ran the losing streak to two straight as they dropped the Falcons, 60-53. The strong Michigan team led at half-time 32-27.

A very good floor man is the way most of the sports writers sum up the work of junior Steve Galetti. The 6-1 guard played one of his best games against Holy Cross in the Cleveland Arena. His long set shots and his deceptive passing make him a constant threat to opponents.

A team mate of Jerry Kempter at Newton High School, Queens, New York, the New Yorkers delight in returning to play at Madison Square Garden.

Steve plays some sandlot baseball in the summer months to keep in trim for the basketball season.

The running mate to Steve Galetti, Jerry Kempter is also a graduate of Newton High in New York. His two-handed set shots played a big hand in the successful season just posted.

His clever dribbling and excellent ball handling made him the fans favorite in the tight Bowling Green "freeze play". Jerry also delights in the "home" contests played at the Garden.

"Red" showed very well on the recent South American trip, and was the favorite of the crowd in the neighboring country.

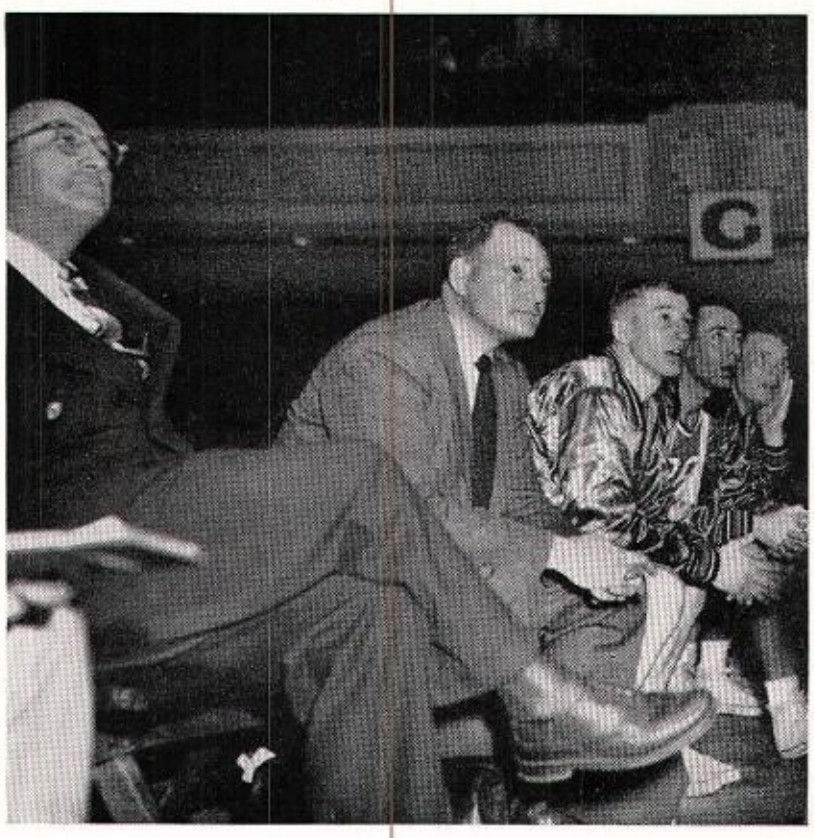
Coaches and players watch action against LaSalle in Philadelphia.

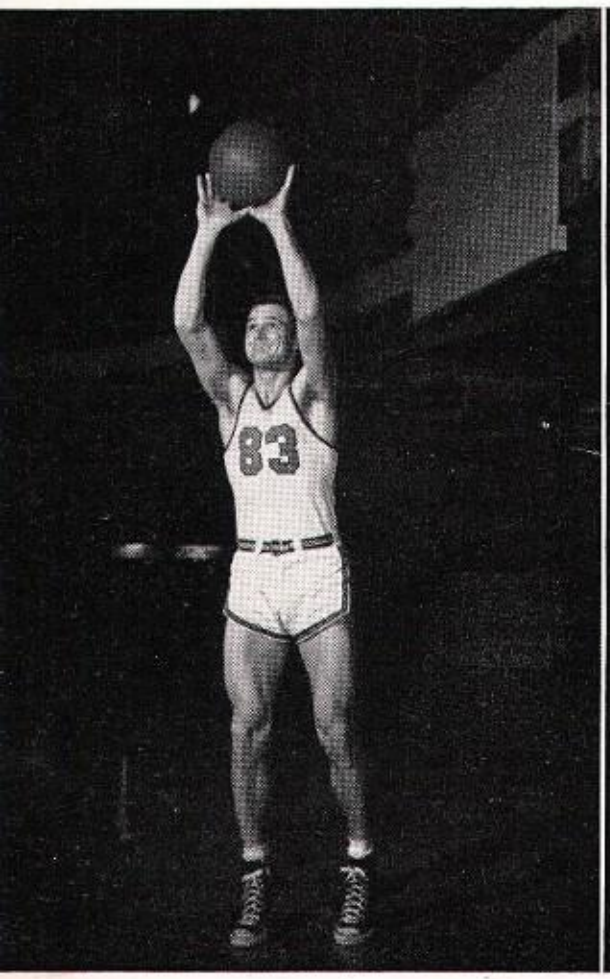


On the last leg of the long road trip, the Falcons went to Boston to meet Holy Cross, a team beaten earlier in the season. Holy Cross turned the game into a rout in the second half and took a lopsided 82-65 win. It was the third straight loss for B. G. The loss practically ended any hopes for any post season tournaments for the Falcons.

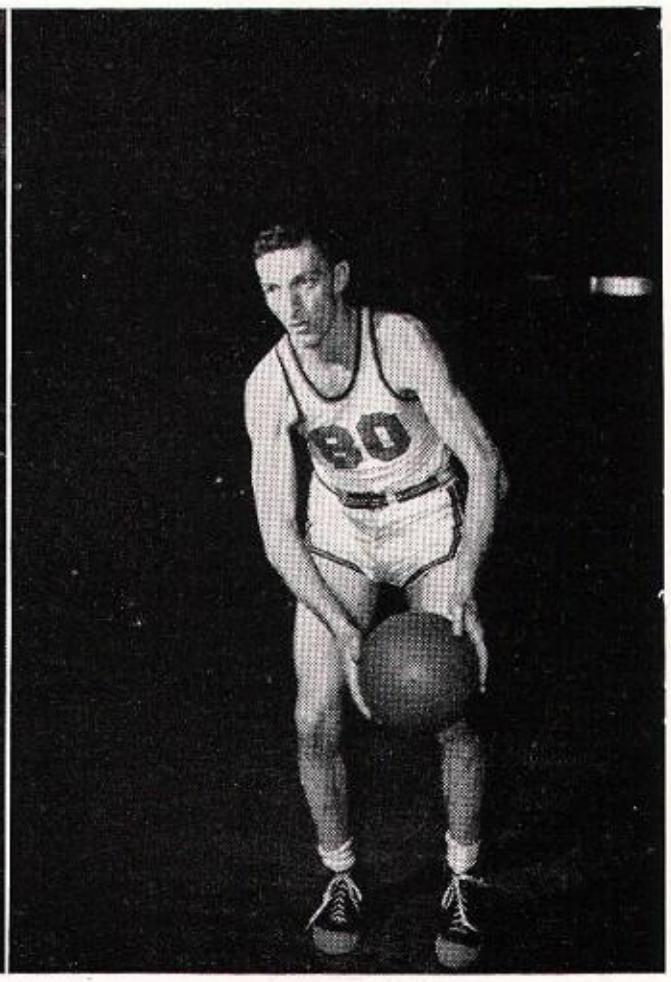
The 1950-51 edition of Bowling Green's basketball team can be considered a success, regardless of the won-lost record. Playing with a so-called green team, the Falcons played and defeated some of the strongest teams in the nation.

The loss of Coach Anderson seemed to pour salt onto the wounds of defeat. If the draft does not interfere, Bowling Green can look forward to much more national recognition next year.

Losing but Bob Long and Eli Joyce from the varsity, and being strengthened by a batch of good freshmen, the call of "wait till next year" is already prominent in the basketball circles.



Maurice Sandy



Don Lee

The only Hoosier on the Bowling Green squad this year, Maurice Sandy, a sophomore guard, stands just 6-0. Never winning a letter in high school basketball, he developed his cage talents in the service by playing for March Field at Riverside, California.

Noted for his speed and deceptive passing, he is expected to develop into a regular. A good shot with either one or two hands, he makes up for his lack of height with his keen shooting eye.

Bowling Green's contribution to the Falcon basketballers, Don Lee has had the misfortune to play under All-American's Charlie Share and Jim Gerber. Competition does not come much tougher.

"Eaglebeak," as Don is known to his friends, graduated from Bowling Green High School in 1947, after gaining honors in football, track and basketball.

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL MATERIAL LOOKED GOOD

Coach Anderson said he felt that Bowling Green should have some of the best freshman basketball prospects since before the war.

With plenty of height, the freshmen were closely watched by Andy as the season progressed. Paced by 6-10 center Bill Sherin the yearlings gave many hopes for the next three seasons if the draft does not interfere.

The team split up to play in the preliminary games early in the season on the home court and many of the local fans were amazed at the height of some of the frosh. With added experience gained in the Toledo Federation, some of the players should see action on the varsity next year.

CROSS COUNTRY TEAM POSTED A 6-2 RECORD

Bowling Green's cross country team faced one of the toughest schedules ever tried last fall, but posted an impressive six won, two lost record.

Paced by sophomore Marv Crosten, the Harriers convinced many that Bowling Green will rate high in track for years to come.

Bob Mickets, a letterman from the 1949 squad was called to active duty in the service in mid-season, which hampered the squad somewhat.

After winning their first seven meets of the season, the Falcons traveled to Michigan to be smothered 19-40. The Wolverines considered the meet more of a practice session, since they do not field a regular cross country team.

In their last dual meet of the season the Harriers defeated Ohio Wesleyan 20-36. Crosten broke his own record as he crossed the finish line in 20:37. It was his seventh victory of the season.

The Falcons were not allowed to compete in the Central Collegiate meet this year because of new membership rules. To fill the gap the Falcons met a tough Miami squad and came home with a defeat to the tune of 19-45.

In the NCAA meet at Lansing, Michigan, the Falcons did not run a complete team in the meet, but Crosten and Lee Pate ran 28th and 47th respectively.

WRESTLERS COMPETED IN ELEVEN MATCHES

Coach Anthony Bonito in his first year as coach of the grunt and groan boys, faced a rugged 11 match schedule with 6 returning lettermen.

The matmen opened their schedule December 9 against Ohio University. A capacity crowd filled the Bobcats' gym as the experienced Falcon grapplers took a 15-13 victory. The match was not decided until the final match when in the heavyweight division Hart "Tiny" Hursh won enough points to give Bowling Green a close victory.

Case University of Cleveland handed the matmen their first taste of defeat when they squeezed out a close 14-13 win over the Falcons. Captain Ray Florian and Bob Rehark ran their victory strings to four straight as the grapplers won their third and fourth victories of the season, defeating Baldwin-Wallace, 38-0, and Western Reserve, 25-5. The whitewash given to B-W was the first blank ever registered by a B.G. wrestling team.

Bee Gee won their fourth match by edging Kent State, 14-11. Florian was held to a draw to end his four match victory string.

The grapplers presented first year coach Bonito with one of the most successful seasons in the history of the University. Increased interest in the grunt and groan boys was shown by the large groups of spectators at both the home and away matches.

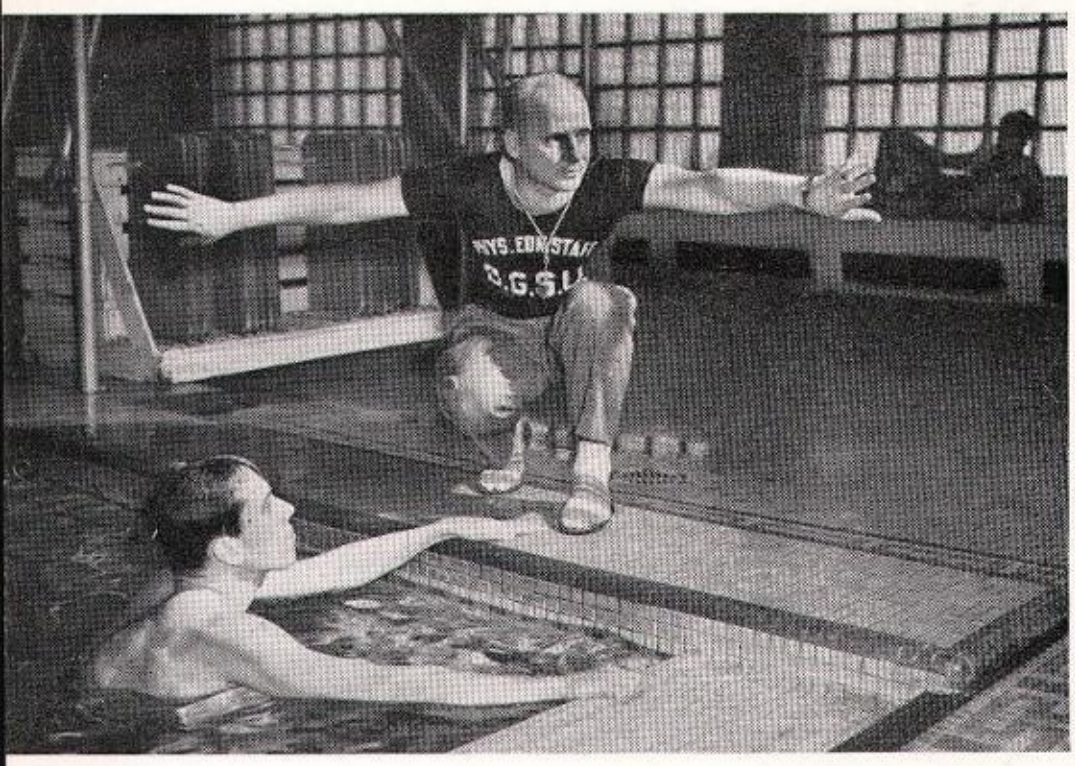
SWIMMERS COMPETED AGAINST THE NATION'S BEST

Coach Cooper demonstrates a stroke for one of his swimmers.



Coach Sam Cooper said Bowling Green should have one of the best swimming teams in the history of the school if Uncle Sam didn't interfere and if grades held up. He can look back now and see that he was entirely right when he made the statement.

Facing one of the toughest schedules in the history of the school, the swimmers pushed the name of Bowling Green high in the swimming world.

Michigan State and Iowa State dunked the Falcon swimmers in a triangular meet at East Lansing January 27, but the loss was to two of the powerhouses of the nation in swimming.

In the opening swim meet the Falcons sunk DePaul, 53-22. An unexpectedly strong DePaul team gave the Falcon swimmers a scare early in the meet, but could not match the speed of the locals in enough events. The locals won nine firsts and set three new records in the meet.

An Eastern trip by the swimmers resulted in two victories, defeating two strong opponents, Niagara and Buffalo, 48-27, and 54-22. Harry Shearer and John Bruce led the swimmers in their second and third straight wins.

In their fourth meet of the season, the tankmen traveled to Ohio University and came home with a 60-15 win. The meet inaugurated the Ohio University's new pool on a sour note for the home team. The win was the fourth for the locals.

In the first meet of the second semester, Bowling Green amassed 58 points to 16 for the Bearcats of Cincinnati for their fifth win of the season against two setbacks.

The locals played host to the first Big Ten athletic team to appear on this campus. The U of M swimmers beat the Falcons 46-32, breaking a number of pool records.

The Freshman squad, after a successful season, promises to help the varsity next year, and if Uncle Sam does not interfere, Bowling Green will soon be regarded as a contender for national honors in the swimming world.

FALCON NINE HAD .667 SEASON'S AVERAGE

Baseball got off to a slow start with spring rains and snow slowing practice to the inside variety.

The new diamond, "Falcon Field", east of Fraternity Row was initiated last Spring, with the results pleasing all.

Ten lettermen reported to Coach Warren Stellar when the call went out to the diamond hopefuls. The final results showed a record of 10 wins and five losses in fifteen tries.

Howie Tesnow led the Falcon batters with a final average of .393. He collected 22 hits in 56 official trips to the plate. John Grill hit safely 17 times in 50 times at bat for a .340 average.

The team finished strong, winning their last four games, defeating Lawrence Tech, Huntington College of Indiana, Wayne, and Toledo University.

Wisconsin was scheduled to open the season here, but bad weather cancelled the game. Toledo came here April 21 to begin the season. The final score read 17-4, with Toledo on the short end. Toledo had five errors, 11 free passes issued by the pitchers, and eleven hits by the Falcon batsmen completed the rout.

Defiance moved in to try and halt the early season surge, but went home with a 10-3 defeat. A total of 14 hits rolled off the thundering bats of Bowling Green, while Defiance was held to six. In the third game of the season, the two game victory streak was snapped. Playing at Lawrence Tech, and leading 7-4 going into the last of the ninth, the roof fell in, and Tech came up with four runs to win 8-7.

Findlay came here for the fourth game of the young season, and were handed a 16-6 drubbing. The Oilers jumped off to an early two run lead, but in a big fourth inning the Falcons collected five runs to take the lead. The game was never in doubt after that, with Eli Joyce copping his first win of the season.

It's a close play at the plate.

Wayne and Defiance were the fifth and sixth victims of the powerful baseball nine. The Wayne game looked like a pitchers duel until the Falcons had a big seven run sixth inning to take an eight run lead. They scored once more in the top of the ninth to bring home a 9-2 victory. Defiance College was no match in a night game held at Holgate. The final score read 13-1. This was the second time that the Falcons had scored in the double figures against Defiance.

Michigan Normal pinned the second defeat of the season on the Bowling Green nine when their pitchers held the noiseless bats of Bee Gee to three hits. The final score read 3-2. In another tight game, Bowling Green squeezed past Findlay's Oilers, 1-0. The Falcon's collected 12 hits but not at the right times, and Findlay was held to four.

A trip east was disastrous. They dropped a pair of games, losing to Fenn and Kent State. Returning home, the early season loss to Lawrence Tech was avenged. Howie Tesnow led the 12 run attack with two doubles and a single. The game was marred by sloppy fielding and erratic play by the boys from Detroit.

The successful season was highlighted by the double win from Toledo, and the prospects for the coming season are bright. Many lettermen will return to try and make 1951 even more successful.

CINDERMEN WON 4, LOST 2

In the second meet of the year Bowling Green played host to Ohio University, and took a 73-49 victory, highlighted by Vern Stroud's record breaking high jump of 6′ 2⅜″. The leap broke a 14 year record held at Bowling Green.

Baldwin-Wallace invaded Bee Gee for the third dual meet of the year and went home with a 77⅔-49⅓ victory. The win was highlighted by the record breaking pole vaulting of Bill Hillyard of B-W, who cleared the bar at 13′ 6½″. The runners evened up their record at 2 wins and 2 losses by trouncing Hillsdale 88-47 at Hillsdale.

In the first annual Bee Gee relays, Michigan Normal handily took first place honors in eight of twelve events. Bowling Green could gather but one first place, that in the discus throw. Normal set two new field records in their effort.

In a triangular meet held here, Bee Gee romped over Hillsdale and Toledo U. The Falcon runners got 90½ points, Toledo 50½, and Hillsdale 26 for third.

In the All-Ohio College meet held at Delaware, Ohio, Bowling Green took two firsts and finished fourth as a team. Frank Kilgore won the mile run and Weber won the discus throw. B-W won the event for the fifth year in a row.

INEXPERIENCED NETTERS PLAYED TOUGH SCHEDULE

With only three returning lettermen Coach Vernon Lerch faced a strong schedule with an inexperienced squad in his first year as tennis coach at Bowling Green.

Harry Thomasen, Jim Geiger, and Bill Pickett were counted on heavily to make the season successful.

The won-lost record was not too impressive, but the caliber of the opposition was of the highest grade. Winning but four of thirteen matches, the record should be improved this spring with added experience.

The netters opened their season by dropping an 8-1 match to potent Wayne University. Bill Pickett scored the only Falcon Victory. Toledo U. whitewashed the locals 9-0 in the second match of the year. Michigan Normal pasted the locals with their third straight defeat in their home opener to the tune of 7-2.

Detroit defeated Bowling Green here in a wind swept game 6-3. The locals invaded Michigan for a pair of matches to complete the season and came home with an even split. Lawrence Tech was defeated in a morning match 6-3, but Wayne U. ended the season for Bowling Green on a sour note by taking the Falcons 8-1.

Much help is expected for this years varsity from the strong freshman squad that hung up an impressive record last spring.

GOLFERS WON ALL BUT ONE MATCH

The Falcon golf squad posted its most successful season in history last spring, finishing the season with nine won, one loss, two tied record for a percentage of .833.

Their only loss was to Michigan Normal whom the linksmen later tied. The other blemish to the near perfect record was a tie with Lawrence Tech. The squad was undefeated on its home course, losing its only match to Michigan Normal at Ypsilanti.

The team was built around lettermen Chuck Albury, Maurice Becker, Hooper Jones, and Dick Zbornik. Zbornik did not play in the first few matches due to a hand injury. Bob Weber, Chuck Price, Jack Chapman, and Guy Smith rounded out the rest of the squad.

The first two matches of the season, with Lawrence Tech and Findlay, were postponed to a later date due to bad weather. The opener with Normal was dropped 11½ to 6½, but this loss was avenged later.

Toledo was dropped to the tune of 10-8 in the second match to avenge for the two defeats Toledo had given the Falcons in 1949. Wayne fell her 10½-7½, after a hard fought battle. The linksters won their third straight match as they crushed Findlay 11½-½. In a triangular meet held at Detroit the Falcons won over Detroit Tech 13-5, and tied Lawrence Tech 9-9.

Bowling Green gained 10th place in the Ohio Collegiate Golf Tourney at Ohio State. Ohio State won the tourney. The team then traveled to Detroit and came home with a pair of victories, defeating both Wayne and Central Michigan, 6½-5½. The last meet of the season ended with a victory over Lawrence Tech 14-4.

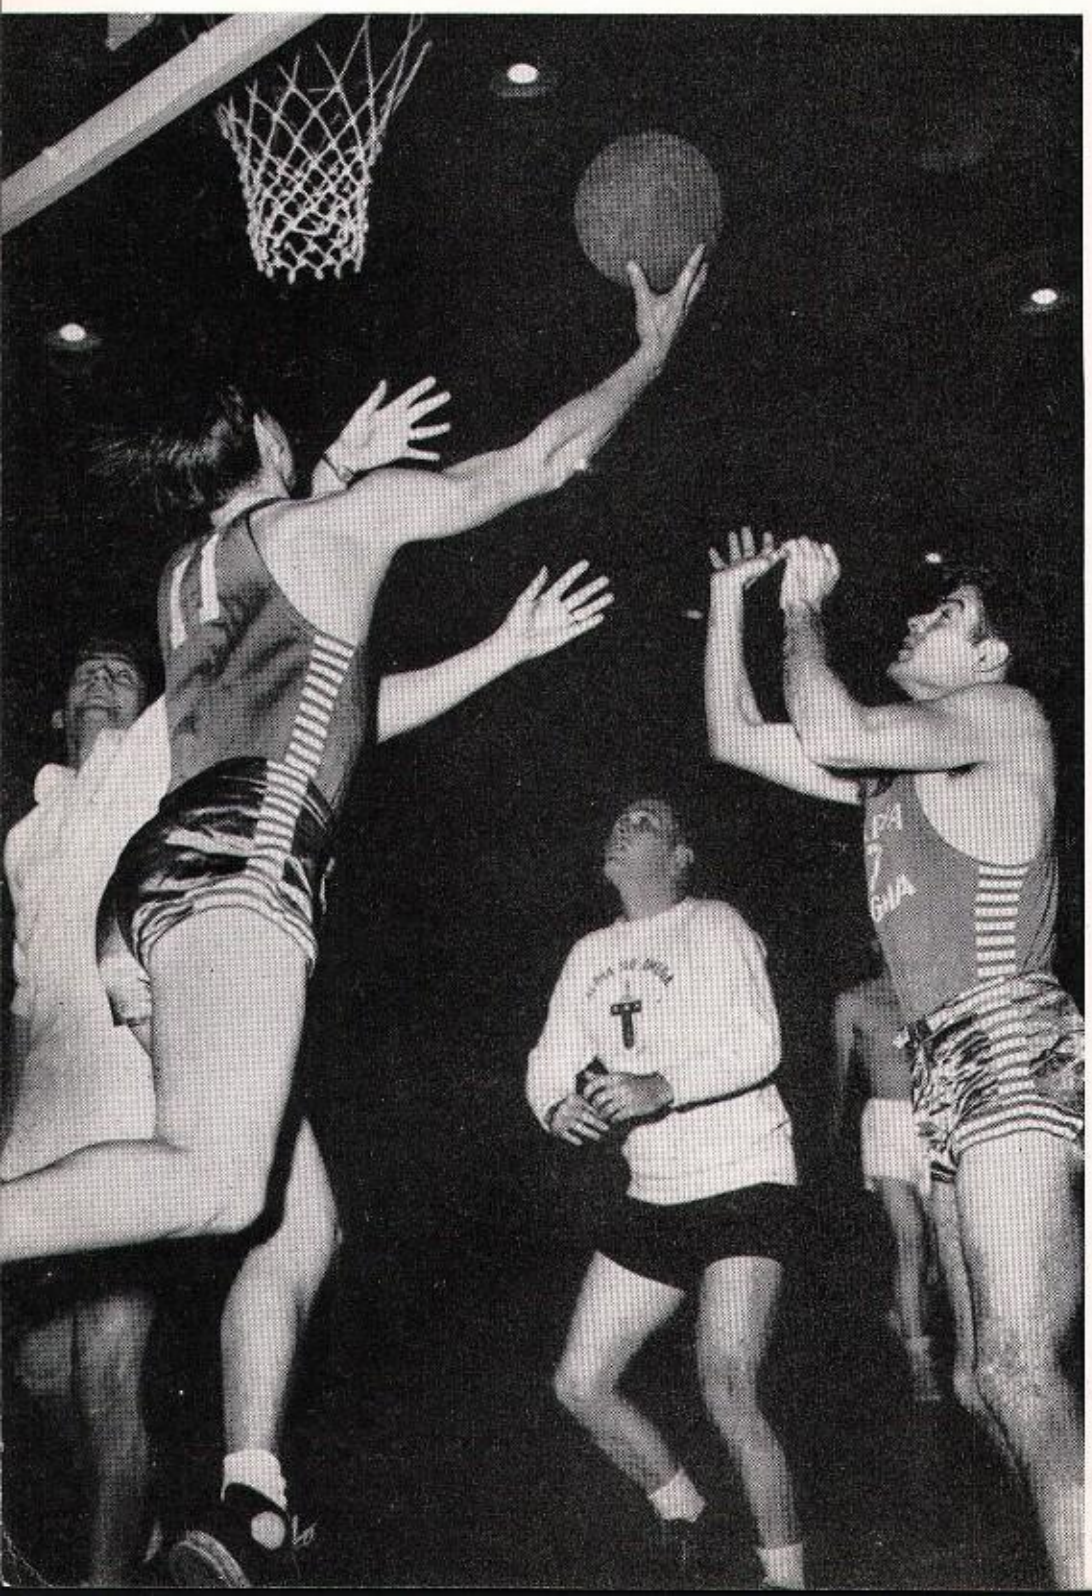
Dave Matthews
Intramural Director

MEN'S INTRAMURALS

Practically every popular sport was included in this year's intramural program, under the direction of Dave Matthews. The cooperative spirit of both the competitors and the instructors was a highlight of the well planned program. Men's physical education majors were selected to act as referees, umpires, and officials.

The intramural program gives every male attending the university an opportunity to participate in any sport that he chooses. The program this year covered basketball, handball, foul shooting, wrestling, swimming, track, horsehoes, softball and bowling.

Kappa Sig's vie against ATO's.



Program Provided for Independents and Greeks

The teams are divided into one section for fraternity men and one for independents. The teams compete against each other for the entire year, accumulating points according to their finishes in the various different events. At the end of the second semester a trophy is given to the group with the most accumulative points gathered in all events. In most of the competition the victors in the individual sports are also given awards. The fraternities receive small trophies and the members of each championship independent team are given medals.

Bowling Was Independent of Athletic Department

Bowling is composed of a fraternity league that is independent of the Athletic Department, but is managed by the league members. The spirit is strong and each Friday night yells and organized cheering sections can be heard outside the doors of Al-mar bowling alleys.

In the hot summer months when most students are spending their vacations either at work or play, students at Bowling Green still enjoy the intramural program set up by Matthews. Last summer Richard Mulvaine directed the program in softball, golf, and horseshoes. The leagues are all played as independents with independent names.

Softball is limited to the "blooper pitch" with the ball in an arc over the pitcher's head after it leaves the pitcher's hand. Golf is played with match play and also with a best ball contest. Many good scores were posted last summer and many of the contestants will probably be heard from this year on the varsity golf team.

Football pries the lid off the competition in the intramural program in the fall. The organization is started the first week that students return to school. This year 32 teams competed for the championship: sixteen teams from three independent leagues, and 16 others made up of two fraternity leagues.

Rockets Won Independent Championship

A very strong independent team, the Rockets, piled up very high scores in annexing the independent championship. Their strong offense machine ground into high gear the first week of play and was never stopped. Their defense, at the same time, was impregnable. They were not scored on until the all-campus championship game against Sigma Chi. In that game they had to come from behind to defeat the Sig's, 18-13, in a very close game.

Sigma Chi rolled to seven straight victories in the Fraternity League to cop the top spot. Sigma Nu ran a close second, finishing their regular season play with a 5 won—one loss record. Sigma Chi tackled Phi Kappa Psi in the championship tourney played at the end of the season and came out on top to gain the right to play the Independent champion Rockets, for the campus championship.

Nine Basketball Leagues Were Formed

In the basketball competition in the winter of 1950, approximately 375 players were organized into 54 teams. The record breaking number of teams was organized into nine leagues, which presented the largest number of intramural basketball organizations in the school's history. The season play began in early January and extended into the latter part of March. Following the regular season play each team took part in playoffs according to their final position in their respective leagues.

This Sigma Chi football squad won the fraternity championship before bowing to the independent league winners.

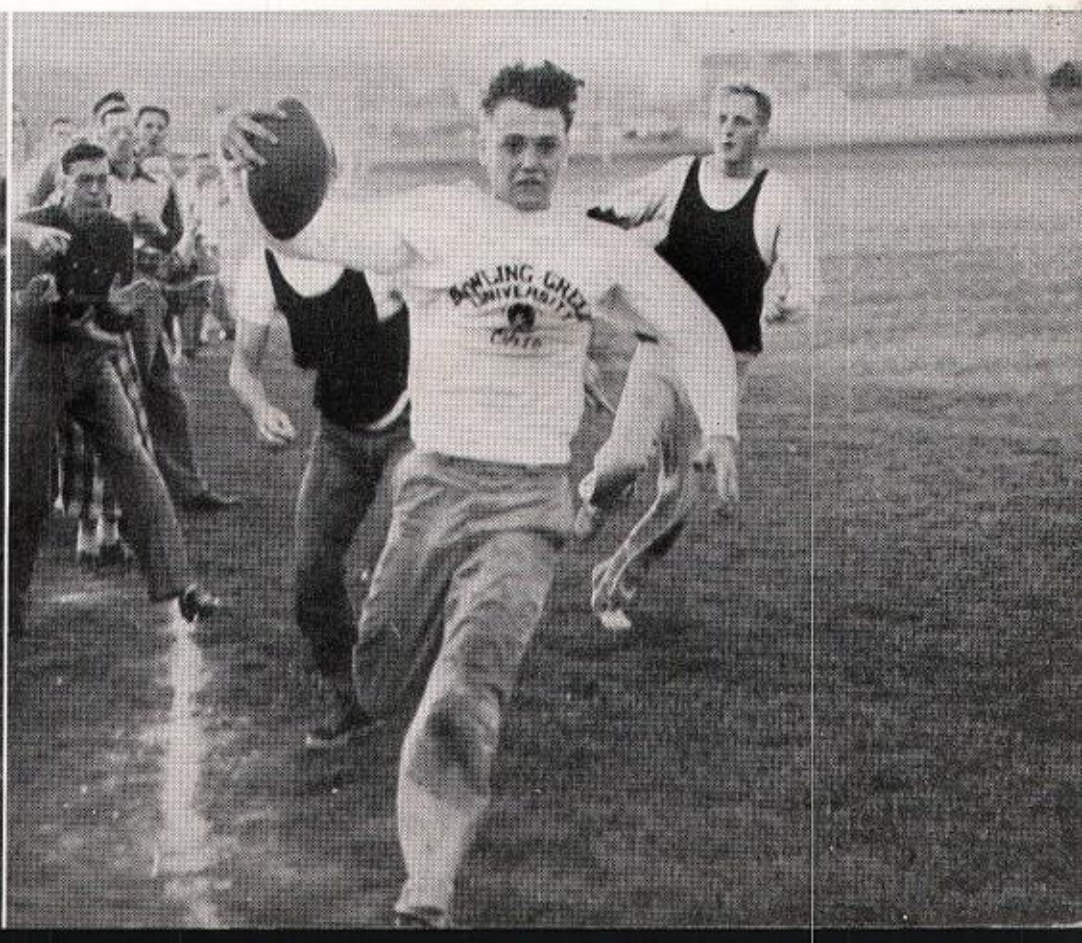
A ball-carrier tightrope walks down the sideline.



Softball was witnessed by many spectators on the balmy spring evenings.

Last year a new system of grading a team's sportsmanship for each game was used. If a team received a rating too low in any two games they were eliminated from further play in the program.

Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Nu clashed for the all-fraternity cage title and Sigma Chi and Sigma Alpha Epsilon met for second place honors. Phi Delta Theta nipped Sigma Nu in a thriller 32-31. The Phi Deltas came from behind to score the winning basket with but eight seconds remaining in the game. Bill Reline sunk the winning basket for Phi Delt. In the consolation game, Sigma Chi squeezed past SAE, 20-17, to take third place honors. Kappa Sigma took fifth place by forcing ATO into sixth place with an 18-11 win.

Porky Oilers Took Independent Honors

"Porky's Oilers", winners of League V in regular season play grabbed first place honors in the Independent league by dropping the "Wildmen", 19-13. The "Oilers" were trailing the "Wildmen" at halftime, 9-6, but put on a second half spurt to finish their regular season play with an undefeated record. The "Buddhas" dropped the "Rams", 29-24, to take second place honors, and the "Browns" took the "Half Pints" 30-22 for third place.

The basketball play was marked with high spirits and the will to win in all games. Few cases of unsportsmanlike conduct were noted.

I-M Softball Started In April

The Intramural softball season swung into high gear shortly after the close of the basketball play. Thirty-seven teams entered the race for the I-M pennant, with fifteen Fraternity teams and 22 independents in the race. Each fraternity played a single game with every other member of the league. At the end of the season the four top squads in each league met in playoffs for the first four places. During April, the games were played on Monday and Saturday, and a much heavier schedule was put in operation in May.

Sigma Nu finished on top in the fraternity race by winning 13 of 14 games. Sigma Alpha Epsilon finished in a three-way tie for second place with Sigma Chi and Phi Delta Theta, all three of the teams posting 11 wins in 14 outings. In the Fraternity playoffs, Phi Delts squeezed past Sigma Chi, 3-2, to take first place and the softball title. In the semi-finals Phi Delt dropped SAE, 4-3, and Sigma Chi defeated the regular season champions 3-1. The SAE's beat the Sigma Chi's in a regular season tilt to retain possession of the "little Brown Jug". In the championship game, Hetrick had a two hitter going into the last of the seventh, but then the roof caved in. In a last minute effort the Phi Delt's shoved across three runs to snatch near victory away from Hetrick.

In the Fraternity Bowling League, SAE was crowned champion, but not until after a two-way fight with Sigma Nu over most of the season. Alpha Tau Omega took third place honors.

Bowlers waiting their turn.

Delts, "Wildmen" Took Swimming

In the swimming competition, Delta Tau Dalta and the "Wildmen" took top spots. DTD barely outswam SAE, winning by the narrowest of margins, 28-27. In the intramural division the "Wildmen" swept past Men's Independent Society, 50-27. MIS placed in practically all events entered, but lacked depth enough to make up for the many first places taken by the "Wildmen".

In the all-campus foul shooting contest, Dick Lewin defeated Bill Breidenbach in a double playoff. In the team competition "Five Stars" took first place by sinking 97 shots out of a possible 125. Phi Delta Theta took second place, and Sigma Nu took third place. Ed Pearson, Vic Bayus, Marvin Croston, Herb Bruick, and Harold Washburn tied in the individual competition by scoring 22 out of 25 tries.

Phi Delts Nosed Out SAE's In Track

Track enthusiasts had their day in the spring events. Phi Delta Theta won the Fraternity championship by nosing out Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 30-29. "Wildmen" captured the independent honors in a tight battle with the "Jokers", 35 to 33½. Phi Delta Theta trailed SAE by one point going into the last event but they defeated SAE by a slim margin to gain first place. Kappa Sigma took third place honors by scoring 14 points. Thurstin Hall ran in third place in the independent division. Phi Delta Theta scored points in eight of the nine events to show enough team depth to take honors.

The winning Sig Alph' Indoor Relay team.

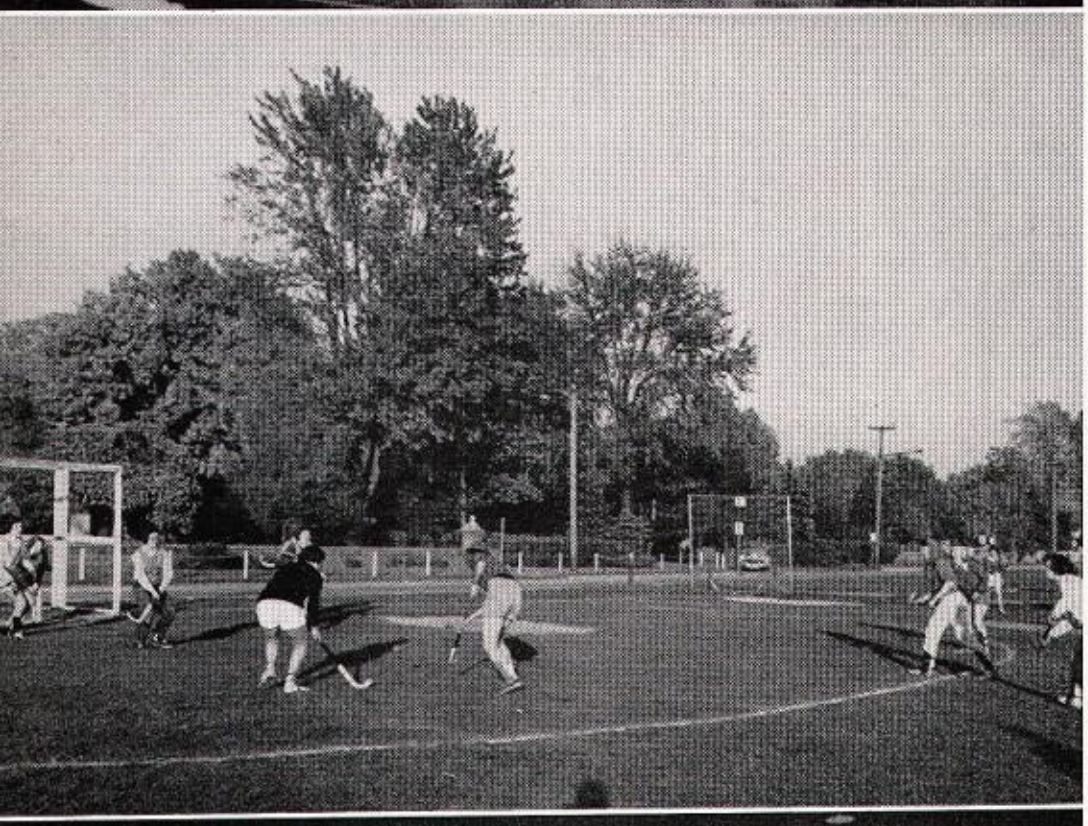
In horseshoes Sigma Alpha Epsilon turned the tables on Phi Delta Theta, nosing them out for first place honors. In the summer months the softball league was composed of twelve teams, which were split to form two leagues, the National and the American. The end of the season saw "Rogge's Rogues" in top spot in the American League and "Skiddilikats" took second. Rockets were in top position in the National League when the season closed. The "Rogues" won the playoff game between the two leagues by dropping the "410 Club" 15-8. The "Rogues" scored nine runs in the second inning to clinch the game early.

A PiKA drives one in handball competition.

Ray Florian Took the Driving Contest

In the golf driving contest held in the summer program, Ray Florian finished on top with a high of 727 yards in his three tries. Harry Larson won the hole-in-one contest when his ball came to a stop a scant six feet from the cup on tee six. The team of Frank Kraft-Dan Everest defeated the team of Ray Florian-Bob Rehark 7-6 to cop the title of the University's Best Ball Golf Champions.

The Intramural program of last year was the most successful ever undertaken at Bowling Green, with all getting a chance to show their ability in any sport.



WOMEN'S

An extensive women's intramural program provided keen competition and hours of good sport for the many interested coeds. Sororities and dorms entered teams in all the various sports that each season offered.

Alumni Beat Seniors, 2-0

Traditional rivalry was resumed Saturday morning of Homecoming week-end as thirty-five alumnae returned for the annual Alum-Senior Hockey game. Both teams were frost-nipped at the close of a close contest, which saw the Alums victorious 2-0 over the Seniors. Following the game, a breakfast was given in honor of the visitors by the chairman of the women's intramural program.

"Lonely Kickers" Won Soccer Championship

Play on the soccer field officially introduced the intramural program. Pat Walther was manager of the soccer season. Many teams entered the competition, but at the end of the season the "Lonely Kickers" were named as soccer champions of 1950-51. Runners-up were: "Grass Cutters" second place; "Flying Soccers" third; and the "Jet" in fourth place.

"Mostly Misses" Took Field Hockey Honors

Field Hockey competition followed the soccer play-offs in early November. Nancy Terry was manager for all teams. Hockey competition proved to be the most keenly contested of all intramural sports. The "Mostly Misses" took first place. A three-way tie between "Cagers", "Odds and Ends", and "Kenny's Kids" resulted for second place, while the "Dodgers" took third.

Bowling Green's athletic coeds participated in the Great Lakes Sectional Hockey Tournament, on November 11, at Hillsdale College, Bloomfield, Michigan. Field hockey games and exhibitions were held. The Hillsdale hostesses served refreshments following the sports day.

INTRAMURALS

On November 16, an All Star Field Hockey game was held. "Brown" edged "Orange" 2-0, to close the hockey season.

The big snows of late November forced the coeds into the gym, where basketball, queen of sports, took over. Belva Daum served as general basketball manager. Entered in the intramural basketball program were twenty-eight teams, in three leagues.

Gamma Phi Beta Won the Volleyball Playoff

Volleyball nets were put up at the close of basketball season, as the intramural program moved into its spring phase. Jane Abbey was manager for volleyball. Following the play-offs between the various teams, Gamma Phi Beta won the volleyball championship.

Eighteen Teams Entered Softball Competition

Sure sign of spring was the appearance of the many softball teams on the diamonds, Pat McKibben served as manager. Eighteen teams entered the intramural competition, in two leagues.

Outstanding award in women's intramurals is the intramural letter. Requirements for the award are: participation in eight seasons of intramural sports; and membership in a minimum of two physical education clubs. Winners of the intramural letter were: Janice Harvey, Joyce McCreery, and Virginia Vince.

An Inter-class Swimming Meet Was Held

Women swimmers were offered opportunities for participation in racing, diving, and synchronized swimming. An inter-class swim meet was held in early May. Featured events were: 75 yard medley relay, 25 yard freestyle, 25 yard breaststroke, 50 yard "bluejean" relay, 25 yard breaststroke, 100 yard freestyle relay, and diving events.

Members of Toledo University held a Sports Day in November, to which participants in the Bowling Green intramural program were invited. Bee Gee coeds took high score in both games they entered. Refreshments were served by the TU coeds following the athletic events.

A few "Greeks" relax for a few minutes of singing the old favorites. The mugs, the black toppers and the dirty white bucks which are in evidence are only a few of the many things that characterize a Greek. Although a member of a social group he also finds it includes a lot of honest, down-to-earth hard work, and the development of a sense of obligation and duty to his "frat".

PANHELLENIC COUNCIL

Panhellenic Council, composed of two representatives and one alumna from each women's fraternity, is the local governing body on campus. Advised by Dean of Women, Mrs. Jesse Currier, it sponsors constructive inter-sorority relations and projects.

An important power of the Council lies in the composing and administration of rushing regulations. The Panhellenic Tea is an annual event at which all women students are invited to attend a series of open houses climaxed with a tea in the Practical Arts Building.

Since one of the aims of the Panhellenic creed is good scholarship, the Council presents the program at which the scholarship achievement awards are presented to the winning sororities.

Another worthwhile project is the support given to underprivileged children at the Piney Woods School in Kentucky. An annual spring banquet climaxes the Council's activities.

Officers are rotated each year among the sororities. Marilyn Mercer was president for 1950-51. Other officers were Marian Krost, vice president; Idora Jones, secretary-treasurer; and Barbara Roberts, corresponding secretary.

INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL

Because it felt that the fraternity system was misunderstood by the general public, Interfraternity Council concentrated upon the field of public relations in 1950-51. A booklet, "Fraternities, Yes or No?", was sent to all incoming freshmen and new students. This publication described the Bowling Green fraternity system.

An additional public relations project was the organization of a number of panel groups who went into communities in the area and talked with local clubs about the fraternity system.

The council revised the rushing rules in an attempt to simplify pledging. It sponsored the annual Greek-Week in the spring which included a banquet, the Inter-fraternity Sing, and a picnic, all held in cooperation with the Wood County Interfraternity Club.

Officers chosen by the council for the past year were Richard Stensby of Sigma Nu, president; Richard Smith of Delta Tau Delta, vice president; and Harold Hakes of Phi Kappa Tau, secretary-treasurer. Dean Arch B. Conklin was adviser of the organization.

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA

Alpha Kappa chapter of Alpha Gamma Delta international social sorority completed its fifth year on the Bowling Green campus.

Early in November the group held the annual "Apple Polishing Party", inviting all professors and instructors of Alpha Gams.

Led by President Patricia Backe, the group sponsored a dance just before semester finals appropriately called the "Book Worm Ball".

During March and April Alpha Gamma Delta sponsored the annual bridge tournament. An engraved cup was awarded to the winners of the tournament.

Individual members bringing honors to the group were: Lee Wylie, who was awarded the Siebens Award at Honors Day for the outstanding senior woman; Patricia Boller who represented the sorority in several University productions; Rita Bosnak who was elected junior representative to the AWS board; and Jane Winfield who was elected corresponding secretary of the AWS board. Carol Hohlfelder was president of Sociology Club.

Aiding President Patricia Backe in sorority affairs was Carol Aumend, vice president. Eleanor Reist was secretary and Jean Applegate served as treasurer.

ALPHA DELTA EPSILON: Rita Goldberg, Lore Cohn, Lora Kaufman, Lila Lesnick, Beverly Bergner, Edi Steinberg, Phyllis Glantz, Davia Kaufelt.

ALPHA DELTA EPSILON

Local Founded 1949

Alpha Delta Epsilon, the youngest social sorority on campus, was founded locally in September 1949. In February 1950 the sorority became a member of the Panhellenic Council.

Members of Alpha Delta Epsilon participated in all campus functions and sponsored social affairs.

Their script for the Charity Drive Variety Show, which was an analogy of "Red-Riding Hood", written by Edi Steinberg, was considered by the judges to be one of the best scripts.

Leading the sorority through its initial stages were Lila Lesnick, president; Lora Kaufman, vice president and secretary; and Beverly Bergner, treasurer.

Advisors to the group were Mrs. Henry Rappaport, Mrs. Richard Ecker, and Mrs. Jacob Cohen.

ALPHA XI DELTA

Alpha Xi Delta, the oldest national sorority on campus, was established at Bowling Green in April, 1943.

With their presentation of Rita Roof dressed in a poodle costume and labeled "chow-hound", the Xi's won a silver pie plate at the Pi Kappa Alpha Pie-eating contest last year. The plate was awarded for the best introduction of respective pie-eaters in the men's and women's division.

Mary Legas was a finalist in this year's Key Beauty contest. Ann Huston was last year's Dream Girl of Pi Kappa Alpha. She also received a gold cup for being the outstanding player in the Powderbowl Game, in which the Alpha Xi Deltas challenged the Delta Gammas to match muscles on the gridiron.

Outstanding in campus activities were Janet Dunson and Betty Jane Morris, both Cap and Gown members.

ALPHA PHI

Beta Omicron of Alpha Phi is one of the oldest and largest sororities on campus.

This year it was prominent in many campus events, winning first prize in Homecoming decorations, second place in the May Sing, and third in the Key float contest. Its candidate was one of the six Key Beauty finalists.

Alpha Phi is well known for its impressive annual Christmas tea and its Farewell Formal.

Outstanding members of Alpha Phi included President Betsy Curtiss, also president of Kappa Lambda and treasurer of Cap and Gown; Janice Schreiber, second vice president of AWS; Joan Bache, treasurer of Psi Chi and member of Book and Motor; Mary Ellis, treasurer of Pi Epsilon; and Mary Jo Grimsley, secretary of Quill Type.

Members of the sorority were also active in Sigma Tau Delta, Phi Sigma Mu, Kappa Mu Epsilon, Sigma Delta Pi, and Kappa Delta Pi, other campus honoraries.

Assisting President Betsy Curtiss in sorority affairs were Vice President Mary Hartup, Recording Secretary Betty Pierson, Corresponding Secretary Jean Hauri, and Treasurer, Mary Jo Grimsley.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

Under the capable leadership of President Betty Coen, Beta Phi chapter of Alpha Chi Omega has enjoyed many honors this year. Norma Herge represented them in Cap and Gown, while membership in other honoraries included Sigma Tau Delta, Gamma Theta Upsilon, Kappa Delta Pi, Delta Phi Delta, Phi Sigma Mu, and Beta Pi Theta.

Outstanding beauties were Judy Petrich as Kapp Sigs' "Venus for a Day" and Mary Agnew as one of the six Key Beauty finalists. Jeannine Morris was attendant to the Homecoming Queen and Dottie Karantonis was attendant to the queen at the "Little Brown Jug" annual tilt between SAE and Sigma Chi. The Sigma Chis chose Pinky Tomlinson as their Sweetheart for 1950.

The Alpha Chis presented two trophies at the Homecoming game for the best house decorations in the men's and women's divisions. They also presented a scholarship plaque to the sorority pledge class with the highest point average. They added to their trophies this year the Key Float award.

Assisting Betty Coen, president, were Dottie Karantonis and Barbara Zellars, vice presidents; Lee McCall, corresponding secretary; Norma Herge, recording secretary; and Louise Tomlinson, treasurer.

CHI OMEGA

The Chi Omega house was literally turned into an 1890's saloon, complete with flora-dora girls and handle-bar mustaches, when the Chi Os held their annual "Gay Nineties" party last fall. An old time vaudeville show was put on and a prettiest-leg contest was held to determine which fellow looked best wearing the Chi O garter.

The sorority held its party for the County Home at Christmas time. Each year at Honors Day, Chi Omega gives a cash award for the outstanding person in social science.

Phyllis Knapp, president, was a member of Book and Motor and Kappa Delta Pi.

Members were active in other campus organizations including Sigma Delta Phi, Beta Pi Theta, Pi Omega Pi, Theta Alpha Phi, Sigma Pi Rho, Kappa Lambda, Kappa Delta Pi, AWS, and Swan Club.

Aiding President Knapp in sorority offices were Barbara Hobensack, vice president; Virginia Brown, secretary; Jo Shank, treasurer; and Joyce Bormuth, corresponding secretary.

DELTA GAMMA

The Delta Gammas were led through a very prosperous year by their officers: Jean MacGlathery, president; Donna Walker, vice president; Midge Dague, recording secretary; Dotti Burger, corresponding secretary; and Janet Kime, treasurer.

First on the DG schedule in the fall was the annual "Show Boat Dance" with the traditional minstrel show given at intermission. A victory for the DGs was the first annual "Powderpuff Bowl" football game between the Alpha Xi Deltas and the Delta Gammas.

Among the honors received by Delta Gamma members were: Ann Barbour, May Queen; Patsy Thomas May Queen attendant; Jean MacGlathery, Homecoming Queen attendant and "Miss Bee Gee"; and Marilyn Mersereau, Daisy Mae.

Delta Gamma contributed officers to various clubs and honoraries on campus such as ACE, Swan Club, Home Economics Club, Pi Omega Pi, and Quill Type.

Donna Walker, Nancy Hickenlooper, and Jean MacGlathery represented the sorority in Cap and Gown.

DELTA ZETA

Installation as the Gamma Tau chapter of Delta Zeta sorority on Dec. 9 culminated a four-year dream for Sigma Rho Tau.

The charter members of Gamma Tau chapter, being the second sorority to attain a B plus average, were awarded the coveted Esther Russell Scholarship Cup. Besides placing second in the Homecoming decorations contest, they won the Pie Eating contest last spring.

Delta Zeta was active socially, presenting two all-campus annual dances, "Shanghai Shag" and "Starlight Street". Numerous parties were given including those honoring fraternities going national.

Those who wear the lamp were well represented in dramatics, debate, publications, music, and various other organizations and honoraries. Edith Ludwig, student conductor of Treble Clef, wrote the 1950 prize student musical, "Love Goes to College".

The Delta Zetas lived temporarily at the University Guest House until the completion of their new home.

Officers included Marilyn Pepple, president; Joanne Dunn, vice president; Florence Beatty, recording secretary; Marilyn Eckert, corresponding secretary and Luella Cruzen, treasurer.

Everyone seems to be happy but the girl on the left. Why? Her partner just left her in a secondary suit.

For the third time in four years a Gamma Phi Beta reigned as Homecoming Queen. This year's queen was Nedra Mason. Other beauties in the sorority are Marion Callaway, Key beauty finalist and also attendant to "Miss Bee Gee", and Pat Workman, Sophomore Silhouette.

This year Gamma Phi Beta's float placed second in the Key Parade. Other honors included the Sigma Chi Derby Day trophy for the second consecutive year, the award for the Kappa Sigma Chariot Race, and the volley ball trophy.

Each year Gamma Phi Beta presents the May Sing Cup. This year a new cup was purchased to replace the old one. The annual all-campus "Cresent Mood" dance was held in October.

Membership in campus honoraries included Book and Motor, Cap and Gown, AWS, Delta Phi Delta, Phi Sigma Mu, Sigma Phi, Kappa Mu Epsilon, Kappa Delta Pi, Sigma Alpha Eta, Kappa Alpha Mu, Pi Epsilon, and Delta Psi Kappa.

Officers this year were: Polly Miller, president; Dawn Voelzow, vice president; Shirley Willyard, secretary; and Joyce Lohrentz, treasurer.

KAPPA DELTA

The Kay Dees returned to Bowling Green for their fifth year as a national organization and added to their honors the trophy for the greatest participation in the women's division of the first All-Charity Drive.

For the second consecutive year, Kappa Delta held the May Sing Cup which is awarded in May to the best singing women's group.

Sue Coffman, Kay Dee candidate for Key Beauty, was chosen as one of the six finalists.

Amidst noise-makers and colorful hats, the sorority gave its annual Halloween Party for the children in Happy Hall. Turning to scholarship, Kappa Delta was named third for the February, 1950, semester.

Kappa Deltas were active in campus organizations and honoraries such as AWS, Book and Motor, Pi Epsilon, Sigma Phi, Kappa Delta Pi, Delta Phi Delta, Kappa Mu Epsilon, Phi Sigma Mu, Psi Chi, Sigma Delta Pi, Newman Club, Treble Clef, A Cappella Choir, and publications.

Officers were: Mary Jane MacDougall, president; Beverly Grauser, vice president; Lois Cannon, secretary; and Lois Middagh, treasurer.

PHI MU

The Phi Mus launched their activities for the year with their third annual Enchantress Ball on Oct. 7. Enchantment was lent by the sparkling stars hanging from a black ceiling through which a large golden moon shone.

This year the sorority again presented the Philomethean award at Honors Day to the outstanding senior majoring in music.

Among the honors awarded Phi Mu this year was the plaque presented to its pledges for the highest point average among sorority pledges.

Pat Thompson was one of the attendants at the ROTC Military Ball, and Dwanda Schad was one of the six Key Beauty finalists.

Phi Mus were also well represented and hold offices in several honoraries, such as Kappa Delta Pi, Sigma Tau Delta, Delta Phi Delta, Phi Sigma Mu, and Psi Chi.

Phi Mu alumnae of Bowling Green presented the group with a silver plate on which are engraved the names of girls who receive a 4 point average.

ALPHA DELTA PI

Alpha Delta Pi, formerly Theta Phi, became the eleventh national sorority on the Bowling Green campus in the spring of 1951.

The Alpha Delta Pi's began their activities for the 1950-51 school year in September with a disc dance "The Rainbow Request" at which dancers selected their own records.

At their closed formal in February, the Alpha Delta Pi's carried out their traditional theme of snowbound. At this dance they chose "The Man With Whom They Would Like To Be Snowbound". Their all-campus orchestra dance "The Bunny Hop" was held just before Easter vacation.

Each year at Honors Day exercises, Alpha Delta Pi presents to the outstanding sophomore woman in journalism the Joy Fuller Cup in memory of a Theta Phi.

The outstanding active this year was Ellie Elsass, who was president of AWS and a member of Cap and Gown.

Officers of Alpha Delta Pi this year were Sue Walsh, president; Janet Cotner, vice president; Jo Maney, recording secretary; Gloria Wood, corresponding secretary; and Gwen Clark, treasurer.

One of the most popular dances held on campus is the "Sadie Hawkins" dance, sponsored annually by Alpha Tau Omega. Students come dressed in Dogpatch style, and a beard growing contest, and Daisy Mae-Little Abner election is held.

The ATOs also sponsor an annual Dad's Day, at which time an outstanding father of a football player is honored at a half-time ceremony.

Representing the group on campus was Dick Doll, president of Omicron Delta Kappa, and treasurer of the senior class. Fred Ricketts was president of Alpha Phi Omega and the Industrial Arts Club. Jack Chapman captained the golf team.

ATO captured third place in the Bowling League and was runner-up in the Homecoming decorations.

Officers were: Ray Rennebaum, president; Ray Van Horn, vice president; Douglas Dellefield, secretary; Paul Howre, treasurer; and Don Scott, historian.

GAMMA THETA NU

Gamma Theta Nu, last remaining local fraternity at Bowling Green, is petitioning Theta Xi. In 1950, the group took a major step towards nationalization, when it moved into the new house on the corner of Prospect and Court Sts.

Last year, they gave a banquet for Ray Anthony before the Anniversary Prom, and finished the year with an all-campus "Farewell Dance" for the graduating seniors. Gamma Theta Nu had the distinction of ranking third in fraternity scholastic averages last year. They also sponsored an annual "Starlight Dream Dance", held on the first weekend of the fall semester.

Actively participating in intramural athletics, Gamma Theta Nu won the Fraternity Golf Championship held last spring.

DELTA TAU DELTA

Delta Tau Delta, one of the eight nationals on Fraternity Row, last year had the distinction of having the largest advance in scholarship of the 16 groups. The Delts also won the All-Campus Debate Tournament in 1950, and took first place in the Fraternity Swimming Meet. They had the high team game in bowling.

Active on campus was Carl Huston, editor of Eyas, student literary magazine. Don Eaton held the office of president of Delta Phi Delta and art editor of the Freshman Handbook. He also drew the cartoon, "Kampus Kop" for the Bee Gee News.

The Delts give three closed dances each year: the "Bohemian Brawl", held during the last of March, and two formals, one in the spring, and the other in winter.

Officers were: Carl Huston, president; Donald Cook, vice president; Edwards Vernon, recording secretary; Dan Kolarik, treasurer; and Richard Smith, corresponding secretary.

Delta Upsilon, nationalized only two years ago, and possessor of its own house on Main St., collected an astonishing number of trophies during 1950. The DU's captured first place in such annual events as the Pie-Eating Contest, the Bridge Tournament, and the Chariot Race. Their major win was the Song Contest, highlight of festivities sponsored each spring by the Wood County Inter-Fraternity Council. They also placed second in the Bee Gee Relays decorations.

Several members held prominent positions on campus. Guy Smith was a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, Book and Motor, and Phi Alpha Chi. Danny Kohl, Falcon drum major, won outstanding awards in national baton twirling contests, and John Grill was a member of the varsity baseball team.

Officers were: Dale Patterson Jr., president; Jack Jadel, vice president; Ranston Davis, secretary; Dan Kohl, treasurer; Don Leedy, corresponding secretary; and Dave Guest, assistant treasurer.

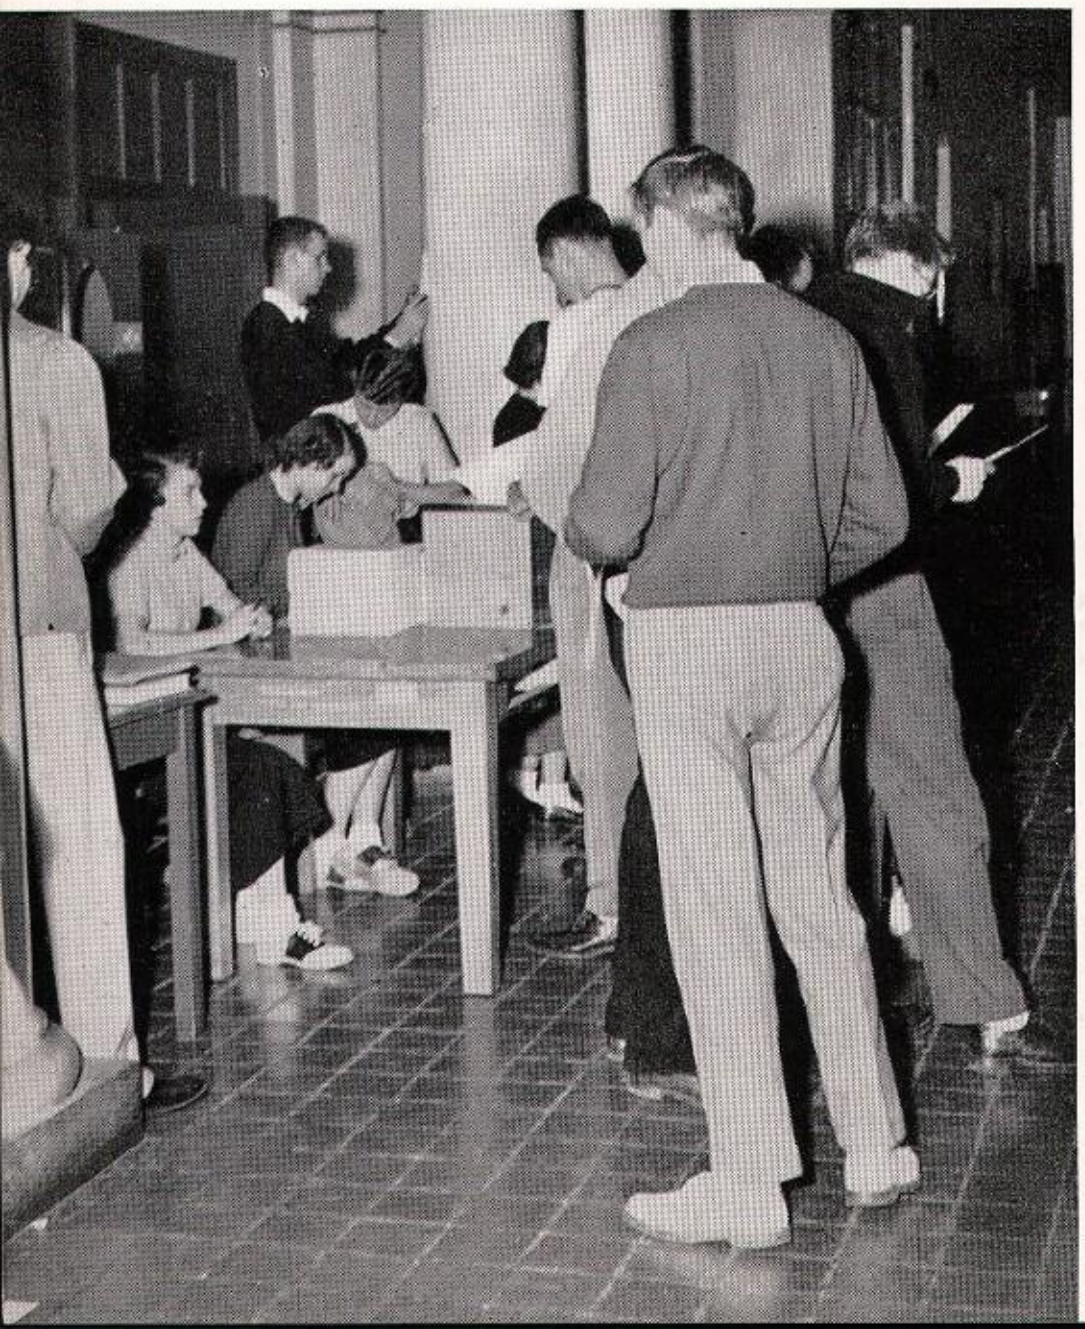
Students cast their ballots for Key beauties.



Over 1500 spectators watched the annual Key parade.

OVER 1500 VIEWED THE 1950 KEY PARADE

Key Editor Allan Libbe awards the first place trophy to Alpha Chi Omega's Mary Agnew.

After rain caused the postponement of the originally scheduled Key parade, the worried Key staff members breathed a sigh of relief when the next weekend brought clear, sunny weather. This was the first case of a postponement in the parade's history.

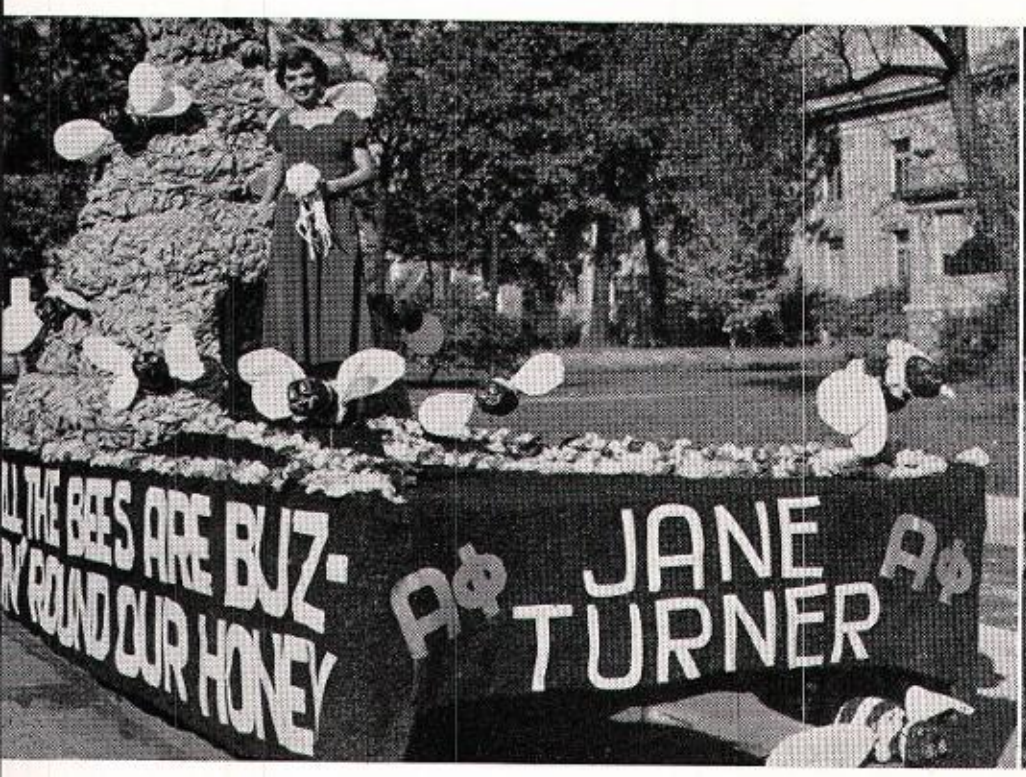
All types of themes and ideas were presented by the sororities and independent houses in the colorful parade which was witnessed by over 1500 spectators. The Alpha Chi Omega float, which depicted a Sundae Special, won first place. The Gamma Phi's with their "champagne" theme took second. "The bees are buzzin" theme of the Alpha Phi's took third place.

The following week the candidates were voted on by the student body, and the six finalists were chosen.

The final judging this year was done by the Cleveland Browns, which has adopted Bowling Green as its temporary home for pre-season practice in the late summer and early fall. The Browns were national champions in professional football.

A first and second place were chosen from the six finalists.

The Alpha Phi float placed third.



The Gamma Phi's "champagne idea" placed second.

"From beanie to cap and gown in four years"—the trials and tribulations of college student are summed up in this short sentence. Orienting oneself to the different surroundings, deciding on a course of study, and living with other people were all problems faced and conquered by the college student before he achieved the long sought after diploma.

The Student Body

THE FRESHMAN CLASS NUMBERED OVER 1000

From many states and foreign countries, over 1000 freshmen arrived on the Bowling Green campus at the beginning of last year. After undergoing a period of hazing and orientation that yearly is given incoming freshmen, they emerged as full-fledged Falcons. Winning the annual Freshman-Sophomore Field Day, they tossed aside their frosh beanies that marked them as being apart from the rest of the student body, and settled down to the tempo of life at the University.

One of the first activities the freshmen engaged in as a class was election of officers. After a series of campaigns and rallies, the frosh cast their ballots and chose Charles Green, president; Dick White, vice president; Joan Payne, secretary; and Connie Lesh, treasurer.

Proving their choice a good one, President Green set to organizing the class for action. An innovation originating in this year's class was an advisory committee consisting of representatives from the various freshman living quarters. This system gave the officers a chance to get closer to the class members and discover their ideas and opinions on various matters.

Some of the activities and functions sponsored by the class included selling class cards and holding a closed freshman dance.

DECIDING ON A MAJOR WAS A PROBLEM

During their sophomore year, members of the Class of '53 were drawn even closer to the ways of life at Bowling Green. Surviving the hectic and hazardous freshman year, sophomores returned to find themselves in the more secure No. 3 position.

Tables turned, they found themselves in charge of the hazing of this year's freshmen. Wearing beanies and learning the Alma Mater were part of the ritual enforced by the sophomores. Then there was the annual Freshman-Sophomore Field Day, in which members of the two classes competed in various events. The losing sophomores allowed the freshmen to discard their beanies and gain equality with the other classes.

Making at least tentative choices of their majors, the soph's settled down to more serious studies. Many of the feminine members of the class, who were majoring in elementary education, counted this as their last year before teaching. Male sophomores regarded their draft status as possibly causing an interruption in their college career.

So that the Class of '53 would always be remembered as an active one on campus, a memorial tradition was instituted by them. Class activities included a closed dance in the Falcons Nest and a class picnic. Under the leadership of Wally Jones, president; Jerry Klever, vice president; Anne Huston, secretary; and Tom Sullivan, treasurer, the sophomores carried their year to a successful conclusion. Working with the other classes to build up tradition and school spirit, the Class of '53 aided in binding the student body closer together.

THE JUNIORS WERE THE SMALLEST CLASS

"Small, but mighty" could well be the motto of this year's junior class and of its president, Bob Taylor. Smallest of the University's four classes, the juniors made up for their lack of numbers by their many class activities and functions. Led by small and dynamic Taylor, the class also had Jerry Kempter, vice president; Pat Ledford, secretary; and Don Miller, treasurer, to guide them through the year.

First of the classes to sponsor a party, the Class of '52 had its "Bar B Q" in the Falcons Nest soon after the beginning of the school term.

Looking forward to the coming year when they will be seniors, members of the class held many key positions in clubs and organizations on campus. This also was the year when many members of the class were pledged to honorary organizations in the fields in which they had majored or done outstanding work.

Days of playing were past as the juniors settled down to the serious business of preparing for their chosen professions. Choosing the correct subjects and getting the right hours in their major and minor fields were important to them.

Male members of the class settled down to work, with an eye on the grades that would allow them to remain in school and be graduated instead of being caught in the draft.

The feminine members of the class, comprising a little more than half of the total membership, were hopeful that the draft situation would remain favorable as the international situation got worse.

Days when college students could be isolated behind ivy-covered walls had faded in the past as the Class of '52 faced new responsibilities.

OVER 850 SENIORS WERE GRADUATED IN '51

As they faced their departure from Bowling Green, the seniors of 1951 began to look back on their years here and realize what these years had meant.

Looking forward, they faced a future full of uncertainty, while the college past looked more carefree and desirable than ever. All of the studies that had been so difficult, the worries that had seemed so ominous, the causes that had seemed so important, now became happy memories that were certain to become more pleasant in the coming years.

Life at Bowling Green was over, but the memory of those years would always remain with them.

The school traditions, Homecoming, and May Day were among some of the most cherished memories of the bygone days. The seniors could also remember the tradition of the Senior Prom that they, themselves, had begun.

Student teaching, leadership of clubs, and other activities kept them constantly active right up to the final hour.

Graduation was a big step. After four years, the seniors found it hard to leave Bowling Green where they had spent some of the best years of their lives.

But the seniors were leaving with a promise. This promise was to try to keep the world so that others could have the good times that they had had in school; that others, when facing graduation, could look out into a world more assuring and encouraging than the one they faced.

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Ralph G. Harshman, Dean of the College of Business Administration.

Appointed as the first Dean of the College of Business Administration in 1937, Dean Ralph G. Harshman has held that position ever since.

In addition to his duties as Dean, he is a member of the executive, athletic, and library committees. He also belongs to Book and Motor scholastic honorary and Tau Kappa Alpha debating honorary. He is a member of the Alpha Tau Omega social fraternity.

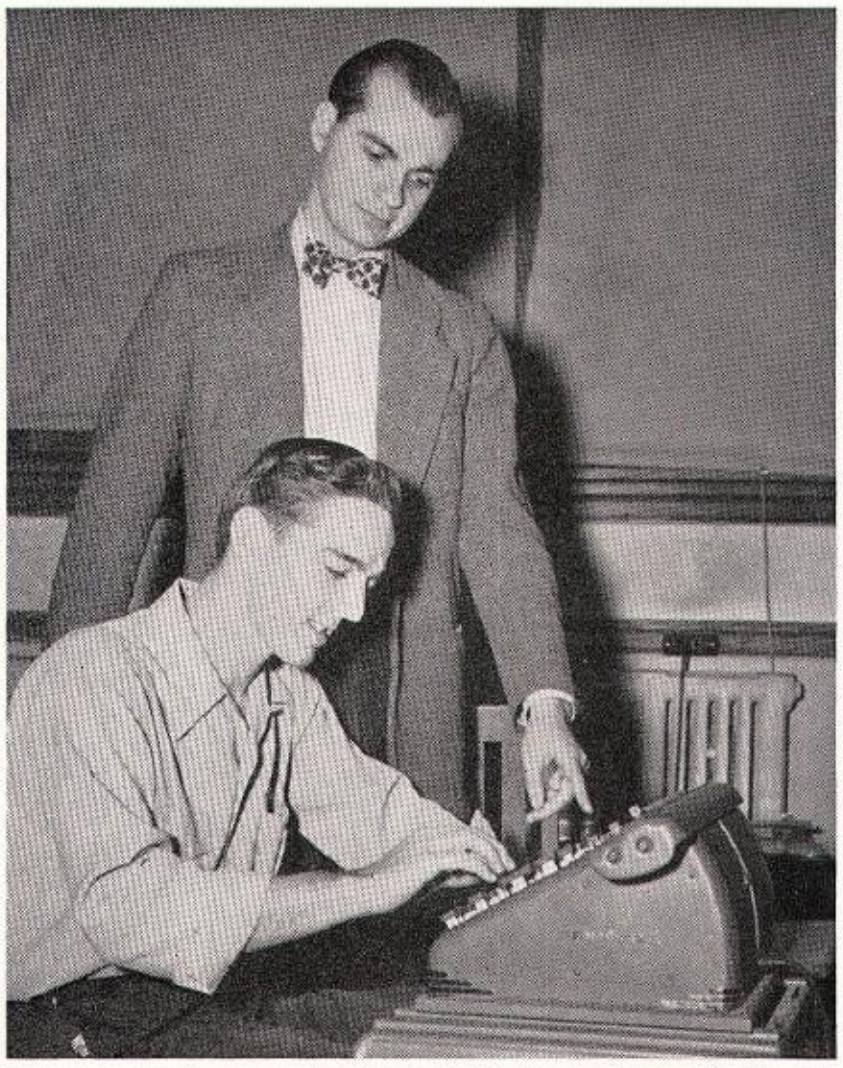
Prior to coming to Bowling Green in 1936, Dean Harshman spent several years as a Director of Sales Training in an industry in Dayton. He was a professor of economics and business administration at Mt. Union College for seven years and, at one time, served as the educational director of a firm in Alliance.

Dean Harshman received his B.S. in Ed. degree from Ohio Northern University and the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Ohio State University.

The College of Business Administration provides training both for those who wish to engage in business as a life career, and for those in other lines of work who feel the need for instruction in this field. The work of the first two years is planned to give the student a broad training in the fundamentals of a liberal education. The last two years then provide specialization in the particular field in which the student is interested.

The College was founded in 1936 after its authorization by an act of the Ohio legislature. It operated under the College of Liberal Arts for one year.

Students who complete the requirements for graduation from the College of Business Administration are granted the degree of B.S. in Bus. Ad. Candidates for this degree must meet a number of requirements which include earning a minimum of from 126 to 135 semester hours of credit, earning a point-average of at least 2.0 in all courses undertaken, meeting all the requirements for their particular field, and completing at least 12 hours of electives in liberal, non-business subjects.



Business students find that the ability to operate the different types of computing machines is often a valuable time saver.

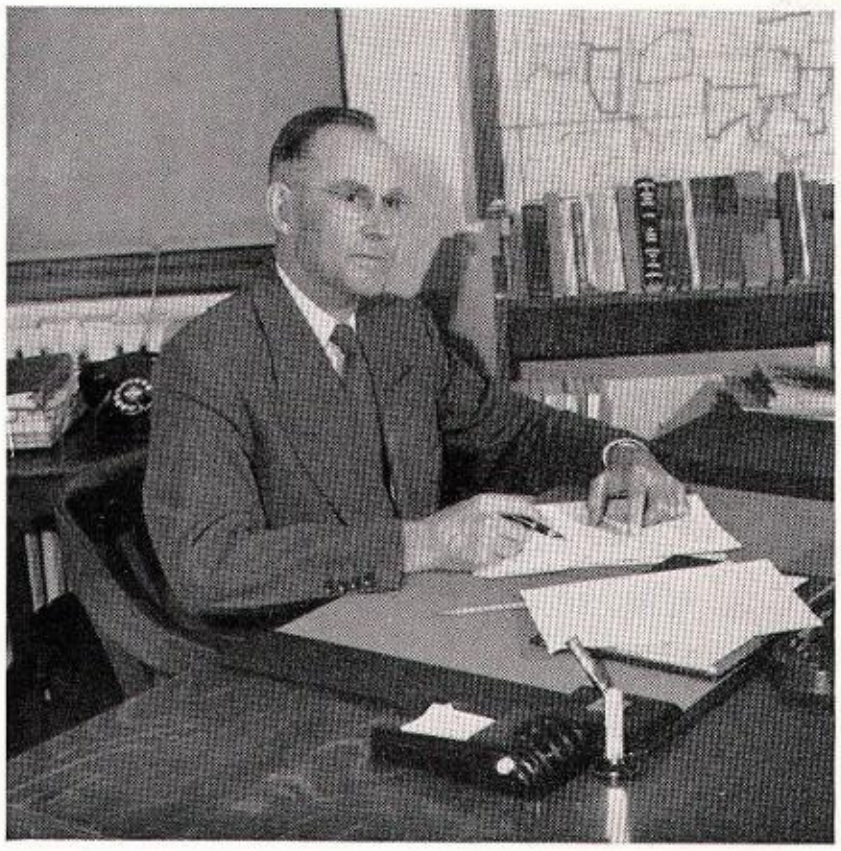
COLLEGE OF EDUCATION



Herschel Litherland, Dean of the College of Education.

Appointed Dean of Education in 1947, Dean Herschel Litherland has served in this capacity for the past three years.

Dean Litherland, a faculty member at this University since 1941, has been very influential in the development of more adequate student-teaching facilities and the expansion of his College. In his university career, he has received three degrees: a B.A. degree from Greenville, Illinois, a M.A. degree from the University of South Dakota, and a Ph.D. degree from the University of Cincinnati.

Prior to coming to Bowling Green, he served as Dean of his alma mater at Greenville, Illinois, as professor at Ohio Northern University, and as superintendent of the Allen County Schools.

He is a member of a number of outside committees and professional organizations including the National Association of Supervisors of Student Teaching. Dean Litherland is also an honorary member of Phi Delta Kappa and Kappa Delta Phi.

The curricula of the College of Education are organized to meet the needs of men and women who intend to enter the teaching profession. Courses are offered in elementary, secondary, and special education, leading to the degree of B.S. in Ed.

The College is a member of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education, which is the accrediting agency for institutions preparing teachers.

Candidates for the degree of B.S. in Ed. must meet entrance requirements, complete at least 30 semester hours of work in residence immediately preceding graduation, secure 124 to 136 semester hours of credit, earn a point-average of at least 2.0 in all courses, and meet all the group and major and minor requirements specified in their particular field.

In order to insure a general education background, in addition to a fair degree of specialization, students in all the colleges have to complete a number of hours in each of the following groups or fields of study: English and speech, health and physical education, mathematics or science, and social studies. As a part of the minimum hour requirements for graduation, each student in the College of Education, in addition to the required professional courses in education, must secure credit for a specified number of hours in each of these fields.

Practice teaching is an important phase of the educational curricula at Bowling Green. In the Lab School Gym elementary student teachers get their first experience in handling children.

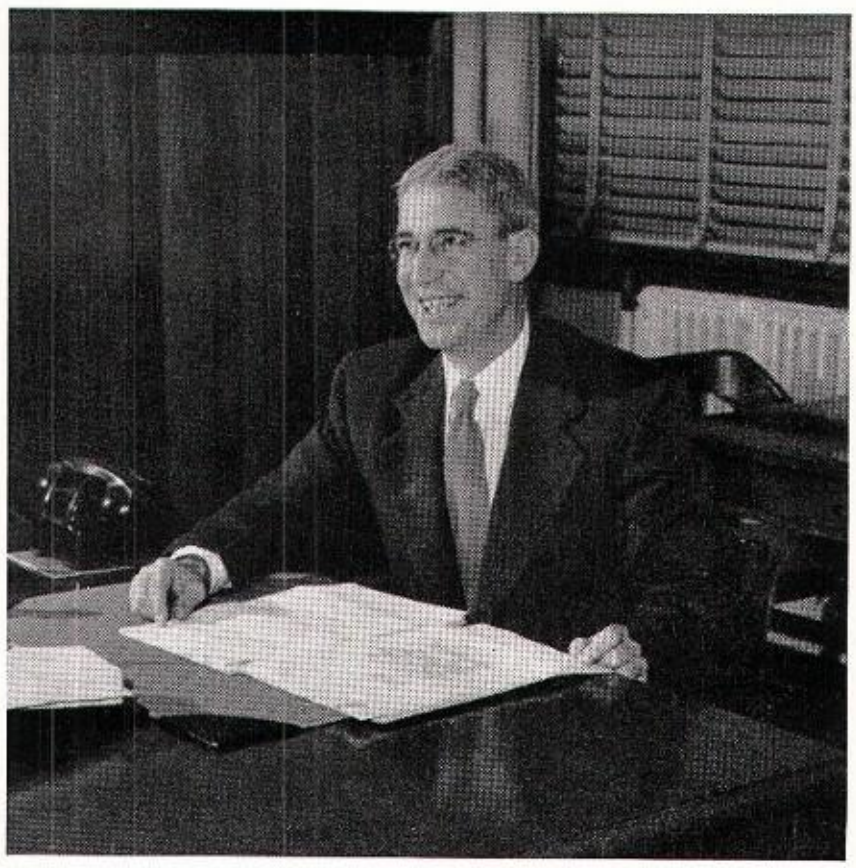
COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS



Kenneth H. McFall, Dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

The College of Liberal Arts was established in 1930 with Dean Emeritus James R. Overman as its first director.

The College is approved by recognized standardizing bodies. Students who complete the requirements for graduation are granted a B.A. or B.S. degree.

The group requirements for graduation include 12 semester hours of English and speech, a total of 16 semester hours of foreign language (or its equivalent), a minimum of 12 semester hours of natural science or mathematics, and 12 semester hours of social studies.

Each student chooses a field of primary interest and another secondary interest. These constitute the major and minor fields. This specialization prepares the student for graduate work in a special field, for entrance into a professional college, or for a vocation.

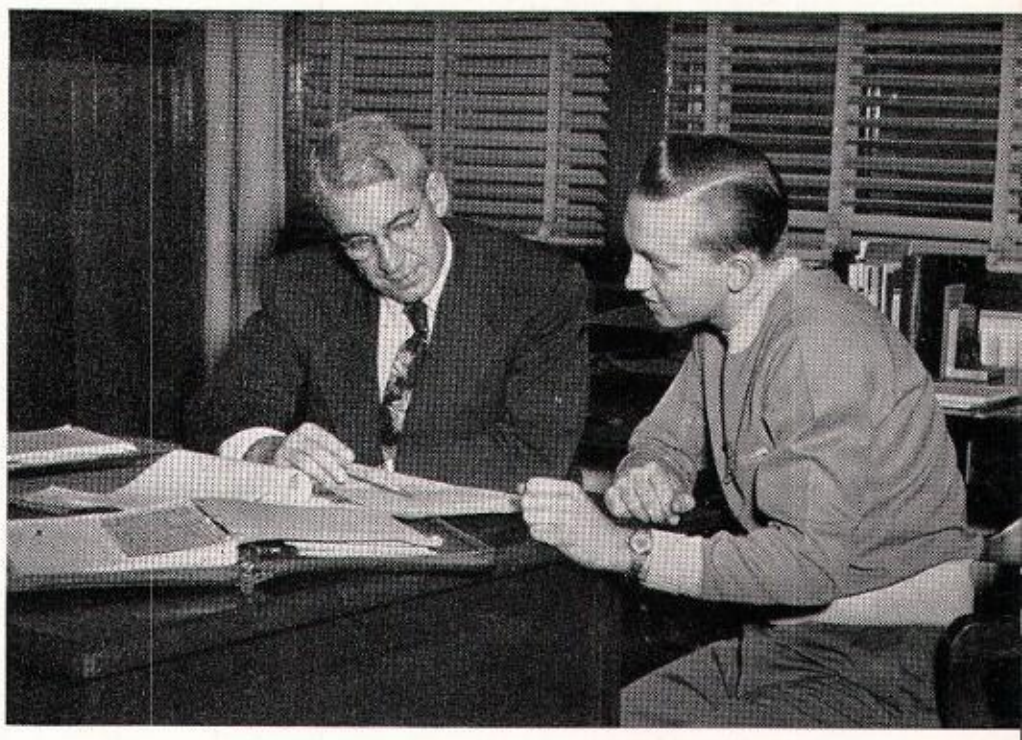
More then 1,100 students were enrolled in the College of Liberal Arts during the past year.

Dr. Kenneth H. McFall was appointed Dean of the College of Liberal Arts in June, 1948. Dean McFall came to Bowling Green in 1943 and served as Dean of Freshman Students and Director of Guidance prior to his present position. He also served for a period as the Assistant Dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

Dean McFall received his M.A. degree and Ph.D. degree at Western Reserve University. His B.S. degree is from Mt. Union College.

When not busily endorsing the liberal education that is the object of the College of Liberal Arts, Dean McFall serves as a member of the athletic, executive, placement, and scholarship committees.

Dean McFall is also a member of a number of professional organizations including the American Conference of Deans, the American Educational Research Association, and national educational bodies. He belongs to the Pi Gamma Mu and Tau Kappa Alpha honorary societies and is a member of the national vocational advisory board of his social fraternity, Alpha Tau Omega.



Much of Dean McFall's time is spent counseling students.

A LOT MORE TRAVEL
for A LOT LESS MONEY

CHARTER a GREYHOUND

Keep your crowd together!

• Relax aboard your own private Supercoach! Chartered Greyhound gets student groups, or any groups, to out-of-town games or on other group jaunts quickly, conveniently and comfortably. And the cost is much less than you think—often lower than Greyhound's regular, economical fares. For complete charter information, call your nearest Greyhound Agent.
